Will Be Asked to Give Indictments In Plot to Kill Seafarers' Leader

Hackensack, N. J., Dec. 28 (AP)—The Bergen county grand jury meets today in a special session with Prosecutor Guy Calissi expected to ask for indictments in the alleged plot to kill AFL Seafarers' leader Paul Hall.

As the panel prepared to meet at Calissi's request, the prosecutor advanced a theory that the purported plot might be the latest brush in what he called a war between rival factions of the union.

Calissi said this theory was unearthed by his aides who went to Florida to check angles in Tampa in connection with the case.

About a month ago, Calissi said, the windshield of a car driven by William B. Higgs was splattered by bullets in Tampa. Higgs was described as a close associate of Ray White of Tampa, a union official free in $3,000 bond on a charge of conspiring to murder Hall.

Calissi said that Bergen county authorities served a New Jersey warrant on White at 1 a. m. today charging conspiracy to commit murder.

First Asst. Prosecutor Fred C. Galda and two detectives reported to Calissi they spent all day yesterday seeking White, but finally with Florida police placed White under arrest. Details of the arrest were not available.

White and Hall are opponents for a $28,000-a-year post as secretary treasurer of the AFL Seafarers' International Union of North America.

The alleged plot—described by White as "just a big smear"—came to light last Thursday on a tip from an undisclosed source.

Police went to Hall's home in Montvale, N. J. They arrested 33-year-old James E. Cobb of Tampa as he was driving towards the Hall home.

Cobb told Calissi that White promised him $15,000 to do away with Hall by New Year's Day, and that he received $2,000 as a down payment.

In another of the fast moving developments in the case yesterday, Calissi announced he planned to ask Capt. William Bradley, president of the Independent International Longshoremen's Assn., to appear before the regular county grand jury on Jan. 3. The county prosecutor would not give a reason for his wanting to talk to Bradley.

The $2,000 allegedly paid to Cobb was found in the West Milford, N. J., home of Edward Taffe, 65, who has been accused of being a co-conspirator in the case.

Calissi said that wrappers around the 20 $100 bills were used by The Marine Bank and Trust Co. of Tampa. This he learned from his aides in Florida.

Man Is Arrested After Accident

Philadelphia, Dec. 28 (AP)—Police investigating a minor auto accident early today found the assistant rector of old St. Peter's Episcopal Church brutally beaten to death in his bachelor apartment.

Patrolmen Joseph Nicholl and Meyer Weise said the body of the Rev. Dr. Benjamin H. Bissell, 59, was clad only in a tee shirt when they found him sprawled on a bed in the apartment about 3 a. m. Doctors said later he had been dead about an hour.

Placed under police guard at Jefferson Hospital was James Morrison, 26, whom police said had been released from prison three months ago after serving a term for burglary.

MORRISON, according to Patrolman Nicholl and Weise, was removed from the wreckage of a small English sedan that skidded on a downtown street corner and crashed into a brick wall a few blocks from the church and Dr. Bissell's apartment about 2:30 a. m.

They quoted Morrison as saying he had been drinking last night, could not remember what happened but thought he had been injured in a fall. Morrison was suffering from cuts of the head, hands and face and a back injury.

POLICE SEARCHING the wrecked car found cards indicating it was owned by Dr. Bissell. They found a clergyman's white and purple stole, and a wristwatch with its leather strap torn. Watch and strap were bloodstained. It was after these discoveries that officers went to Dr. Bissell's apartment.

Homicide Det. Henry Brown said Dr. Bissell had been beaten about the head and face, apparently with fists, and possibly smothered by the pillow which partially concealed his face. Bed covers were pulled to the foot of the bed. Lights were on throughout the apartment, and drawers pulled out indicated a hurried search. The telephone had been ripped from the connection box.

Dr. Bissell was born in Hebron, Conn., attended Wesleyan College and held a Ph.D. degree from Yale. He had been at old St. Peter's for three years, and formerly had served as curate at three English charges. He also had been a missionary in Central America for a number of years.

U.S. Officials Are Cautious; Situation Is Watched Closely

PROTEST RATIFICATION—Demonstrators hostile to the rearming of Western Germany hold signs Monday, as they stand against barricades outside the Bourbon Palace in Paris, where the French National Assembly debated the entrance of West Germany into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. French Premier Pierre Mendes-France is asking for the Assembly's vote of confidence on the question which is both fateful to his government and the defense of the western world. The signs read: "Souviens-toi (Remember) Chateaubriant, Auschwitz, Oradour." (AP Wirephoto via radio from Paris.)

New Balloting Is Considered Vital

Washington, Dec. 28 (AP)—Top administration officials cautiously withheld today any vigorous applause for France's preliminary move toward accepting Western Germany as a full partner in the west's defenses against communism.

While several senators enthusiastically hailed last night's favorable French Assembly vote, President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles awaited new balloting expected tomorrow before joining publicly in the rejoicing.

Some high officials were known to feel that even if Premier Pierre Mendes-France finally persuades French legislators to approve German rearmament, his government faces an unpredictable future which may cause a new crisis.

EISENHOWER, who had expressed serious concern over the French Assembly's earlier defeat of the German rearmament proposals, was reported keeping in close touch with Dulles on the situation. . . .

Through his press secretary at his Augusta, Ga., holiday headquarters, the President said only that he was "gratified at the turn the proceedings have taken."

He referred to the 289-251 vote by which the National Assembly last night approved entry of West Germany into the North Atlantic Treaty organization (NATO). The vote was one of confidence in Mendes-France's government, but the premier

Second Okay Is Held as Certain

Paris, Dec. 28 (AP)—Premier Pierre Mendes-France appeared today to have won three-fourths of his battle for French Assembly approval of West German rearmament. But the last quarter may be the most difficult of all.

The Assembly by a vote of 289-251 gave preliminary approval last night to a third of the four Paris Treaties, this one to admit West Germany into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO). Mendes-France had made the issue a question of confidence in his government, staking his cabinet's life on its passage.

THE PREMIER still must win from the reluctant lawmakers two more confidence votes on the interlocking accords to free West Germany and enlist 500,000 West German troops in western defense. Both ballots are scheduled for Wednesday.

Still at stake is the key pact setting up a seven-nation West European Union with power to control the arms armaments of member countries. It is this treaty which actually provides for West German rearmament. The Assembly stunned Mendes-France and alarmed Washington and London last Friday by turning down this accord 280-259 on its first reading. The premier early today submitted a revised bill calling for its ratification as a confidence question.

THE SECOND confidence vote Wednesday will give final ratification to the admission of West Germany into NATO. Last night's vote came on the separate paragraphs of the ratification bill, not the measure as a whole. Its approval tomorrow is considered a certainty.

The Assembly's preliminary approval of the NATO agreement cheered U. S. officials. A statement from the holiday White House in Augusta, Ga., said President Eisenhower was "gratified." Several senators in Washington hailed the vote but high administration figure refrained from joining in the rejoicing until after Wednesday's balloting.

THE ACTION meant that after more than a week of debate and Parliamentary maneuvering, the Assembly now has given at least tentative approval to three of the four treaties. The deputies last Friday okayed a French-German accord on the future of the disputed Saar and

Asians to Hold Parley in April

Bogor, Indonesia, Dec. 28 (AP)—Five Asian premiers agreed at a meeting here today to sponsor a conference of Asian and African nations in the last week of next April.

A communique announced this after the opening session of two-day talks among the premiers of India, Pakistan, Burma, Ceylon and Indonesia. It did not specify a site for the conference.

Observers believe the most likely location is Bandoeng, provincial capital of west Java.

Diplomats present at the meeting of the premiers — India's Nawaharlal Nehru, Pakistan's Mohammed Ali, Burma's U Nu, Ceylon's Sir John Kotelawela and Indonesia's Ali Sastroamidjojo — very good progress was made in their 2½ hour opening session in this summer capital 35 miles south of Jakarta.

Senator Inquires About Ladejinsky

Washington, Dec. 28 (AP)—Sen. Olin D. Johnston (D.-S. C.) demanded from the Eisenhower Administration today the inside story of the dismissal of Wolf Ladejinsky, U. S. agriculture attache at Tokyo.

Secretary of Agriculture Benson fired Ladejinsky Dec. 16 on security and other grounds. Last spring, the State Department had cleared Ladejinsky as a security risk.

Johnston's request for an explanation of what he terms "this ridiculous conflict" was described as a first step toward public hearings Jan. 17 by the Senate Civil Service Commiittee on the Ladejinsky case in particular, and the government security program in general. Johnston will head the committee in the next Congress.

H. W. BRAWLEY, the committee's chief counsel, announced that Johnston has addressed letters to Benson and Secretary of State Dulles calling for a "whole works" report on their different findings about Ladejinsky.

Goldstein Charges Seven Undertakers

New York, Dec. 28 (AP)—Outgoing State Atty. Gen. Nathaniel L. Goldstein announced today he has recommended disciplinary action against seven undertakers as a result of an investigation of complaints of fraud, forgery and unethical conduct on the part of some persons in the undertaking industry.

A spokesman in Goldstein's office said profits realized by "unscrupulous" undertakers "could have run into millions of dollars annually" by the filing of two or three bills for the same funeral.

The attorney general has recommended disciplinary action against the seven undertakers, whose names were withheld, to the State Department of Health, which may revoke or suspend licenses or impose fines.

The spokesman said numerous other cases are being processed for similar disciplinary action and possible criminal prosecution.

Goldstein made his disclosure in identical letters to Herman E. Hilleboe, state health commissioner, and Raymond W. Houston, state commissioner of social welfare, embodying recommendations for corrective action.

GOLDSTEIN CHARGED that a segement of the undertaking industry "has found a fertile field for fraud" in a law which permits the Welfare Department to pay the costs of some funerals for persons on relief. He said his office has been conducting an investigation of complaints for the past year. . . .

The spokesmen said more than 50 funeral directors testified at secret hearings and records of 602 funerals were examined.

ONE SECTION of the report condemned one undertaker for allegedly forging or countenancing the forging of a death certificate and criticized another for advertising low priced funerals "to lure an unwary public at a time of deep grief."

Safe Recovered In Orange County

A safe reported stolen from Modena last Wednesday night or early Thursday morning was found in a stream near Campbell Hall in Orange county on Monday night, state police reported.

The safe had been ripped open, but important papers were still inside, apparently intact, according to state police at the Middletown station.

Troopers notified the owner, J. E. Hasbrouck of Modena, who claimed the papers which included records of the Modena Cemetery Association.

BCI MEN from this area and County Investigator Arthur H. Brown, who were notified as soon as the safe was found, were conducting an investigation at the scene today and full details as to what items were recovered was not available.

Hasbrouck had offered a $100 reward for the return of the papers. Information as to who may claim the reward was also not available at the state police station today.

Catskill Man Dies in Plunge

Albany, Dec. 28 (AP)—A Korean war veteran plunged to his death today from a sixth-floor window of the Veterans Administration Hospital here.

A hospital spokesman identified the dead man as Stanley Lange, 22, of 111 Spring street, Catskill, who had been a patient since Dec. 22.

The hospital said Lange had been under treatment for a neuro-psychiatric condition on the hospital's 10th floor but had been brought to the sixth floor for a blood test.

Man Is Held As Safecracker

Washington, Dec. 28 (AP) — A man who told police he spent the Christmas weekend in a locked supermarket nibbling at snacks from the shelves and catnapping between efforts to blast a 3,100-pound safe was held today on safecracking charges.

The man gave his name as Cornelius Weeks, Jr., and said he was a "free lance entertainer." He said he pulled the safecracking job by himself but police authorities doubted it. They said they thought Weeks had three or four accomplices.

Store officials said a spirited-away strongbox contained about $21,000 in Christmas week receipts.

Weeks, who was unarmed, was arrested at gunpoint yesterday by C. T. (Jimmie) Davis, a private detective hired to keep an eye on a Giant food store just across the District of Columbia line in Glassmanor, Md.

DAVIS SAID HE spotted Weeks sitting in a parked car a few hundred feet from the supermarket. Not far away down an embankment Davis and police rounded up the 2,000-pound strongbox which Weeks said he spirited away all by himself.

Stapp Is Planning Trial To Test His Findings

Los Angeles, Dec. 28 (AP)—A doctor who risks his life discovering what is safe for this nation's airmen has again set a world speed record for travel on land—this time 632 M.P.H.

Lt. Col. John Paul Stapp, 44, an aero medical scientist, set the mark during an air survival test in a rocket-propelled open sled roaring along rails of a 3,500-foot track. There was no windshield to protect him from the terrific rush of wind.

"My eyeballs became uncaged, but there was no impairment of thinking," Stapp said in a telephone interview.

Although he made his rapid journey at Holloman Air Development Center, N. M., on Dec. 10, the air force didn't disclose details until yesterday.

The speed record came only as a secondary part of the test. Stapp's ride was taken to simulate pressure that airmen would encounter bailing out of a supersonic plane flying 1,000 M.P.H. at an altitude of 35,000 feet.

Asked if he is convinced a pilot can safely bail out at supersonic speeds, the bespectacled, calm-voiced scientist said he wants to make another test before giving an answer. Although saying "we rest the case of deceleration," the colonel indicated further tests are needed on wind blast effects.

Results of these tests will determine what type of ejection apparatus can best be used on the high speed airplanes.

The Dec. 10 run was nearly

Thinking Is Not Held Interesting, Educator Says

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

Berkeley, Calif., Dec. 28 (AP)—The United States must "make thinking popular," a university president declared today. Too many Americans have the attitude that having brains is okay but "not very interesting," said Dr. Lee A. Dubridge, head of the California Institute of Technology.

That is one main reason why not enough students are becoming scientists, at a time when more scientists and engineers are badly needed, he said.

THE CHALLENGE is "to make thinking popular, to elevate respect for the thoughtful men, the scholars, the intellectual." One effect would be to induce more students to take up scientific careers, Dr. Dubridge told the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science.

"There are plenty of smart kids who do not go into either science or social science or any other intellectual field.

Most Fire Equipment Is Called to Two City Blazes

A substantial part of the city's fire equipment was dispatched to two separate fires within 25 minutes of each other early yesterday afternoon.

One was a cellar fire at 8 Cordts street, the other at 21 Ravine street where two rooms were reported "badly burned out" on the first floor.

The Ravine street fire was reported to Central Station at 12:20 p. m, and the Cordts street fire at 12.44 p. m.

Chief Joseph L. Murphy said the Ravine street fire apparently started in the bedroom of the home owned and occupied by Daniel R. Barnhardt. It is believed to have been started by two small boys playing with matches.

He said the two children, about six and four, had been playing in the bedroom. One of the boys ran upstairs to tell an older sister, Doris Barnhardt, 13, that something was on fire.

Chief Murphy said the girl found a box burning in the room and tried to put it out, but was driven back by the flames.

HE DESCRIBED the fire as a bad one and said firemen had done a good job "to hold it."

The bedroom and another room adjoining were pretty well "cleaned out," the chief reported. He said the house was charged with smoke.

The fire at 8 Cordts street apparently started in a box of clothes in the cellar, Murphy said. The home is owned by Charles Carl and occupied by Joseph Bonavita.

The flames poured through the cellar window and up the side of an outer wall but the damage wes reported minor.

Mansfield Proposes Pay Boost to Maintain Force

Washington, Dec. 28, (AP)—Sen. Mansfield (D.-Mont.) proposed today a 25 per cent boost in military pay rates as a means to maintain a three-million-man military force on a permanent basis with minimum use of the draft.

Mansfield said, too, he is opposed to any universal military service program which is not accompanied by a new excess profits tax on war production. He included the modified system which the Eisenhower administration has said it will ask Congress to approve next year.

The Montanan, who has served in the army, navy and marine corps, declared in an interview:

"If we have to draft men, then we should also draft the excess profits which come from war and defense production."

He said that when the administration's military manpower program reaches the Senate he will propose that kind of a tax as an amendment. An excess profits tax was in effect during World War 2 and again during the Korean war. It was allowed to expire a year ago.

As outlined last week by Secretary of Defense Wilson, the new military manpower program contemplates extension of the present draft law, due to die

New York, Dec. 28 (AP)—Outgoing State Atty. Gen. Nathaniel L. Goldstein announced today he has recommended disciplinary action against seven undertakers as a result of an investigation of complaints of fraud, forgery and unethical conduct on the part of some persons in the undertaking industry.

A spokesman in Goldstein's office said profits realized by "unscrupulous" undertakers "could have run into millions of dollars annually" by the filing of two or three bills for the same funeral.

The attorney general has recommended disciplinary action against the seven undertakers, whose names were withheld, to the State Department of Health, which may revoke or suspend licenses or impose fines.

The spokesman said numerous other cases are being processed for similar disciplinary action and possible criminal prosecution.

Goldstein made his disclosure in identical letters to Herman E. Hilleboe, state health commissioner, and Raymond W. Houston, state commissioner of social welfare, embodying recommendations for corrective action.

GOLDSTEIN CHARGED that a segement of the undertaking industry "has found a fertile field for fraud" in a law which permits the Welfare Department to pay the costs of some funerals for persons on relief. He said his office has been conducting an investigation of complaints for the past year.

The spokesmen said more than 50 funeral directors testified at secret hearings and records of 602 funerals were examined.

ONE SECTION of the report condemned one undertaker for allegedly forging or countenancing the forging of a death certificate and criticized another for advertising low priced funerals "to lure an unwary public at a time of deep grief."

Safe Recovered In Orange County

A safe reported stolen from Modena last Wednesday night or early Thursday morning was found in a stream near Campbell Hall in Orange county on Monday night, state police reported.

The safe had been ripped open, but important papers were still inside, apparently intact, according to state police at the Middletown station.

Troopers notified the owner, J. E. Hasbrouck of Modena, who claimed the papers which included records of the Modena Cemetery Association.

BCI MEN from this area and County Investigator Arthur H. Brown, who were notified as soon as the safe was found, were conducting an investigation at the scene today and full details as to what items were recovered was not available.

Hasbrouck had offered a $100 reward for the return of the papers. Information as to who may claim the reward was also not available at the state police station today.

Catskill Man Dies in Plunge

Albany, Dec. 28 (AP)—A Korean war veteran plunged to his death today from a sixth-floor window of the Veterans Administration Hospital here.

A hospital spokesman identified the dead man as Stanley Lange, 22, of 111 Spring street, Catskill, who had been a patient since Dec. 22.

The hospital said Lange had been under treatment for a neuro-psychiatric condition on the hospital's 10th floor but had been brought to the sixth floor for a blood test.

Stapp Is Planning Trial To Test His Findings

Los Angeles, Dec. 28 (AP)—A doctor who risks his life discovering what is safe for this nation's airmen has again set a world speed record for travel on land—this time 632 M.P.H.

Lt. Col. John Paul Stapp, 44, an aero medical scientist, set the mark during an air survival test in a rocket-propelled open sled roaring along rails of a 3,500-foot track. There was no windshield to protect him from the terrific rush of wind.

"My eyeballs became uncaged, but there was no impairment of thinking," Stapp said in a telephone interview.

Although he made his rapid journey at Holloman Air Development Center, N. M., on Dec. 10, the air force didn't disclose details until yesterday.

The speed record came only as a secondary part of the test. Stapp's ride was taken to simulate pressure that airmen would encounter bailing out of a supersonic plane flying 1,000 M.P.H. at an altitude of 35,000 feet.

Asked if he is convinced a pilot can safely bail out at supersonic speeds, the bespectacled, calm-voiced scientist said he wants to make another test before giving an answer. Although saying "we rest the case of deceleration," the colonel indicated further tests are needed on wind blast effects.

Results of these tests will determine what type of ejection apparatus can best be used on the high speed airplanes.

Man Is Held As Safecracker

Washington, Dec. 28 (AP) — A man who told police he spent the Christmas weekend in a locked supermarket nibbling at snacks from the shelves and catnapping between efforts to blast a 3,100-pound safe was held today on safecracking charges.

The man gave his name as Cornelius Weeks, Jr., and said he was a "free lance entertainer." He said he pulled the safecracking job by himself but police authorities doubted it. They said they thought Weeks had three or four accomplices.

Store officials said a spirited-away strongbox contained about $21,000 in Christmas week receipts.

Weeks, who was unarmed, was arrested at gunpoint yesterday by C. T. (Jimmie) Davis, a private detective hired to keep an eye on a Giant food store just across the District of Columbia line in Glassmanor, Md.

DAVIS SAID HE spotted Weeks sitting in a parked car a few hundred feet from the supermarket. Not far away down an embankment Davis and police rounded up the 2,000-pound strongbox which Weeks said he spirited away all by himself.

That is one main reason why not enough students are becoming scientists, at a time when more scientists and engineers are badly needed, he said.

Practically all stores in the uptown business section of the city will close on Friday, December 31, at 5 o'clock in order to give employes the New Year's Eve holiday, it was announced today by Louis Kantrowitz, president of the Uptown Business Men's Association.

With stores remaining closed Friday evening, there will be no evening hours observed this week by the area stores, Kantrowitz stated.

Most Fire Equipment Is Called to Two City Blazes

A substantial part of the city's fire equipment was dispatched to two separate fires within 25 minutes of each other early yesterday afternoon.

One was a cellar fire at 8 Cordts street, the other at 21 Ravine street where two rooms were reported "badly burned out" on the first floor.

The Ravine street fire was reported to Central Station at 12:20 p. m, and the Cordts street fire at 12:44 p. m.

Chief Joseph L. Murphy said the Ravine street fire apparently started in the bedroom of the home owned and occupied by Daniel R. Barnhardt. It is believed to have been started by two small boys playing with matches.

He said the two children, about six and four, had been playing in the bedroom. One of the boys ran upstairs to tell an older sister, Doris Barnhardt, 13, that something was on fire.

Chief Murphy said the girl found a box burning in the room and tried to put it out, but was driven back by the flames.

HE DESCRIBED the fire as a bad one and said firemen had done a good job "to hold it."

The bedroom and another room adjoining were pretty well "cleaned out," the chief reported. He said the house was charged with smoke.

The fire at 8 Cordts street apparently started in a box of clothes in the cellar, Murphy said. The home is owned by Charles Carl and occupied by Joseph Bonavita.

The flames poured through the cellar window and up the side of an outer wall but the damage wes reported minor.

Washington, Dec. 28, (AP)—Sen. Mansfield (D.-Mont.) proposed today a 25 per cent boost in military pay rates as a means to maintain a three-million-man military force on a permanent basis with minimum use of the draft.

Mansfield said, too, he is opposed to any universal military service program which is not accompanied by a new excess profits tax on war production. He included the modified system which the Eisenhower administration has said it will ask Congress to approve next year.

The Montanan, who has served in the army, navy and marine corps, declared in an interview:

"If we have to draft men, then we should also draft the excess profits which come from war and defense production."

He said that when the administration's military manpower program reaches the Senate he will propose that kind of a tax as an amendment. An excess profits tax was in effect during World War 2 and again during the Korean war. It was allowed to expire a year ago.

As outlined last week by Secretary of Defense Wilson, the new military manpower program contemplates extension of the present draft law, due to die

Bergen Jury Is Convened

Will Be Asked to Give Indictments In Plot to Kill Seafarers' Leader

Hackensack, N. J., Dec. 28 (AP)—The Bergen county grand jury meets today in a special session with Prosecutor Guy Calissi expected to ask for indictments in the alleged plot to kill AFL Seafarers' leader Paul Hall.

As the panel prepared to meet at Calissi's request, the prosecutor advanced a theory that the purported plot might be the latest brush in what he called a war between rival factions of the union.

Calissi said this theory was unearthed by his aides who went to Florida to check angles in Tampa in connection with the case.

About a month ago, Calissi said, the windshield of a car driven by William B. Higgs was splattered by bullets in Tampa. Higgs was described as a close associate of Ray White of Tampa, a union official free in $3,000 bond on a charge of conspiring to murder Hall.

Calissi said that Bergen county authorities served a New Jersey warrant on White at 1 a. m. today charging conspiracy to commit murder.

First Asst. Prosecutor Fred C. Galda and two detectives reported to Calissi they spent all day yesterday seeking White, but finally with Florida police placed White under arrest. Details of the arrest were not available.

White and Hall are opponents for a $28,000-a-year post as secretary treasurer of the AFL Seafarers' International Union of North America.

The alleged plot—described by White as "just a big smear"—came to light last Thursday on a tip from an undisclosed source.

Police went to Hall's home in Montvale, N. J. They arrested 33-year-old James E. Cobb of Tampa as he was driving towards the Hall home.

Cobb told Calissi that White promised him $15,000 to do away with Hall by New Year's Day, and that he received $2,000 as a down payment.

In another of the fast moving developments in the case yesterday, Calissi announced he planned to ask Capt. William Bradley, president of the Independent International Longshoremen's Assn., to appear before the regular county grand jury on Jan. 3. The county prosecutor would not give a reason for his wanting to talk to Bradley.

The $2,000 allegedly paid to Cobb was found in the West Milford, N. J., home of Edward Taffe, 65, who has been accused of being a co-conspirator in the case.

Calissi said that wrappers around the 20 $100 bills were used by The Marine Bank and Trust Co. of Tampa. This he learned from his aides in Florida.

Cleric Found Dead

Man Is Arrested After Accident

Philadelphia, Dec. 28 (AP)—Police investigating a minor auto accident early today found the assistant rector of old St. Peter's Episcopal Church brutally beaten to death in his bachelor apartment.

Patrolmen Joseph Nicholl and Meyer Weise said the body of the Rev. Dr. Benjamin H. Bissell, 59, was clad only in a tee shirt when they found him sprawled on a bed in the apartment about 3 a. m. Doctors said later he had been dead about an hour.

Placed under police guard at Jefferson Hospital was James Morrison, 26, whom police said had been released from prison three months ago after serving a term for burglary.

MORRISON, according to Patrolman Nicholl and Weise, was removed from the wreckage of a small English sedan that skidded on a downtown street corner and crashed into a brick wall a few blocks from the church and Dr. Bissell's apartment about 2:30 a. m.

They quoted Morrison as saying he had been drinking last night, could not remember what happened but thought he had been injured in a fall. Morrison was suffering from cuts of the head, hands and face and a back injury.

POLICE SEARCHING the wrecked car found cards indicating it was owned by Dr. Bissell. They found a clergyman's white and purple stole, and a wristwatch with its leather strap torn. Watch and strap were bloodstained. It was after these discoveries that officers went to Dr. Bissell's apartment.

Homicide Det. Henry Brown said Dr. Bissell had been beaten about the head and face, apparently with fists, and possibly smothered by the pillow which partially concealed his face. Bed covers were pulled to the foot of the bed. Lights were on throughout the apartment, and drawers pulled out indicated a hurried search. The telephone had been ripped from the connection box.

Dr. Bissell was born in Hebron, Conn., attended Wesleyan College and held a Ph.D. degree from Yale. He had been at old St. Peter's for three years, and formerly had served as curate at three English charges. He also had been a missionary in Central America for a number of years.

Key Pact Will Be Tested Wednesday by French

U.S. Officials Are Cautious; Situation Is Watched Closely

PROTEST RATIFICATION—Demonstrators hostile to the rearming of Western Germany hold signs Monday, as they stand against barricades outside the Bourbon Palace in Paris, where the French National Assembly debated the entrance of West Germany into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. French Premier Pierre Mendes-France is asking for the Assembly's vote of confidence on the question which is both fateful to his government and the defense of the western world. The signs read: "Souviens-toi (Remember) Chateaubriant, Auschwitz, Oradour." (AP Wirephoto via radio from Paris.)

New Balloting Is Considered Vital

Washington, Dec. 28 (AP)—Top administration officials cautiously withheld today any vigorous applause for France's preliminary move toward accepting Western Germany as a full partner in the west's defenses against communism.

While several senators enthusiastically hailed last night's favorable French Assembly vote, President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles awaited new balloting expected tomorrow before joining publicly in the rejoicing.

Some high officials were known to feel that even if Premier Pierre Mendes-France finally persuades French legislators to approve German rearmament, his government faces an unpredictable future which may cause a new crisis.

EISENHOWER, who had expressed serious concern over the French Assembly's earlier defeat of the German rearmament proposals, was reported keeping in close touch with Dulles on the situation.

Through his press secretary at his Augusta, Ga., holiday headquarters, the President said only that he was "gratified at the turn the proceedings have taken."

He referred to the 289-251 vote by which the National Assembly last night approved entry of West Germany into the North Atlantic Treaty organization (NATO). The vote was one of confidence in Mendes-France's government, but the premier

Approval Is Given to Admission

Second Okay Is Held as Certain

Paris, Dec. 28 (AP)—Premier Pierre Mendes-France appeared today to have won three-fourths of his battle for French Assembly approval of West German rearmament. But the last quarter may be the most difficult of all.

The Assembly by a vote of 289-251 gave preliminary approval last night to a third of the four Paris Treaties, this one to admit West Germany into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO). Mendes-France had made the issue a question of confidence in his government, staking his cabinet's life on its passage.

THE PREMIER still must win from the reluctant lawmakers two more confidence votes on the interlocking accords to free West Germany and enlist 500,000 West German troops in western defense. Both ballots are scheduled for Wednesday.

Still at stake is the key pact setting up a seven-nation West European Union with power to control the arms armaments of member countries. It is this treaty which actually provides for West German rearmament. The Assembly stunned Mendes-France and alarmed Washington and London last Friday by turning down this accord 280-259 on its first reading. The premier early today submitted a revised bill calling for its ratification as a confidence question.

THE SECOND confidence vote Wednesday will give final ratification to the admission of West Germany into NATO. Last night's vote came on the separate paragraphs of the ratification bill, not the measure as a whole. Its approval tomorrow is considered a certainty.

The Assembly's preliminary approval of the NATO agreement cheered U. S. officials. A statement from the holiday White House in Augusta, Ga., said President Eisenhower was "gratified." Several senators in Washington hailed the vote but high administration figure refrained from joining in the rejoicing until after Wednesday's balloting.

THE ACTION meant that after more than a week of debate and Parliamentary maneuvering, the Assembly now has given at least tentative approval to three of the four treaties. The deputies last Friday okayed a French-German accord on the future of the disputed Saar and

Asians to Hold Parley in April

Bogor, Indonesia, Dec. 28 (AP)—Five Asian premiers agreed at a meeting here today to sponsor a conference of Asian and African nations in the last week of next April.

A communique announced this after the opening session of two-day talks among the premiers of India, Pakistan, Burma, Ceylon and Indonesia. It did not specify a site for the conference.

Observers believe the most likely location is Bandoeng, provincial capital of west Java.

Senator Inquires About Ladejinsky

Washington, Dec. 28 (AP)—Sen. Olin D. Johnston (D.-S. C.) demanded from the Eisenhower Administration today the inside story of the dismissal of Wolf Ladejinsky, U. S. agriculture attache at Tokyo.

Secretary of Agriculture Benson fired Ladejinsky Dec. 16 on security and other grounds. Last spring, the State Department had cleared Ladejinsky as a security risk.

Johnston's request for an explanation of what he terms "this ridiculous conflict" was described as a first step toward public hearings Jan. 17 by the Senate Civil Service Commiittee on the Ladejinsky case in particular, and the government security program in general. Johnston will head the committee in the next Congress.

GOP Leadership Will Be by Seven In Legislature

Albany, Dec. 28 (AP)—What started out as the "Big Three" of Republican leadership for the 1955 legislative session has grown progressively to the "Big Seven"—plus.

Expansion of the top-level strategy group to what the GOP hopes will be a lucky seven was revealed yesterday by Assembly Speaker Oswald D. Heck, one of the original triumvirate.

When Sen. Irving M. Ives lost the Nov. 2 election to the Democratic Gov.-elect Averell Harriman, the Republican-policy making mantle that outgoing Gov. Dewey wore for 12 years appeared to settle about the shoulders of Heck, Walter J. Mahoney, Senate Majority Leader, and Rep. Jackob K. Javits, the Republican attorney general-elect.

THEY WERE DUBBED quickly as the "Big Three."

But, earlier this month, the GOP State Executive Committee huddled here and Chairman L. Hudson Morehouse announced he would join the trio in regular meetings to plot strategy for the forthcoming session.

Then, after a high-level conference here yesterday, Heck revealed that a seven-member "policy committee" and a Senate-Assembly pool of advisory talent would steer the Republican ship.

Rounding out the group, he said, would be Austin W. Erwin of Geneseo, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, William H. MacKenzie of Allegany county, chairman of the Assembly Way and Means Committee, and the Majority Leader of the Assembly—when Heck designates one.

Except for MacKenzie and, of course, the Assembly Leader to be named, it was the "policy committee" that met here yesterday to outline a party legislative program for 1955.

THE SAME GROUP was to meet in New York city today with Republican legislators representing the metropolis. On the agenda was a legislative program for city problems.

Heck told a news conference yesterday that the strategy meeting was "mostly exploratory." He would not give details of what had been discussed.

Heck did disclose that the conferees had dealt with financial affairs, adding that "we decided to wait and see what the governor-elect has to say about the 1955-56 budget."

He said that the membership of what he called the "policy committee" was limited "up to this time" to those present, plus MacKenzie, who was unable to attend.

Ives was invited, but he is on vacation in Haiti. The senator is not expected to take a major role in formulating party policies for the legislative session.

Jewelry Disappears

New York, Dec. 28 (AP)—Two trays of diamond jewelry valued at $65,000 have disappeared from a Manhattan jewelry store, and the manager says he can't imagine how it happened. Edward Segan, manager of the Marchal Jewelry store said the trays disappeared yesterday during business hours from the store's safe in the back room. Clerks said they had seen no strangers entering the room at any time during the day, police reported.

How many umbrellas can you cram in one bathtub on a bad day? Why not get an umbrella stand? Today, they're snappy. There are models that have a metal frame and a washable sailcloth bag hanging inside. It's colorfast and light.

Kitchen Wax

There's now a special kitchen wax that can go on everything in the kitchen—except the floor. It could make kitchen cleaning and protecting half the job it is, if you're the kind who likes to polish everything.

GOP Leadership Will Be by Seven In Legislature

Albany, Dec. 28 (AP)—What started out as the "Big Three" of Republican leadership for the 1955 legislative session has grown progressively to the "Big Seven"—plus.

Expansion of the top-level strategy group to what the GOP hopes will be a lucky seven was revealed yesterday by Assembly Speaker Oswald D. Heck, one of the original triumvirate.

When Sen. Irving M. Ives lost the Nov. 2 election to the Democratic Gov.-elect Averell Harriman, the Republican-policy making mantle that outgoing Gov. Dewey wore for 12 years appeared to settle about the shoulders of Heck, Walter J. Mahoney, Senate Majority Leader, and Rep. Jackob K. Javits, the Republican attorney general-elect.

THEY WERE DUBBED quickly as the "Big Three."

But, earlier this month, the GOP State Executive Committee huddled here and Chairman L. Hudson Morehouse announced he would join the trio in regular meetings to plot strategy for the forthcoming session.

Then, after a high-level conference here yesterday, Heck revealed that a seven-member "policy committee" and a Senate-Assembly pool of advisory talent would steer the Republican ship.

Rounding out the group, he said, would be Austin W. Erwin of Geneseo, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, William H. MacKenzie of Allegany county, chairman of the Assembly Way and Means Committee, and the Majority Leader of the Assembly—when Heck designates one.

Except for MacKenzie and, of course, the Assembly Leader to be named, it was the "policy committee" that met here yesterday to outline a party legislative program for 1955.

THE SAME GROUP was to meet in New York city today with Republican legislators representing the metropolis. On the agenda was a legislative program for city problems.

Heck told a news conference yesterday that the strategy meeting was "mostly exploratory." He would not give details of what had been discussed.

Heck did disclose that the conferees had dealt with financial affairs, adding that "we decided to wait and see what the governor-elect has to say about the 1955-56 budget."

He said that the membership of what he called the "policy committee" was limited "up to this time" to those present, plus MacKenzie, who was unable to attend.

Ives was invited, but he is on vacation in Haiti. The senator is not expected to take a major role in formulating party policies for the legislative session.

Jewelry Disappears

New York, Dec. 28 (AP)—Two trays of diamond jewelry valued at $65,000 have disappeared from a Manhattan jewelry store, and the manager says he can't imagine how it happened. Edward Segan, manager of the Marchal Jewelry store said the trays disappeared yesterday during business hours from the store's safe in the back room. Clerks said they had seen no strangers entering the room at any time during the day, police reported.

Get an Umbrella Stand

How many umbrellas can you cram in one bathtub on a bad day? Why not get an umbrella stand? Today, they're snappy. There are models that have a metal frame and a washable sailcloth bag hanging inside. It's colorfast and light.

Kitchen Wax

There's now a special kitchen wax that can go on everything in the kitchen—except the floor. It could make kitchen cleaning and protecting half the job it is, if you're the kind who likes to polish everything.

The Mature Parent

Let Mandy Get Used to Little Brother by Gradual Stages

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Mandy was given three toys soon after her mother and baby brother came home from the hospital. One was a doll that drinks, another its set of bottles, nipples and sterilizer. The third was a doll's rubber bath. Through these toys that would enable Mandy to imitate her mother's actions toward the real baby her parents hoped to keep Mandy from being jealous of her brother.

But Mandy showed little interest in the toys. Her parents must not be too disappointed. They won't press her to play mother to her doll if they will consider her position for a moment. She is barely three years old. Though she can imitate her mother's gestures toward this doll that represents her brother, she cannot experience the feelings that motivate the gestures.

But she may have feelings of her own toward it. Aren't they apt to be those of a new, confused, jealous little sister? Can't we then let Mandy treat her doll out of her own feelings? And not press her to give it the gestures of motherhood until she's used to being a sister?

Sisterhood is her current problem. It's a less responsible role. So with the baby and the doll, let her be helper, not Mother.

Responsible "big girl" behavior is particularly hard for Mandy just now. Every day she has to share tenderness that once belonged wholly to her. So she will be especially greedy for it. As we feed her brother, she may not want to feed her doll, but to come and lean against us. Instead of wanting to imitate Mother, she's more apt to want to imitate the baby. As we bathe him, she may suddenly begin to suck her thumb. She may develop inconvenient cravings to climb on our lap whenever we're dressing him.

If we see this babyish action as expression of the logical feelings of new sisters, we won't press for any other kind. We'll understand that Mandy, noting how her helpless brother is taking attention that belongs, to her, has decided to reclaim it by appearing helpless, too. And that she's saying to us, "If you think babies are so wonderful, alright, I'll be one myself."

Mandy's jealousy is inevitable experience. It is a demand for our tenderness. As she becomes surer that her supply of it is available, her demand for it will decrease. Toys cannot give her this assurance. Until her own feelings are more certain, let's go slow on asking her to pretend those of other people.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, Jr.

Santa Arrives In Bright Pageant

Woodstock, Dec. 28—The long-awaited arrival of Santa Claus on Christmas Eve at the Village Green was enhanced by the pageantry of medieval times, with the jolly old elf astride a steed wearing the red robes which once adorned the knights of old and their mounts. Santa was escorted by the following members of the Woodstock Riding Club: John Riley, Charles Riley, Charles Riley, Jr., Mrs. Louise Van Wagonen, Freilan Van De Bogart and Billy Johnson of High Woods. The riders were also wearing red robes, peaked hats and carried spears adorned with stars. The entourage circled the green and Santa dismounted in front of the Dutch Reformed Church where he distributed gifts of candy and fruit to the children.

The Christmas Eve community program, a project in which the entire village participated and attended by an exceptionally large crowd, opened with Christmas music by the Dickens Minstrels. They were Clem Nessel, accordion; Bill Moore, trumpet; Dick Burlingame, banjo; Dave Huffine, cello; and Arnold Stanley of Saugerties, clarinet. ### Let Mandy Get Used to Little Brother by Gradual Stages

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Mandy was given three toys soon after her mother and baby brother came home from the hospital. One was a doll that drinks, another its set of bottles, nipples and sterilizer. The third was a doll's rubber bath. Through these toys that would enable Mandy to imitate her mother's actions toward the real baby her parents hoped to keep Mandy from being jealous of her brother.

But Mandy showed little interest in the toys. Her parents must not be too disappointed. They won't press her to play mother to her doll if they will consider her position for a moment. She is barely three years old. Though she can imitate her mother's gestures toward this doll that represents her brother, she cannot experience the feelings that motivate the gestures.

But she may have feelings of her own toward it. Aren't they apt to be those of a new, confused, jealous little sister? Can't we then let Mandy treat her doll out of her own feelings? And not press her to give it the gestures of motherhood until she's used to being a sister?

Sisterhood is her current problem. It's a less responsible role. So with the baby and the doll, let her be helper, not Mother.

Responsible "big girl" behavior is particularly hard for Mandy just now. Every day she has to share tenderness that once belonged wholly to her. So she will be especially greedy for it. As we feed her brother, she may not want to feed her doll, but to come and lean against us. Instead of wanting to imitate Mother, she's more apt to want to imitate the baby. As we bathe him, she may suddenly begin to suck her thumb. She may develop inconvenient cravings to climb on our lap whenever we're dressing him.

If we see this babyish action as expression of the logical feelings of new sisters, we won't press for any other kind. We'll understand that Mandy, noting how her helpless brother is taking attention that belongs, to her, has decided to reclaim it by appearing helpless, too. And that she's saying to us, "If you think babies are so wonderful, alright, I'll be one myself."

Mandy's jealousy is inevitable experience. It is a demand for our tenderness. As she becomes surer that her supply of it is available, her demand for it will decrease. Toys cannot give her this assurance. Until her own feelings are more certain, let's go slow on asking her to pretend those of other people.

Santa Arrives In Bright Pageant

Woodstock, Dec. 28—The long-awaited arrival of Santa Claus on Christmas Eve at the Village Green was enhanced by the pageantry of medieval times, with the jolly old elf astride a steed wearing the red robes which once adorned the knights of old and their mounts. Santa was escorted by the following members of the Woodstock Riding Club: John Riley, Charles Riley, Charles Riley, Jr., Mrs. Louise Van Wagonen, Freilan Van De Bogart and Billy Johnson of High Woods. The riders were also wearing red robes, peaked hats and carried spears adorned with stars. The entourage circled the green and Santa dismounted in front of the Dutch Reformed Church where he distributed gifts of candy and fruit to the children.

The Christmas Eve community program, a project in which the entire village participated and attended by an exceptionally large crowd, opened with Christmas music by the Dickens Minstrels. They were Clem Nessel, accordion; Bill Moore, trumpet; Dick Burlingame, banjo; Dave Huffine, cello; and Arnold Stanley of Saugerties, clarinet. ## ATTEND PUBLIC HEARING

There will be a public hearing tonight on the city budget for 1955. This official public hearing will be held at 7:30 in the Common Council Chamber and any voter or property holder is privileged to attend, whether merely to listen or to express his mind.

The tentative tax rate is $54.72 based on a budget total of $1,733,159.59 to be raised by taxation. The rate increase is 96 cents over last year. The budget provides for pay increases to city employes amounting to some $48,000.

Persons particularly interested in certain appropriations in the budget will do well to be present and make known their desires at the public hearing tonight.

A NEW POWER

The coming regime of Democratic Governor-Elect Harriman in New York will be of national interest for many reasons, not the least of which will be the attention it focuses on the activities of one Carmine G. DeSapio.

Harriman has named DeSapio his secretary of state, and in this fairly exposed place he may show the country a little more about his makeup and character. This knowledge will be of considerable value, for DeSapio has become a political figure of no small importance.

He is the boss of Tammany Hall, the Democratic national committeeman for New York, and the man who single-handedly put Harriman across for governor at the Democratic state convention last September.

This means that henceforth he is automatically a large voice in national Democratic councils. He more than Harriman, who is a relative political novice, will cast the weight of New York's 90-odd votes at the next party presidential convention.

What makes DeSapio of more than ordinary interest is that he presents himself as a brand-new kind of Tammany chieftain. When he took over the fabled organization in 1949, it was shattered and creaking, with a reputation for corruption. He set out to reform and rebuild it.

In the ensuing years, DeSapio brought in young Democrats, backed civic reforms, lectured on politics and government. He suggested that Tammany had been streamlined and that its new leader was a professional politician in the best sense—almost like a career diplomat.

In 1953 he scored his first major success when he chose Robert F. Wagner, Jr., to run for mayor of New York.

In 1954, Representative Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., set out early to capture the nomination for governor. But he worked on upstate politicians. Meantime, DeSapio had other ideas. When the Democratic convention rolled around, he had picked his man—not Roosevelt, but Harriman.

With the votes counted, DeSapio looked like a shrewd kingmaker. Harriman squeaked through to win, while Roosevelt, billed as the great vote-getter, tumbled in humiliating defeat in his bid for the state attorney generalship.

Henceforth, we shall begin to see more clearly how accurate a picture DeSapio has drawn of himself and a revitalized Tammany. There is no question that a new power has risen in the Democratic Party. The only riddle is whether or not he is a force making for a higher level of politics in his party and the country.

NIAGARA POWER UP AGAIN

Development of the power potential of the Niagara River by the federal government, New York State or private enterprise again will come before the next Congress.

The bill which favored private enterprise was passed by two and one-half to one majority in the House last year but died in the Senate. None of the bills favoring the State Power Authority got through either the House or the Senate.

The Citizens Public Expenditure Survey warns supporters of free enterprise not to relent in their fight against socialized public power.

84TH CONGRESS

The American Congress operates through a series of committees in each House, the chairmen of which are powerful men with great authority and responsibility. This is particularly true of chairmen of senatorial committees. It is normal to assume that the President, who in this country is also the head of the government, is the final authority, but actually, under our system of checks and balances, chairmen of committees can, if they wish, embarrass a President, slow up such phases of his program as come before them, hold up his appointments indefinitely, avoid ratification of treaties with foreign countries and investigate executive departments to their hearts' content.

It has always heretofore been embarrassing to a President when the majority in either House is of the opposite party; it is even more embarrassing when that majority is only of one vote in the Senate and when his own party is split. President Eisenhower is attempting to meet this by arranging what amounts to a non-party Congress led by the executive. It is a new political concept in the United States, although it has been used in England in war-time in the form of a coalition government and in various other countries in the form of a one-party government.

Most Democrats are closer to President Eisenhower's ideas than many Republicans, certainly than the Right Wing Senators who constitute the legislative leadership of his party. Nevertheless the Democrats face the problem that if they support the President's program, they could leave themselves without a campaign issue and it would be difficult for them to elect senators, representatives, governors, judges and minor officials in 1956. Were we organized politically on the British model, it would be easier to make a coalition government work, but in this country where elections must occur each two years, it becomes more difficult. Localisms play too great a role.

There is currently much talk of both parties nominating President Eisenhower for President in 1956, thus solving all the difficulties raised by a coalition or a non-party government. It is doubtful whether such an arrangement can be made or whether it is in the best interest of the country. The basic theory of the presidency, as it appears in the Constitution, is that it is limited in authority and in tenure. The 22nd Amendment limits the tenure to two terms, that is, eight years. The purpose of a political campaign is that the people may review the work of the President, to require him to go to the people for their approval, and to prevent him from becoming so tremendous a figure as to overwhelm the country.

The current idea among many of President Eisenhower's supporters that he is above criticism was not applied to any other President. One of the major functions of Congress is to criticize the Executive with the object of keeping him within constitutional limits. It must therefore be expected that on many questions, the President will be criticized in the 84th Congress by Democrats and by Right Wing Republicans. It is to be expected that in some matters Congress will accept the guidance and leadership of the President and that in others, it will not.

The Democrats, if they are to make a record for the 1956 campaign, must take an independent position on public questions; otherwise they could not even write a platform. Surely the men who may aspire to the Democratic nomination in 1956 will not be silent. Among them are Adlai Stevenson, Governor Averell Harriman of New York, Governor Frank Lausche of Ohio, Senator Estes Kefauver, Senator Stuart Symington. There will undoubtedly be others. Such men must stand before the public as leaders of political thought and action. It is therefore to be presumed that sometime next spring the Democrats will produce a clear-cut opposition.

On the other hand, should the Democrats become the party of Eisenhower, it could mean the elimination of Republicans altogether. This would be resisted, particularly by the Right Wing Republicans who still constitute a majority of their party. They would, in such circumstances, not only be fighting for the two-party principle, but for their individual political lives. And that fight would express itself tactically in the Senate.

The 84th Congress therefore will not only be interesting; it may be constitutionally crucial in American life.

TEAMWORK AMONG SPECIALISTS

When a patient consults his physician and states he has a "pain in his stomach," he is asked several questions, one or the other of which may give the clue to the cause of his disturbance. Some of the questions asked may be: "Does the pain move about or remain in the same place?" "Does the pain occur at the lower end of the stomach or higher up?" "Does the pain come on at certain hours of the day or is it present all the time?"

In a news release from the National Association of Medical Specialists in X-ray, we read extracts of a speech by Dr. E. Jenkinson on the need for close teamwork between the different medical specialists—radiologists, stomach specialists and internal medical specialists in determining just what condition may be present in the stomach. He points out that the pylorus, which is the section at the bottom of the stomach where it empties into the first part of the small intestine, is the place where many medical men believe most troubles of the stomach happen.

"Such conditions as peptic ulcer, 'gastritis' or inflammation of the lining of the stomach, cancer and other diseases are often located at this spot and their detection and identification sometimes require the interpretive skills of several physicians."

About three in every four cases of stomach cancer is located at this section and in the diagnosis of this condition it is imperative that the stomach specialist and the radiologist (X-ray specialist) work in close co-operation. No positive reliance can be placed on clinical findings alone (observation of the symptoms and course of a disease), and this also is true of the X-ray studies alone; but if both are combined, then the proper steps can be taken against the disease.

Dr. Jenkinson singled out gastritis as one disease beginning in the lower section of the stomach that calls for close teamwork between radiologist and stomach specialist. "The cause of the condition (inflammation of the lining of the stomach) is not known definitely, but alcohol, tobacco and extremely hot fluids are said to be contributing factors." To these factors may be added emotional disturbances.

When we realize the high death rate in cancer of the stomach and the difficulty in deciding whether or not it is present or whether some other condition of the stomach is present, we realize how important it may be to every one of us to obtain this important partnership between stomach specialists and radiologists.

What'll It Be, an Upset or Just a Good Rocking?

Edson's Washington News Notebook

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington—(NEA)—The Renegotiation Act of 1951—which permits your Uncle Samuel to recapture excessive profits on government purchases — expires at midnight, Dec. 31. So far, nobody has moved a finger to have the act extended. If not renewed, the government stands to lose between $30 million and $40 million a year—right down the drain.

As a matter of fact the only agitation in this field now is pressure to let the renegotiation act die and stay dead—permanently. The Board of Directors of U. S. Chamber of Commerce passed a resolution last month, opposing any request for further extension.

The Chamber's principal arguments are that the act is a "costly nuisance" to business in keeping records on government contracts.

It is argued that if there were no renegotiation act, government procurement officers would write sharper contracts and save the government money in this way.

THE OTHER SIDE OF THIS argument is that the costs on many new products which the government buys—like airplanes and new weapons—are unknown. Contracts for their procurement have to be drawn on many assumptions of estimated production costs. Often cheaper production methods are discovered. If no provision is made for the government to benefit from these lowered costs, tremendous profits would accrue to the government suppliers, and taxpayers would have to foot the bill.

During World War 2 the government recovered a gross of $11 billion and a net of $3 billion after taxes, by reopening contracts and recapturing excessive profits.

The original renegotiation act was passed in 1943. Each procurement agency handled its own contracts at that time. Army had ordnance, quartermaster corps, signal corps, aviation, corps of engineers and other purchasing agencies. Navy had a similar set-up.

THE ORIGINAL WARTIME renegotiation act was partially renewed in 1948 for peacetime operations. But after the Korean war broke out, Congress passed a new Renegotiation Act of 1951, with a three-year life.

Instead of allowing each procurement office to handle its own renegotiations, the new act provided for a centralized five-man board to handle renegotiation on all government purchases. One member was to be nominated by the Army, Navy, Air Force and General Services Administration. The President was to name the fifth member and designate the chairman.

For the past year the office of the chairman has been vacant. Charles E. Mills, retired Boston banker, has been acting chairman. There are five regional boards in Boston, New York, Detroit, Chicago and Los Angeles. They handle most of the actual renegotiations.

Only appeals cases, the granting of exemptions, preparation of regulations and general supervision are handled by Washington. Appeals from Washington decisions may be taken to U. S. tax court, but few cases have gone this full route.

President Eisenhower asked for an extension of the renegotiation act in his State of the Union message last January. It was the last day of Congress, in August, before the renewal was approved. It was for one year, retroactively to Jan. 1, 1954.

NEW LIMITATIONS WERE WRITTEN into the extension. Firms doing less than $500,000 a year business with the government were totally exempted from renegotiation. Also, an exemption was granted for "standard commercial articles" furnished by two or more suppliers and sold under sufficient competition to protect the government.

The Renegotiation Board has just completed issuing its regulations under this revised act. It has no idea of how many government suppliers will be exempted from renegotiation by these new provisions. But it hoped they will meet in part the objections of suppliers to keeping such detailed accounts.

Renegotiation is not handled on an individual contract basis, but on the total amount of receipts and accruals any government supplier may have in its fiscal year, on all government business. Even so, there are thousands of renegotiations a year.

The Board is now about a year and a half behind on its work, due to legislative delay. The Board has some 600 employes and a budget of $4.5 million a year. It returns to the U. S. Treasury many times this amount in savings. Treasury's voluntary refund receipts and excess profits recoveries on renegotiations totaled $13 million in fiscal 1952, $39 million in '53, $36 million in '54 and $22 million for the first five months of fiscal 1955.

No Signs 'New Virtue' in Congress Will Endure Very Long

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Dec. 28—Maybe the new Congress will take due notice of the alleged damage that has been done to its repute by outspoken members and will proceed to "censure" or "condemn" them.

Maybe some of the national church organizations which lately have been issuing pronouncements on the behavior of congressional committees now will prove their consistency by deploring not just one member's mistakes but the mistakes of other members, too.

But there are no signs of it, thus far. There is no evidence that the new virtue has lasted very long. On the contrary, the evidence points to the fact that only a member of Congress who fights communism can expect to bring down the wrath of his fellow members. Anybody else who is guilty of the same deviations from the "honor and decorum" of Congress can expect to go scot free.

More than a week has elapsed since an official document was released by the chairman of a House investigating committee. It reveals conduct much worse than anything charged against Senator McCarthy at any hearing, but it has not been given much publicity—and no indignant protests have come from those in the "left wing" or 'center" or anywhere else who have been telling the country that the Wisconsin senator and his "methods" are singularly his own.

But here is the evidence as related by the chairman of a House investigating committee:

"Sixteen public hearings were held, in the course of which the patient attempt was made by the chairman to follow the procedure unanimously agreed upon in advance...

"The last public hearing was held on June 17. Further public hearings were discontinued by a resolution passed by the majority at an executive meeting on July 2, 1954.

"The reason for the cessation of hearings was that the attitude and conduct of the ranking minority member had made it impossible to conduct orderly hearings. Among the obstructive and harassing acts of Mr. Hays—all of them during the public sessions—were these:

"He interrupted witnesses beyond all reason, attempting to frighten witnesses and to disorganize both the initial presentations and orderly interrogation by others. In one session of 185 minutes, he interrupted 246 times.

"When, after harrowingly frequent interruptions by Mr. Hays, great numbers of which were on extraneous matters, a rule was passed by a majority that a witness was to be premitted to finish his presentation before being questioned, Mr. Hays angrily remarked that he would pay no attention to any such rule and would interrupt whenever he pleased; and this he continued to do.

"His interruptions were very frequently intemperate, both in tone and substance, and in purposeful disregard of parliamentary procedure and the rules of the House . . .

"He repeatedly, from the rostrum, vilified other members of the committee and questioned their good faith. He publicly accused the chairman of lying and being a coward . . ."

There follows an illustrative excerpt from the record:

"Mr. Hays: I will say this to the gentleman, that out where I come from we have a saying that if a man doublecrosses you once, that is his fault; if he doublecrosses you twice, that is your fault. I just want you to know you won't get the second opportunity.

"The Chairman: Even that statement is not going to provoke the chairman, but there is no living man can justifiably say that this chairman—that this man who happens to be chairman at this time—has ever doublecrossed anybody or he had failed to keep his word.

"Mr. Hays: I am saying both.

"The Chairman: That is all right.

"Mr. Hays: Is that clear enough? There is no inference there, is there?

"The Chairman: That does not disturb me a particle.

"Mr. Hays: I know. You are pretty hard to disturb. I thought they had more guts in Tennessee.

"The Chairman: You are not going to provoke me. You need not worry. I have already made up my mind on that."

The chairman of that particular committee was Representative B. Carroll Reece, Republican, of Tennessee, and a former chairman of the Republican national committee. Whether he is right or wrong in his viewpoint about tax-free foundations is not germane—though this writer happens to think the foundations are not guilty of the charges made against them—but the issue is the conduct of a House member before one of its duly constituted committees.

Representative Wayne L. Hays of Ohio, Democrat, under the constitutional right of free speech, can say what he pleases—even use intemperate language. The precedents are on his side—that is, with the exception of the resolution of last November "condemning" Senator McCarthy. But Mr. Hays is safe anyhow from censure by resolution. For his conduct occurred not during a fight against Communists in government, but only in fighting Republicans.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Hot Springs, Ark., Dec. 27—This piece will go to the point as straight as the swallow to the gourd.

The Reece committee which investigated tax-exempt foundations found that the Reid Foundation, of the New York Herald Tribune, was an "example of the use of a foundation to retain control of an enterprise."

The Herald Tribune immediately retorted that the investigation "bore the earmarks of unfairness and bias." The Herald Tribune viewed the whole business with virtuous alarm as a threat to "the legislative branch" and to "liberty itself."

The committee said: "The Herald Tribune levelled extraordinarily savage attacks at this committee during its work both in editorials and in what purported to be its news columns."

The report tells us that the late Ogden M. Reid, husband of Helen Rogers Reid, the present boss of the paper, created this foundation on Aug. 2, 1942. He executed 17 promissory notes, bearing no interest, payable to him by the publishing company which owns H-T. He transferred these notes to the foundation. Further notes and open accounts were left to the foundation under Reid's will. These gifts and bequests "were apparently cleared as free of gift tax and estate tax, respectively."

Here comes the ouch.

The report says: "There seems to be considerable doubt whether these transfers were truly tax-exempt. A careful review by the internal revenue might well be in order.

"The deed which transferred the first batch of notes ($2,473,392) to the foundation, was an odd instrument. The notes bear no interest. On the other hand, the transfer authorizes the collection of the notes by the foundation only, for 'its sole use and benefit.' The foundation thus has been given a frozen asset bearing no income, with no right to sell it to produce income from reinvestment.

"It might be argued that the foundation, even though it earns no interest on the notes, can spend its principal. True. But its only obligation is to pay out its income. A payment on a note would constitute principal, not income. Morever, the notes are not payable unless the New York Herald Tribune, Inc., cares to pay them. The deed provides that the foundation, 'at the request of the Tribune will extend the time of payment of said indebtedness or any part thereof on such terms as a majority of the directors of the foundation may decide.'"

So, the Herald Tribune, with a majority of four of its own directors among the seven directors of the foundation, has a practical right to grant itself unlimited extensions of time on obligations which bear no interest. The committee discovered that the Herald Tribune's agents serving on the foundation could postpone collection for 1,000 years.

"Note also," the report says, "that while the foundation may stage 'terms and conditions' for extension, they cannot deny the right to an extension. Note, finally, that the directors of the foundation were nominees of its creator, the donor of the notes." But can the foundation compel actual payment? On that point, the committee says: "The foundation may compromise the indebtedness (that is, forgive it in as large a part as it wishes) at will and thus virtually make a gift to the Herald Tribune of property dedicated to public use."

Now the committee comes to "perhaps the most interesting clauses" providing that the foundation must always give the H-T "every reasonable opportunity and full cooperation to work out its financial affairs."

The committee charges that the intention was to establish a business arrangement and not a foundation engaged solely in charitable work. "It was to subordinate whatever philanthropic work had been planned to the welfare of the paper and the interest of the Reid family" in the Herald Tribune.

"There was," the report says, "no free gift of the notes. They were transferred under a contract to assist the publishing company in its financial problem and, by clear inference, to make this objective superior to its presumed charitable function.

"It was a magnificently designed arrangement. It is very likely that it might have been impossible to pay taxes on this $8,500,000 and still retain in the family control of a Herald Tribune left financially sound.

"Comparatively little in the way of 'charity' has been done by the foundation in relation to the size of its assumed capital. Earning no interest, it is dependent on capital payments by the Herald Tribune when it chooses to make payments. There have been some principal payments and these have evidently been used to create Reid fellowships and for other purposes. But it's performance as a $8,500,000 foundation has been, in the aggregate, understandably pitiful. Its first obligation has been to support the Herald Tribune."

This is particularly true of chairmen of senatorial committees. It is normal to assume that the President, who in this country is also the head of the government, is the final authority, but actually, under our system of checks and balances, chairmen of committees can, if they wish, embarrass a President, slow up such phases of his program as come before them, hold up his appointments indefinitely, avoid ratification of treaties with foreign countries and investigate executive departments to their hearts' content.

It has always heretofore been embarrassing to a President when the majority in either House is of the opposite party; it is even more embarrassing when that majority is only of one vote in the Senate and when his own party is split. President Eisenhower is attempting to meet this by arranging what amounts to a non-party Congress led by the executive. It is a new political concept in the United States, although it has been used in England in war-time in the form of a coalition government and in various other countries in the form of a one-party government.

Most Democrats are closer to President Eisenhower's ideas than many Republicans, certainly than the Right Wing Senators who constitute the legislative leadership of his party. Nevertheless the Democrats face the problem that if they support the President's program, they could leave themselves without a campaign issue and it would be difficult for them to elect senators, representatives, governors, judges and minor officials in 1956. Were we organized politically on the British model, it would be easier to make a coalition government work, but in this country where elections must occur each two years, it becomes more difficult. Localisms play too great a role.

There is currently much talk of both parties nominating President Eisenhower for President in 1956, thus solving all the difficulties raised by a coalition or a non-party government. It is doubtful whether such an arrangement can be made or whether it is in the best interest of the country. The basic theory of the presidency, as it appears in the Constitution, is that it is limited in authority and in tenure. The 22nd Amendment limits the tenure to two terms, that is, eight years. The purpose of a political campaign is that the people may review the work of the President, to require him to go to the people for their approval, and to prevent him from becoming so tremendous a figure as to overwhelm the country.

The current idea among many of President Eisenhower's supporters that he is above criticism was not applied to any other President. One of the major functions of Congress is to criticize the Executive with the object of keeping him within constitutional limits. It must therefore be expected that on many questions, the President will be criticized in the 84th Congress by Democrats and by Right Wing Republicans. It is to be expected that in some matters Congress will accept the guidance and leadership of the President and that in others, it will not.

The Democrats, if they are to make a record for the 1956 campaign, must take an independent position on public questions; otherwise they could not even write a platform. Surely the men who may aspire to the Democratic nomination in 1956 will not be silent. Among them are Adlai Stevenson, Governor Averell Harriman of New York, Governor Frank Lausche of Ohio, Senator Estes Kefauver, Senator Stuart Symington. There will undoubtedly be others. Such men must stand before the public as leaders of political thought and action. It is therefore to be presumed that sometime next spring the Democrats will produce a clear-cut opposition.

On the other hand, should the Democrats become the party of Eisenhower, it could mean the elimination of Republicans altogether. This would be resisted, particularly by the Right Wing Republicans who still constitute a majority of their party. They would, in such circumstances, not only be fighting for the two-party principle, but for their individual political lives. And that fight would express itself tactically in the Senate.

The 84th Congress therefore will not only be interesting; it may be constitutionally crucial in American life.

TEAMWORK AMONG SPECIALISTS

When a patient consults his physician and states he has a "pain in his stomach," he is asked several questions, one or the other of which may give the clue to the cause of his disturbance. Some of the questions asked may be: "Does the pain move about or remain in the same place?" "Does the pain occur at the lower end of the stomach or higher up?" "Does the pain come on at certain hours of the day or is it present all the time?"

In a news release from the National Association of Medical Specialists in X-ray, we read extracts of a speech by Dr. E. Jenkinson on the need for close teamwork between the different medical specialists—radiologists, stomach specialists and internal medical specialists in determining just what condition may be present in the stomach. He points out that the pylorus, which is the section at the bottom of the stomach where it empties into the first part of the small intestine, is the place where many medical men believe most troubles of the stomach happen.

"Such conditions as peptic ulcer, 'gastritis' or inflammation of the lining of the stomach, cancer and other diseases are often located at this spot and their detection and identification sometimes require the interpretive skills of several physicians."

About three in every four cases of stomach cancer is located at this section and in the diagnosis of this condition it is imperative that the stomach specialist and the radiologist (X-ray specialist) work in close co-operation. No positive reliance can be placed on clinical findings alone (observation of the symptoms and course of a disease), and this also is true of the X-ray studies alone; buf if both are combined, then the proper steps can be taken against the disease.

Dr. Jenkinson singled out gastritis as one disease beginning in the lower section of the stomach that calls for close teamwork between radiologist and stomach specialist. "The cause of the condition (inflammation of the lining of the stomach) is not known definitely, but alcohol, tobacco and extremely hot fluids are said to be contributing factors." To these factors may be added emotional disturbances.

When we realize the high death rate in cancer of the stomach and the difficulty in deciding whether or not it is present or whether some other condition of the stomach is present, we realize how important it may be to every one of us to obtain this important partnership between stomach specialists and radiologists.

What'll It Be, an Upset or Just a Good Rocking?

Edson's Washington News Notebook

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington—(NEA)—The Renegotiation Act of 1951—which permits your Uncle Samuel to recapture excessive profits on government purchases — expires at midnight, Dec. 31. So far, nobody has moved a finger to have the act extended. If not renewed, the government stands to lose between $30 million and $40 million a year—right down the drain.

As a matter of fact the only agitation in this field now is pressure to let the renegotiation act die and stay dead—permanently. The Board of Directors of U. S. Chamber of Commerce passed a resolution last month, opposing any request for further extension.

The Chamber's principal arguments are that the act is a "costly nuisance" to business in keeping records on government contracts.

It is argued that if there were no renegotiation act, government procurement officers would write sharper contracts and save the government money in this way.

THE OTHER SIDE OF THIS argument is that the costs on many new products which the government buys—like airplanes and new weapons—are unknown. Contracts for their procurement have to be drawn on many assumptions of estimated production costs. Often cheaper production methods are discovered. If no provision is made for the government to benefit from these lowered costs, tremendous profits would accrue to the government suppliers, and taxpayers would have to foot the bill.

During World War 2 the government recovered a gross of $11 billion and a net of $3 billion after taxes, by reopening contracts and recapturing excessive profits.

The original renegotiation act was passed in 1943. Each procurement agency handled its own contracts at that time. Army had ordnance, quartermaster corps, signal corps, aviation, corps of engineers and other purchasing agencies. Navy had a similar set-up.

THE ORIGINAL WARTIME renegotiation act was partially renewed in 1948 for peacetime operations. But after the Korean war broke out, Congress passed a new Renegotiation Act of 1951, with a three-year life.

Instead of allowing each procurement office to handle its own renegotiations, the new act provided for a centralized five-man board to handle renegotiation on all government purchases. One member was to be nominated by the Army, Navy, Air Force and General Services Administration. The President was to name the fifth member and designate the chairman.

For the past year the office of the chairman has been vacant. Charles E. Mills, retired Boston banker, has been acting chairman. There are five regional boards in Boston, New York, Detroit, Chicago and Los Angeles. They handle most of the actual renegotiations.

Only appeals cases, the granting of exemptions, preparation of regulations and general supervision are handled by Washington. Appeals from Washington decisions may be taken to U. S. tax court, but few cases have gone this full route.

President Eisenhower asked for an extension of the renegotiation act in his State of the Union message last January. It was the last day of Congress, in August, before the renewal was approved. It was for one year, retroactively to Jan. 1, 1954.

NEW LIMITATIONS WERE written into the extension. Firms doing less than $500,000 a year business with the government were totally exempted from renegotiation. Also, an exemption was granted for "standard commercial articles" furnished by two or more suppliers and sold under sufficient competition to protect the government.

The Renegotiation Board has just completed issuing its regulations under this revised act. It has no idea of how many government suppliers will be exempted from renegotiation by these new provisions. But it hoped they will meet in part the objections of suppliers to keeping such detailed accounts.

Renegotiation is not handled on an individual contract basis, but on the total amount of receipts and accruals any government supplier may have in its fiscal year, on all government business. Even so, there are thousands of renegotiations a year.

The Board is now about a year and a half behind on its work, due to legislative delay. The Board has some 600 employes and a budget of $4.5 million a year. It returns to the U. S. Treasury many times this amount in savings. Treasury's voluntary refund receipts and excess profits recoveries on renegotiations totaled $13 million in fiscal 1952, $39 million in '53, $36 million in '54 and $22 million for the first five months of fiscal 1955.

No Signs 'New Virtue' in Congress Will Endure Very Long

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Dec. 28—Maybe the new Congress will take due notice of the alleged damage that has been done to its repute by outspoken members and will proceed to "censure" or "condemn" them.

Maybe some of the national church organizations which lately have been issuing pronouncements on the behavior of congressional committees now will prove their consistency by deploring not just one member's mistakes but the mistakes of other members, too.

But there are no signs of it, thus far. There is no evidence that the new virtue has lasted very long. On the contrary, the evidence points to the fact that only a member of Congress who fights communism can expect to bring down the wrath of his fellow members. Anybody else who is guilty of the same deviations from the "honor and decorum" of Congress can expect to go scot free.

More than a week has elapsed since an official document was released by the chairman of a House investigating committee. It reveals conduct much worse than anything charged against Senator McCarthy at any hearing, but it has not been given much publicity—and no indignant protests have come from those in the "left wing" or 'center" or anywhere else who have been telling the country that the Wisconsin senator and his "methods" are singularly his own.

But here is the evidence as related by the chairman of a House investigating committee:

"Sixteen public hearings were held, in the course of which the patient attempt was made by the chairman to follow the procedure unanimously agreed upon in advance...

"The last public hearing was held on June 17. Further public hearings were discontinued by a resolution passed by the majority at an executive meeting on July 2, 1954.

"The reason for the cessation of hearings was that the attitude and conduct of the ranking minority member had made it impossible to conduct orderly hearings. Among the obstructive and harassing acts of Mr. Hays—all of them during the public sessions—were these:

"He interrupted witnesses beyond all reason, attempting to frighten witnesses and to disorganize both the initial presentations and orderly interrogation by others. In one session of 185 minutes, he interrupted 246 times.

"When, after harrowingly frequent interruptions by Mr. Hays, great numbers of which were on extraneous matters, a rule was passed by a majority that a witness was to be premitted to finish his presentation before being questioned, Mr. Hays angrily remarked that he would pay no attention to any such rule and would interrupt whenever he pleased; and this he continued to do.

"His interruptions were very frequently intemperate, both in tone and substance, and in purposeful disregard of parliamentary procedure and the rules of the House . . .

"He repeatedly, from the rostrum, vilified other members of the committee and questioned their good faith. He publicly accused the chairman of lying and being a coward . . ."

There follows an illustrative excerpt from the record:

"Mr. Hays: I will say this to the gentleman, that out where I come from we have a saying that if a man doublecrosses you once, that is his fault; if he doublecrosses you twice, that is your fault. I just want you to know you won't get the second opportunity.

"The Chairman: Even that statement is not going to provoke the chairman, but there is no living man can justifiably say that this chairman—that this man who happens to be chairman at this time—has ever doublecrossed anybody or he had failed to keep his word.

"Mr. Hays: I am saying both.

"The Chairman: That is all right.

"Mr. Hays: Is that clear enough? There is no inference there, is there?

"The Chairman: That does not disturb me a particle.

"Mr. Hays: I know. You are pretty hard to disturb. I thought they had more guts in Tennessee.

"The Chairman: You are not going to provoke me. You need not worry. I have already made up my mind on that."

The chairman of that particular committee was Representative B. Carroll Reece, Republican, of Tennessee, and a former chairman of the Republican national committee. Whether he is right or wrong in his viewpoint about tax-free foundations is not germane—though this writer happens to think the foundations are not guilty of the charges made against them—but the issue is the conduct of a House member before one of its duly constituted committees.

Representative Wayne L. Hays of Ohio, Democrat, under the constitutional right of free speech, can say what he pleases—even use intemperate language. The precedents are on his side—that is, with the exception of the resolution of last November "condemning" Senator McCarthy. But Mr. Hays is safe anyhow from censure by resolution. For his conduct occurred not during a fight against Communists in government, but only in fighting Republicans.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Hot Springs, Ark., Dec. 27—This piece will go to the point as straight as the swallow to the gourd.

The Reece committee which investigated tax-exempt foundations found that the Reid Foundation, of the New York Herald Tribune, was an "example of the use of a foundation to retain control of an enterprise."

The Herald Tribune immediately retorted that the investigation "bore the earmarks of unfairness and bias." The Herald Tribune viewed the whole business with virtuous alarm as a threat to "the legislative branch" and to "liberty itself."

The committee said: "The Herald Tribune levelled extraordinarily savage attacks at this committee during its work both in editorials and in what purported to be its news columns."

The report tells us that the late Ogden M. Reid, husband of Helen Rogers Reid, the present boss of the paper, created this foundation on Aug. 2, 1942. He executed 17 promissory notes, bearing no interest, payable to him by the publishing company which owns H-T. He transferred these notes to the foundation. Further notes and open accounts were left to the foundation under Reid's will. These gifts and bequests "were apparently cleared as free of gift tax and estate tax, respectively."

Here comes the ouch.

The report says: "There seems to be considerable doubt whether these transfers were truly tax-exempt. A careful review by the internal revenue might well be in order.

"The deed which transferred the first batch of notes ($2,473,392) to the foundation, was an odd instrument. The notes bear no interest. On the other hand, the transfer authorizes the collection of the notes by the foundation only, for 'its sole use and benefit.' The foundation thus has been given a frozen asset bearing no income, with no right to sell it to produce income from reinvestment.

"It might be argued that the foundation, even though it earns no interest on the notes, can spend its principal. True. But its only obligation is to pay out its income. A payment on a note would constitute principal, not income. Morever, the notes are not payable unless the New York Herald Tribune, Inc., cares to pay them. The deed provides that the foundation, 'at the request of the Tribune will extend the time of payment of said indebtedness or any part thereof on such terms as a majority of the directors of the foundation may decide.'"

So, the Herald Tribune, with a majority of four of its own directors among the seven directors of the foundation, has a practical right to grant itself unlimited extensions of time on obligations which bear no interest. The committee discovered that the Herald Tribune's agents serving on the foundation could postpone collection for 1,000 years.

"Note also," the report says, "that while the foundation may stage 'terms and conditions' for extension, they cannot deny the right to an extension. Note, finally, that the directors of the foundation were nominees of its creator, the donor of the notes." But can the foundation compel actual payment? On that point, the committee says: "The foundation may compromise the indebtedness (that is, forgive it in as large a part as it wishes) at will and thus virtually make a gift to the Herald Tribune of property dedicated to public use."

Now the committee comes to "perhaps the most interesting clauses" providing that the foundation must always give the H-T "every reasonable opportunity and full cooperation to work out its financial affairs."

The committee charges that the intention was to establish a business arrangement and not a foundation engaged solely in charitable work. "It was to subordinate whatever philanthropic work had been planned to the welfare of the paper and the interest of the Reid family" in the Herald Tribune.

"There was," the report says, "no free gift of the notes. They were transferred under a contract to assist the publishing company in its financial problem and, by clear inference, to make this objective superior to its presumed charitable function.

"It was a magnificently designed arrangement. It is very likely that it might have been impossible to pay taxes on this $8,500,000 and still retain in the family control of a Herald Tribune left financially sound.

"Comparatively little in the way of 'charity' has been done by the foundation in relation to the size of its assumed capital. Earning no interest, it is dependent on capital payments by the Herald Tribune when it chooses to make payments. There have been some principal payments and these have evidently been used to create Reid fellowships and for other purposes. But it's performance as a $8,500,000 foundation has been, in the aggregate, understandably pitiful. Its first obligation has been to support the Herald Tribune."

New York, Dec. 28 (AP)—A ruthless intruder, apparently looking for a blind widow's quiz show prize money, struck her over the head in her apartment yesterday and escaped with all he could find—45 cents. ## ATTEND PUBLIC HEARING

There will be a public hearing tonight on the city budget for 1955. This official public hearing will be held at 7:30 in the Common Council Chamber and any voter or property holder is privileged to attend, whether merely to listen or to express his mind.

The tentative tax rate is $54.72 based on a budget total of $1,733,159.59 to be raised by taxation. The rate increase is 96 cents over last year. The budget provides for pay increases to city employes amounting to some $48,000.

Persons particularly interested in certain appropriations in the budget will do well to be present and make known their desires at the public hearing tonight.

A NEW POWER

The coming regime of Democratic Governor-Elect Harriman in New York will be of national interest for many reasons, not the least of which will be the attention it focuses on the activities of one Carmine G. DeSapio.

Harriman has named DeSapio his secretary of state, and in this fairly exposed place he may show the country a little more about his makeup and character. This knowledge will be of considerable value, for DeSapio has become a political figure of no small importance.

He is the boss of Tammany Hall, the Democratic national committeeman for New York, and the man who single-handedly put Harriman across for governor at the Democratic state convention last September.

This means that henceforth he is automatically a large voice in national Democratic councils. He more than Harriman, who is a relative political novice, will cast the weight of New York's 90-odd votes at the next party presidential convention.

What makes DeSapio of more than ordinary interest is that he presents himself as a brand-new kind of Tammany chieftain. When he took over the fabled organization in 1949, it was shattered and creaking, with a reputation for corruption. He set out to reform and rebuild it.

In the ensuing years, DeSapio brought in young Democrats, backed civic reforms, lectured on politics and government. He suggested that Tammany had been streamlined and that its new leader was a professional politician in the best sense—almost like a career diplomat.

In 1953 he scored his first major success when he chose Robert F. Wagner, Jr., to run for mayor of New York.

In 1954, Representative Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., set out early to capture the nomination for governor. But he worked on upstate politicians. Meantime, DeSapio had other ideas. When the Democratic convention rolled around, he had picked his man—not Roosevelt, but Harriman.

With the votes counted, DeSapio looked like a shrewd kingmaker. Harriman squeaked through to win, while Roosevelt, billed as the great vote-getter, tumbled in humiliating defeat in his bid for the state attorney generalship.

Henceforth, we shall begin to see more clearly how accurate a picture DeSapio has drawn of himself and a revitalized Tammany. There is no question that a new power has risen in the Democratic Party. The only riddle is whether or not he is a force making for a higher level of politics in his party and the country.

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

84TH CONGRESS

The American Congress operates through a series of committees in each House, the chairmen of which are powerful men with great authority and responsibility. This is particularly true of chairmen of senatorial committees. It is normal to assume that the President, who in this country is also the head of the government, is the final authority, but actually, under our system of checks and balances, chairmen of committees can, if they wish, embarrass a President, slow up such phases of his program as come before them, hold up his appointments indefinitely, avoid ratification of treaties with foreign countries and investigate executive departments to their hearts' content.

It has always heretofore been embarrassing to a President when the majority in either House is of the opposite party; it is even more embarrassing when that majority is only of one vote in the Senate and when his own party is split. President Eisenhower is attempting to meet this by arranging what amounts to a non-party Congress led by the executive. It is a new political concept in the United States, although it has been used in England in war-time in the form of a coalition government and in various other countries in the form of a one-party government.

Most Democrats are closer to President Eisenhower's ideas than many Republicans, certainly than the Right Wing Senators who constitute the legislative leadership of his party. Nevertheless the Democrats face the problem that if they support the President's program, they could leave themselves without a campaign issue and it would be difficult for them to elect senators, representatives, governors, judges and minor officials in 1956. Were we organized politically on the British model, it would be easier to make a coalition government work, but in this country where elections must occur each two years, it becomes more difficult. Localisms play too great a role.

There is currently much talk of both parties nominating President Eisenhower for President in 1956, thus solving all the difficulties raised by a coalition or a non-party government. It is doubtful whether such an arrangement can be made or whether it is in the best interest of the country. The basic theory of the presidency, as it appears in the Constitution, is that it is limited in authority and in tenure. The 22nd Amendment limits the tenure to two terms, that is, eight years. The purpose of a political campaign is that the people may review the work of the President, to require him to go to the people for their approval, and to prevent him from becoming so tremendous a figure as to overwhelm the country.

The current idea among many of President Eisenhower's supporters that he is above criticism was not applied to any other President. One of the major functions of Congress is to criticize the Executive with the object of keeping him within constitutional limits. It must therefore be expected that on many questions, the President will be criticized in the 84th Congress by Democrats and by Right Wing Republicans. It is to be expected that in some matters Congress will accept the guidance and leadership of the President and that in others, it will not.

The Democrats, if they are to make a record for the 1956 campaign, must take an independent position on public questions; otherwise they could not even write a platform. Surely the men who may aspire to the Democratic nomination in 1956 will not be silent. Among them are Adlai Stevenson, Governor Averell Harriman of New York, Governor Frank Lausche of Ohio, Senator Estes Kefauver, Senator Stuart Symington. There will undoubtedly be others. Such men must stand before the public as leaders of political thought and action. It is therefore to be presumed that sometime next spring the Democrats will produce a clear-cut opposition.

On the other hand, should the Democrats become the party of Eisenhower, it could mean the elimination of Republicans altogether. This would be resisted, particularly by the Right Wing Republicans who still constitute a majority of their party. They would, in such circumstances, not only be fighting for the two-party principle, but for their individual political lives. And that fight would express itself tactically in the Senate.

The 84th Congress therefore will not only be interesting; it may be constitutionally crucial in American life.

TEAMWORK AMONG SPECIALISTS

When a patient consults his physician and states he has a "pain in his stomach," he is asked several questions, one or the other of which may give the clue to the cause of his disturbance. Some of the questions asked may be: "Does the pain move about or remain in the same place?" "Does the pain occur at the lower end of the stomach or higher up?" "Does the pain come on at certain hours of the day or is it present all the time?"

In a news release from the National Association of Medical Specialists in X-ray, we read extracts of a speech by Dr. E. Jenkinson on the need for close teamwork between the different medical specialists—radiologists, stomach specialists and internal medical specialists in determining just what condition may be present in the stomach. He points out that the pylorus, which is the section at the bottom of the stomach where it empties into the first part of the small intestine, is the place where many medical men believe most troubles of the stomach happen.

"Such conditions as peptic ulcer, 'gastritis' or inflammation of the lining of the stomach, cancer and other diseases are often located at this spot and their detection and identification sometimes require the interpretive skills of several physicians."

About three in every four cases of stomach cancer is located at this section and in the diagnosis of this condition it is imperative that the stomach specialist and the radiologist (X-ray specialist) work in close co-operation. No positive reliance can be placed on clinical findings alone (observation of the symptoms and course of a disease), and this also is true of the X-ray studies alone; but if both are combined, then the proper steps can be taken against the disease.

Dr. Jenkinson singled out gastritis as one disease beginning in the lower section of the stomach that calls for close teamwork between radiologist and stomach specialist. "The cause of the condition (inflammation of the lining of the stomach) is not known definitely, but alcohol, tobacco and extremely hot fluids are said to be contributing factors." To these factors may be added emotional disturbances.

When we realize the high death rate in cancer of the stomach and the difficulty in deciding whether or not it is present or whether some other condition of the stomach is present, we realize how important it may be to every one of us to obtain this important partnership between stomach specialists and radiologists.

What'll It Be, an Upset or Just a Good Rocking?

Edson's Washington News Notebook

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington—(NEA)—The Renegotiation Act of 1951—which permits your Uncle Samuel to recapture excessive profits on government purchases — expires at midnight, Dec. 31. So far, nobody has moved a finger to have the act extended. If not renewed, the government stands to lose between $30 million and $40 million a year—right down the drain.

As a matter of fact the only agitation in this field now is pressure to let the renegotiation act die and stay dead—permanently. The Board of Directors of U. S. Chamber of Commerce passed a resolution last month, opposing any request for further extension.

The Chamber's principal arguments are that the act is a "costly nuisance" to business in keeping records on government contracts.

It is argued that if there were no renegotiation act, government procurement officers would write sharper contracts and save the government money in this way.

THE OTHER SIDE OF THIS argument is that the costs on many new products which the government buys—like airplanes and new weapons—are unknown. Contracts for their procurement have to be drawn on many assumptions of estimated production costs. Often cheaper production methods are discovered. If no provision is made for the government to benefit from these lowered costs, tremendous profits would accrue to the government suppliers, and taxpayers would have to foot the bill.

During World War 2 the government recovered a gross of $11 billion and a net of $3 billion after taxes, by reopening contracts and recapturing excessive profits.

The original renegotiation act was passed in 1943. Each procurement agency handled its own contracts at that time. Army had ordnance, quartermaster corps, signal corps, aviation, corps of engineers and other purchasing agencies. Navy had a similar set-up.

THE ORIGINAL WARTIME renegotiation act was partially renewed in 1948 for peacetime operations. But after the Korean war broke out, Congress passed a new Renegotiation Act of 1951, with a three-year life.

Instead of allowing each procurement office to handle its own renegotiations, the new act provided for a centralized five-man board to handle renegotiation on all government purchases. One member was to be nominated by the Army, Navy, Air Force and General Services Administration. The President was to name the fifth member and designate the chairman.

For the past year the office of the chairman has been vacant. Charles E. Mills, retired Boston banker, has been acting chairman. There are five regional boards in Boston, New York, Detroit, Chicago and Los Angeles. They handle most of the actual renegotiations.

Only appeals cases, the granting of exemptions, preparation of regulations and general supervision are handled by Washington. Appeals from Washington decisions may be taken to U. S. tax court, but few cases have gone this full route.

President Eisenhower asked for an extension of the renegotiation act in his State of the Union message last January. It was the last day of Congress, in August, before the renewal was approved. It was for one year, retroactively to Jan. 1, 1954.

NEW LIMITATIONS WERE WRITTEN into the extension. Firms doing less than $500,000 a year business with the government were totally exempted from renegotiation. Also, an exemption was granted for "standard commercial articles" furnished by two or more suppliers and sold under sufficient competition to protect the government.

The Renegotiation Board has just completed issuing its regulations under this revised act. It has no idea of how many government suppliers will be exempted from renegotiation by these new provisions. But it hoped they will meet in part the objections of suppliers to keeping such detailed accounts.

Renegotiation is not handled on an individual contract basis, but on the total amount of receipts and accruals any government supplier may have in its fiscal year, on all government business. Even so, there are thousands of renegotiations a year.

The Board is now about a year and a half behind on its work, due to legislative delay. The Board has some 600 employes and a budget of $4.5 million a year. It returns to the U. S. Treasury many times this amount in savings. Treasury's voluntary refund receipts and excess profits recoveries on renegotiations totaled $13 million in fiscal 1952, $39 million in '53, $36 million in '54 and $22 million for the first five months of fiscal 1955.

No Signs 'New Virtue' in Congress Will Endure Very Long

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Dec. 28—Maybe the new Congress will take due notice of the alleged damage that has been done to its repute by outspoken members and will proceed to "censure" or "condemn" them.

Maybe some of the national church organizations which lately have been issuing pronouncements on the behavior of congressional committees now will prove their consistency by deploring not just one member's mistakes but the mistakes of other members, too.

But there are no signs of it, thus far. There is no evidence that the new virtue has lasted very long. On the contrary, the evidence points to the fact that only a member of Congress who fights communism can expect to bring down the wrath of his fellow members. Anybody else who is guilty of the same deviations from the "honor and decorum" of Congress can expect to go scot free.

More than a week has elapsed since an official document was released by the chairman of a House investigating committee. It reveals conduct much worse than anything charged against Senator McCarthy at any hearing, but it has not been given much publicity—and no indignant protests have come from those in the "left wing" or 'center" or anywhere else who have been telling the country that the Wisconsin senator and his "methods" are singularly his own.

But here is the evidence as related by the chairman of a House investigating committee:

"Sixteen public hearings were held, in the course of which the patient attempt was made by the chairman to follow the procedure unanimously agreed upon in advance...

"The last public hearing was held on June 17. Further public hearings were discontinued by a resolution passed by the majority at an executive meeting on July 2, 1954.

"The reason for the cessation of hearings was that the attitude and conduct of the ranking minority member had made it impossible to conduct orderly hearings. Among the obstructive and harassing acts of Mr. Hays—all of them during the public sessions—were these:

"He interrupted witnesses beyond all reason, attempting to frighten witnesses and to disorganize both the initial presentations and orderly interrogation by others. In one session of 185 minutes, he interrupted 246 times.

"When, after harrowingly frequent interruptions by Mr. Hays, great numbers of which were on extraneous matters, a rule was passed by a majority that a witness was to be premitted to finish his presentation before being questioned, Mr. Hays angrily remarked that he would pay no attention to any such rule and would interrupt whenever he pleased; and this he continued to do.

"His interruptions were very frequently intemperate, both in tone and substance, and in purposeful disregard of parliamentary procedure and the rules of the House . . .

"He repeatedly, from the rostrum, vilified other members of the committee and questioned their good faith. He publicly accused the chairman of lying and being a coward . . ."

There follows an illustrative excerpt from the record:

"Mr. Hays: I will say this to the gentleman, that out where I come from we have a saying that if a man doublecrosses you once, that is his fault; if he doublecrosses you twice, that is your fault. I just want you to know you won't get the second opportunity.

"The Chairman: Even that statement is not going to provoke the chairman, but there is no living man can justifiably say that this chairman—that this man who happens to be chairman at this time—has ever doublecrossed anybody or he had failed to keep his word.

"Mr. Hays: I am saying both.

"The Chairman: That is all right.

"Mr. Hays: Is that clear enough? There is no inference there, is there?

"The Chairman: That does not disturb me a particle.

"Mr. Hays: I know. You are pretty hard to disturb. I thought they had more guts in Tennessee.

"The Chairman: You are not going to provoke me. You need not worry. I have already made up my mind on that."

The chairman of that particular committee was Representative B. Carroll Reece, Republican, of Tennessee, and a former chairman of the Republican national committee. Whether he is right or wrong in his viewpoint about tax-free foundations is not germane—though this writer happens to think the foundations are not guilty of the charges made against them—but the issue is the conduct of a House member before one of its duly constituted committees.

Got 45 Cents

New York, Dec. 28 (AP)—A ruthless intruder, apparently looking for a blind widow's quiz show prize money, struck her over the head in her apartment yesterday and escaped with all he could find—45 cents. Mrs. Helen O'Rourke, 56, who is also partially paralyzed, told police several attempts to rob her had been made since she won $500 in the program ("Strike It Rich") last fall. She said the money "was gone in one day" for bills.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Hot Springs, Ark., Dec. 27—This piece will go to the point as straight as the swallow to the gourd.

The Reece committee which investigated tax-exempt foundations found that the Reid Foundation, of the New York Herald Tribune, was an "example of the use of a foundation to retain control of an enterprise."

The Herald Tribune immediately retorted that the investigation "bore the earmarks of unfairness and bias." The Herald Tribune viewed the whole business with virtuous alarm as a threat to "the legislative branch" and to "liberty itself."

The committee said: "The Herald Tribune levelled extraordinarily savage attacks at this committee during its work both in editorials and in what purported to be its news columns."

The report tells us that the late Ogden M. Reid, husband of Helen Rogers Reid, the present boss of the paper, created this foundation on Aug. 2, 1942. He executed 17 promissory notes, bearing no interest, payable to him by the publishing company which owns H-T. He transferred these notes to the foundation. Further notes and open accounts were left to the foundation under Reid's will. These gifts and bequests "were apparently cleared as free of gift tax and estate tax, respectively."

Here comes the ouch.

The report says: "There seems to be considerable doubt whether these transfers were truly tax-exempt. A careful review by the internal revenue might well be in order.

"The deed which transferred the first batch of notes ($2,473,392) to the foundation, was an odd instrument. The notes bear no interest. On the other hand, the transfer authorizes the collection of the notes by the foundation only, for 'its sole use and benefit.' The foundation thus has been given a frozen asset bearing no income, with no right to sell it to produce income from reinvestment.

"It might be argued that the foundation, even though it earns no interest on the notes, can spend its principal. True. But its only obligation is to pay out its income. A payment on a note would constitute principal, not income. Morever, the notes are not payable unless the New York Herald Tribune, Inc., cares to pay them. The deed provides that the foundation, 'at the request of the Tribune will extend the time of payment of said indebtedness or any part thereof on such terms as a majority of the directors of the foundation may decide.'"

So, the Herald Tribune, with a majority of four of its own directors among the seven directors of the foundation, has a practical right to grant itself unlimited extensions of time on obligations which bear no interest. The committee discovered that the Herald Tribune's agents serving on the foundation could postpone collection for 1,000 years.

"Note also," the report says, "that while the foundation may stage 'terms and conditions' for extension, they cannot deny the right to an extension. Note, finally, that the directors of the foundation were nominees of its creator, the donor of the notes." But can the foundation compel actual payment? On that point, the committee says: "The foundation may compromise the indebtedness (that is, forgive it in as large a part as it wishes) at will and thus virtually make a gift to the Herald Tribune of property dedicated to public use."

Now the committee comes to "perhaps the most interesting clauses" providing that the foundation must always give the H-T "every reasonable opportunity and full cooperation to work out its financial affairs."

The committee charges that the intention was to establish a business arrangement and not a foundation engaged solely in charitable work. "It was to subordinate whatever philanthropic work had been planned to the welfare of the paper and the interest of the Reid family" in the Herald Tribune.

"There was," the report says, "no free gift of the notes. They were transferred under a contract to assist the publishing company in its financial problem and, by clear inference, to make this objective superior to its presumed charitable function.

"It was a magnificently designed arrangement. It is very likely that it might have been impossible to pay taxes on this $8,500,000 and still retain in the family control of a Herald Tribune left financially sound.

"Comparatively little in the way of 'charity' has been done by the foundation in relation to the size of its assumed capital. Earning no interest, it is dependent on capital payments by the Herald Tribune when it chooses to make payments. There have been some principal payments and these have evidently been used to create Reid fellowships and for other purposes. But it's performance as a $8,500,000 foundation has been, in the aggregate, understandably pitiful. Its first obligation has been to support the Herald Tribune."

Using Plan of Corporations May Be Helpful for Savings

New York, Dec. 28 (AP)—The year's big spending spree behind them, most citizens are full of good resolutions today about saving money.

If you're serious about it, you might take a tip from corporations. They strike a trial balance sheet when they want to find out where they stand. And they keep up a watchful search for the best plan to make assets and funds work for them for maximum saving.

Some individuals think they have been saving money when actually they're worse off now than when the year started. Others say they haven't been able to save a cent when actually they have added to their net worth by increasing their equity in insurance or homes.

OFFICIAL FIGURES place total gains in savings by Americans this year as between 19 and 20 billion dollars. But while the national total continued to rise, more people were dipping into their savings this year, too. More withdrew money from banks this year than last. More cashed in their life insurance. Enough others, however, added to their savings so that the total of savings and insurance grew.

Official figures can never paint a true picture of the "average man." But trends can be noted — and one is toward seeking improved ways of making your money work for you.

The man with a small income has more variations on ways of saving than he used to—and is using more outlets, too, the Research Institute of America points out today. He is buying stocks on the installment plan, investing in mutual funds, using investment plans especially packaged by banks.

THE STANDARD OUTLETS for saving, of course, continue to be bank and other savings accounts, insurance, savings bonds, corporate securities, real estate.

For its 50,000 members the institute has drawn up a savings policy memo for 1955 which shows them how to find out if they're really saving or not, and to determine which is the best way for them to save.

First strike a personal balance sheet, like a corporation's, to find out your net worth.

On one side list what you own: Cash in bank, cash surrender value of life insurance and annuities, market value of real estate, resale value of furniture and furnishings, trade in value of cars, money lent to others, government and corporate bonds, and market value of other securities. Add them up to get the total of your assets.

TO FIND OUT what you owe, list: All bills due, personal loans payable, amount of mortgage still due, unpaid taxes, balance due on instalment purchases. Add them up to get your total liabilities.

Compare your asset value and your liabilities and find your net worth—or (let's hope not) how far you're behind the game.

Repeat a year from now and see if you've been making progress at saving—or slipped further into debt.

Some of the rules the institute works out for getting the most out of saving are: Funds for an emergency belong only in a bank. Put only funds earmarked for a long range goal into savings bonds—interest drops if you cash them in before maturity.

CHOSE INSURANCE policies that most closely meet your particular needs, and change policies when the needs change.

You're saving regularly when you buy a house, but don't rush to buy till you know about all the responsibilities you'll be assuming.

Agreement Awaits Pentagon Okay

Washington, Dec. 28 (AP)—The air force says a formal agreement detailing the religious rights of Americans stationed in Spain must get Pentagon approval before it is signed.

This was announced last night after Washington was advised that the U. S. Military Mission in Spain is "working toward an understanding with the Spanish government which will assure all of our people here the traditional American right to worship according to the dictates of their conscience."

AIR FORCE headquarters said it was awaiting receipt from Madrid of unsigned drafts of military agreements being negotiated prior to the setting up of military aid and American bases in Spain.

Maj. Gen. Charles I. Carpenter, chief of air force chaplains and a Methodist, was said in published reports to have approved a religious marriage agreement for Americans in Spain. In response to inquiries, Chaplain Carpenter said he would have no comment until he had seen the final draft of the proposed agreement.

PRELIMINARY negotiations on the religious agreement were handled by Lt. Col. Raymond M. Stadta, a Roman Catholic chaplain. Aides said Gen. Carpenter had told Col. Stadta several months ago that he seemed to be working in the right direction in the negotiations.

Maj. Gen. August W. Kissner, chief of the U. S. Military Mission in Spain, reported the agreement would give American military chaplains full responsibility for the religious needs of servicemen and their dependents. He made no reference to the regulation of marriages between Catholics and non-Catholics.

Informed sources said that in such cases Catholic rites would be used and the non-Catholic partner would have to agree that any children would be baptized and reared as Catholics.

The agreement would cover American civilians, as well as servicemen, under military jurisdiction in Spain.

Agreement Awaits Pentagon Okay

Washington, Dec. 28 (AP)—The air force says a formal agreement detailing the religious rights of Americans stationed in Spain must get Pentagon approval before it is signed.

This was announced last night after Washington was advised that the U. S. Military Mission in Spain is "working toward an understanding with the Spanish government which will assure all of our people here the traditional American right to worship according to the dictates of their conscience."

AIR FORCE headquarters said it was awaiting receipt from Madrid of unsigned drafts of military agreements being negotiated prior to the setting up of military aid and American bases in Spain.

Maj. Gen. Charles I. Carpenter, chief of air force chaplains and a Methodist, was said in published reports to have approved a religious marriage agreement for Americans in Spain. In response to inquiries, Chaplain Carpenter said he would have no comment until he had seen the final draft of the proposed agreement.

PRELIMINARY negotiations on the religious agreement were handled by Lt. Col. Raymond M. Stadta, a Roman Catholic chaplain. Aides said Gen. Carpenter had told Col. Stadta several months ago that he seemed to be working in the right direction in the negotiations.

Maj. Gen. August W. Kissner, chief of the U. S. Military Mission in Spain, reported the agreement would give American military chaplains full responsibility for the religious needs of servicemen and their dependents. He made no reference to the regulation of marriages between Catholics and non-Catholics.

Informed sources said that in such cases Catholic rites would be used and the non-Catholic partner would have to agree that any children would be baptized and reared as Catholics.

The agreement would cover American civilians, as well as servicemen, under military jurisdiction in Spain.

Using Plan of Corporations May Be Helpful for Savings

New York, Dec. 28 (AP)—The year's big spending spree behind them, most citizens are full of good resolutions today about saving money.

If you're serious about it, you might take a tip from corporations. They strike a trial balance sheet when they want to find out where they stand. And they keep up a watchful search for the best plan to make assets and funds work for them for maximum saving.

Some individuals think they have been saving money when actually they're worse off now than when the year started. Others say they haven't been able to save a cent when actually they have added to their net worth by increasing their equity in insurance or homes.

OFFICIAL FIGURES place total gains in savings by Americans this year as between 19 and 20 billion dollars. But while the national total continued to rise, more people were dipping into their savings this year, too. More withdrew money from banks this year than last. More cashed in their life insurance. Enough others, however, added to their savings so that the total of savings and insurance grew.

Official figures can never paint a true picture of the "average man." But trends can be noted — and one is toward seeking improved ways of making your money work for you.

The man with a small income has more variations on ways of saving than he used to—and is using more outlets, too, the Research Institute of America points out today. He is buying stocks on the installment plan, investing in mutual funds, using investment plans especially packaged by banks.

THE STANDARD OUTLETS for saving, of course, continue to be bank and other savings accounts, insurance, savings bonds, corporate securities, real estate.

For its 50,000 members the institute has drawn up a savings policy memo for 1955 which shows them how to find out if they're really saving or not, and to determine which is the best way for them to save.

First strike a personal balance sheet, like a corporation's, to find out your net worth.

On one side list what you own: Cash in bank, cash surrender value of life insurance and annuities, market value of real estate, resale value of furniture and furnishings, trade in value of cars, money lent to others, government and corporate bonds, and market value of other securities. Add them up to get the total of your assets.

TO FIND OUT what you owe, list: All bills due, personal loans payable, amount of mortgage still due, unpaid taxes, balance due on instalment purchases. Add them up to get your total liabilities.

Compare your asset value and your liabilities and find your net worth—or (let's hope not) how far you're behind the game.

Repeat a year from now and see if you've been making progress at saving—or slipped further into debt.

Some of the rules the institute works out for getting the most out of saving are: Funds for an emergency belong only in a bank. Put only funds earmarked for a long range goal into savings bonds—interest drops if you cash them in before maturity.

CHOSE INSURANCE policies that most closely meet your particular needs, and change policies when the needs change.

You're saving regularly when you buy a house, but don't rush to buy till you know about all the responsibilities you'll be assuming.

Don't play the stock market—but buy shares carefully for long-term investment—if saving is your goal.

Why We Say--

Our most popular name for a boy is John . . . and this is also true in Scotland. The early horse riders there were little boys rather than men. Since the diminutive form of John was Jock, the popular call to riders was "Come on Jockey, boy" . . . Thus riders became known as jockeys as they are today.

Why We Say--

Our most popular name for a boy is John . . . and this is also true in Scotland. The early horse riders there were little boys rather than men. Since the diminutive form of John was Jock, the popular call to riders was "Come on Jockey, boy" . . . Thus riders became known as jockeys as they are today.

RCA Cuts Its Price On Many Records

New York, Dec. 28 (AP)—In a surprise move, Radio Corp. of America has announced a price cut of 30 per cent or more on many of its classical long-playing RCA records, effective Jan. 3.

Frank M. Folsom, RCA president, announced the price slash yesterday and predicted a new era of expansion for the record industry.

His announcement apparently came as a surprise to other big record manufacturers. Columbia Records, Decca, Capitol and Angel had no immediate comment on the RCA move but said statements would be forthcoming.

The RCA price cut will drop the price of all 12-inch long-playing records to $3.98, as compared to previous prices ranging from $4.19 to $5.95. All 10-inch long-playing records, which previously ranged from $2.99 to $4.95, will be reduced to $2.98.

New prices were also announced for RCA 45-RPM records The prices represent substantial cuts in some types and slight increases in others.

"We are eliminating the price differential between types of music so that the new lower prices will apply to all types of music," Folsom said.

The price cut was hailed by most New York city record dealers as long overdue, many dealers have long been selling records at discounts. They declined to predict whether they would continue to give discounts below the new RCA prices.

Red Paper Pledges Formosa Liberation

Tokyo, Dec. 28 (AP)—The Chinese Communist people will "liberate Taiwan (Formosa), put an end to Chiang Kai-shek (president of Nationalist China), and shatter the U. S.-Chiang war treaty," a semi-official Red China newspaper said today.

Using some of the strongest language yet employed in a month-long propaganda barrage, the Peiping People's Daily, quoted in a Peiping radio broadcast heard here, asserted:

"In the interests of peace it is imperative that the United States government withdraw all of its armed forces from Taiwan, the Penghu (Pescadores) Islands and the Taiwan Strait, and put a stop to its incursions on Chinese territory and independence."

It followed a broadcast Sunday of a speech by Premier Chou En-lai in which he said "the Chinese people will never halt" until the Red flag flies over Formosa.

The People's Daily concentrated on the mutual defense treaty recently negotiated between the U. S. and the Chinese Nationalist government on Formosa.

Adopts New Rule

Mineola, Dec. 28 (AP)—Nassau county is the second county in New York state to adopt permanent registration for elections, permitting voters to remain eligible from year to year after initial registration. The county board of supervisors yesterday approved permanent registration under a new state regulation. Broome county was the first to adopt this system. Previously voters were required to register each year.

Christmas Was Busiest Day for Telephone Staff

Christmas Greetings by long distance telephone caused the busiest day of the year for operators at the Kingston switchboard who handled a total of 4416 calls to all parts of the country during the holiday weekend.

According to L. W. Herrick, New York Telephone Company manager, a full staff of operators was at the switchboard all during Christmas Day to handle the calls.

The manager revealed that calls from Kingston carried holiday messages to points as distant as Texas and California. Overseas calls were made by local residents to friends and loved ones in Japan, France, China, and Korea.

NATIONWIDE, he said, Christmas calling reached an all-time peak of over 6,000,000 calls, as estimated by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

"The huge volume of calls, we believe was due in part to the ease of long distance calling and the reasonable cost," he declared. He pointed out that the spread of direct dialing of long distance calls by operators during the past year and the additional long distance facilities that have been installed enabled the operators to handle calls more efficiently and quickly than in previous years.

"In spite of this, some delays on out-of-state calls developed late Christmas Day because of the huge volume of calls," Herrick said.

He reported that many calls were placed by number, which, he declared, not only increased the speed of handling but lightened the duties of the operators who then had to make the call only once instead of first calling to obtain the distant number.

Noe Finally Had It

New York, Dec. 28 (AP)—Detectives had tagged 21-year-old Noe Castaner as a drug peddler, but every time they searched him they found nothing. Yesterday they stopped Noe as he carried a package in bright Christmas wrapping. They opened it. Inside were several packages of heroin and a small box, designed to hold car keys, magnetized to stick to metal parts of the car. Detectives said Castner, who was booked on a narcotics charge, apparently kept drugs in the little box and whenever he was searched had managed to stick it to some convenient metal object like a railing or door knob, until the search was over.

Nothing but Clues

New York, Dec. 28 (AP)—Pablo E. Quiles, 18, made it easy for police to track him down and arrest him on charges of stealing $700 worth of clothing. He liked one of the stolen suits so well, police said, that he put it on while still in the victim's apartment yesterday and left his old suit behind. In the old suit police found a wallet, containing his name, address and photograph. Less than an hour later they picked up Quiles.

Hays' Will Filed; Three Are Named

New York, Dec. 28 (AP)—Attorney Arthur Garfield Hays left most of his unestimated estate in trust for his two daughters and a one-time New York city actress.

The will, filed for probate yesterday, provided that the daughters, Mrs. Lora Hays Spindell and Mrs. Jane Hays Butler, will receive $17,500 in cash and the income from a third of the residuary estate each.

The actress, identified in the will as Miss Moon Carroll, will receive the income from the other third of the residuary estate and $15,000 in cash.

The will specified, however, that should Miss Carroll marry, her share of the estate will revert to Hays' daughters. Miss Carroll was reported out of town and not available for comment on the will.

Hays, a millionaire corporation lawyer who also handled many prominent civil liberties cases, died Dec. 14 at the age of 73. His will was written in 1949.

Work Is Resumed

Detroit, Dec. 28 (AP)—Metal grinders heeding orders of their CIO United Auto Workers Union, returned to their jobs at Chrysler Corp. today, following a wildcat strike that idled 8,000 yesterday and 17,000 last night. The stoppages developed when 42 grinders on the morning shift and 25 on the afternoon shift refused to work on Chrysler's Mack avenue automotive body plant. The Mack plant was closed down yesterday and last night and Chrysler sent 5,000 home from the Plymouth division's assembly plant when a shortage of bodies developed last night.

One cord of pulpwood is needed to produce the powder for 90,000 rounds of Garand rifle ammunition.

RARE TREAT—Members of the 4-H Club in Taipeh, Formosa, seem delighted as they examine rabbits sent to them as a "good-will" gift by Japanese 4-H Club members.

Party Scheduled Wednesday for Ulster TB Patients

Santa Claus may be late but he will still be generous and joyful when he makes a visit to the patients at the Ulster County TB Hospital on Wednesday evening.

Presents from the huge Christmas tree in the assembly room were prepared earlier by the Patients Service Committee of the Ulster County TB and Health Association. Charles Trice, who has twice before represented the Knights of Columbus in Kingston, will assume the role of Santa Claus and distribute the gifts which have been made possible through various organizations and individuals who supplement the Christmas Seals funds for the patients' party.

B'nai B'rith Auxiliary, noted for its delicious refreshments, will again provide them for the 1954 Christmas party. The entertainment will be presented by the granges of Ulster county with Mrs. George Molenhauer acting as chairman, A Christmas stable built and contributed by Leonard Freer of Kingston with a beautiful imported nativity set of 20 pieces donated by the Knights of Columbus through Rehabilitation representative Allen Baker, comes in for much favorable comment from visitors and families of the patients as they pass through the foyer of the hospital these holidays.

The Patients Service Committee work, which provides plans for entertainment, occupational therapy and other diversions, is but a part of a constructive rehabilitation program with a worker at the hospital directed by Dr. Herbert Schwartz, medical director and financed by the Ulster County TB and Health Association through Christmas Seals funds.

17 Are Injured

Dunkirk, Dec. 28 (AP)—Seventeen crewmen were injured early today when an east-bound Nickel Plate freight train ripped into a six car wrecking train, tearing up hundreds of yards of track and piling up eight to ten cars in a mass of flaming wreckage. All 17 men were taken to Brooks Hospital here where 10 were treated for minor injuries and released. Others are in good condition the hospital reported.

Supplies Are Sent

Messina, Sicily, Dec. 28 (AP)—The Italian Red Cross rushed tents and relief supplies today to the lonely Liprari Islands, off northern Sicily, where rolling earthquakes spread panic among the people of small fishing villages. The quakes were felt for more than 11 hours yesterday and continued, intermittently, during much of the night. Reports reaching here by radio said there were no dead, but a few people were slightly injured. Several houses collapsed and others were damaged.

Orange to Enlarge County Infirmary

Orange county's infirmary at Orange Farm, the county welfare home, may soon be enlarged, according to Orange County Welfare Commissioner Jerome A. Simon. The present 125 bed infirmary may soon become inadequate and there is already a proposed plan for eventual erection of a 100-bed addition.

Addition of 100 beds would provide Orange county with sufficient space for the welfare department's needs for an indefinite future period, Simon said.

Uister county has just opened its 100-bed infirmary in the former Kingston city home which has been renovated and modernized to take care of the county's chronically ill.

18 Are Arrested

Milan, Italy, Dec. 28 (AP)—Police announced today the arrest of 18 men following a seven-year investigation of a counterfeit ring. Agents said they found in Milan a clandestine money mill which had printed 113,000 American dollars and 1,800,000 Austrian schillings (about $70,000). The police said those arrested were of Hungarian, Lithuanian, Austrian, Yugoslav and Italian nationalities.

Mrs. Van Kleeck Is Still Serious

The condition of Mrs. Joanna Van Kleeck, 87, of 537 Albany avenue, who suffered second degree burns early yesterday morning in the kitchen of her home, was reported still serious this morning at Benedictine Hospital.

Hospital authorities said she had spent a "comfortable night," however.

Mrs. Van Kleeck set the sleeve of her jacket on fire at the jet of a gas stove while warming her arm, it was reported. Her physician said she suffered second degree burns of the chest, chin and side of her face.

New Jersey Plans To Oppose Any Central Move

Newark, N. J., Dec. 28 (AP)—Legal wheels have been set in motion by the New York Central Railroad in its plan to drop ferry service between Weekhawken and New York.

The State Public Utility Commission received notice yesterday from the Interstate Commerce Commission that the railroad had applied for authority to end the service.

Mrs. Hortense Kessler said the PUC, of which she is president, would oppose the action.

The railroad had announced previously that it wanted to drop the ferry service, as well as commuter service on its West Shore Division through Hudson and Bergen counties, on grounds that it was losing money on these operations.

The PUC has 20 days in which to answer the letter from the ICC. It was announced that a public hearing on the matter would be held by the federal agency at a date and place to be determined later.

Three Are Seized

New York, Dec. 28 (AP)—Three youths, each driving a stolen 1954 Ford sedan, were seized yesterday after a one-block, bullet-punctuated chase in the Bronx, police reported. Vincent Weeks, 16, of Manhattan; Robert Fernandez, 16, and Leonard Cross, 17, both of the Bronx, were each booked on a charge of grand larceny for appearance today in Bronx Magistrate's Court.

Announcing a new kind of Automobile Insurance in New York at surprisingly low cost:

MOTORIST'S PERSONAL PROTECTION PLAN

Applies in any auto accident in the U.S. or Canada, no matter who is at fault or whether the other driver is insured

THE TRAVELERS, the first company to write Automobile Liability insurance, is proud to be the first to offer this new protection as an addition to its Automobile Liability policy.

There are two important features in The Motorist's Personal Protection Plan:

TOTAL DISABILITY COVERAGE
DEATH INDEMNITY COVERAGE

Here's why the Plan is needed:

1 Personal insurance such as this Plan affords is the only way the insured can protect himself when no one else is at fault.

Last year in New York State, 691 persons were killed and 22,438 injured in automobile accidents in which the car ran off the roadway, overturned in the roadway, collided with a fixed object or was otherwise involved in accidents *which did not involve collision with another car. The driver in almost all of these accidents was the only one at fault.

2 Personal insurance such as this Plan affords is also a means by which the insured can protect himself when someone else is at fault and the other person is not adequately insured, or is uninsured.

Details of benefits and exceptions and information on how you may qualify for the Plan are contained in our pamphlet, "For You, a New and Different Automobile Insurance." For your copy, call the Travelers representative in your community. (There are Travelers representatives throughout the state.) Or send a card or letter to the Travelers office listed below.

Orange to Enlarge County Infirmary

Orange county's infirmary at Orange Farm, the county welfare home, may soon be enlarged, according to Orange County Welfare Commissioner Jerome A. Simon. The present 125 bed infirmary may soon become inadequate and there is already a proposed plan for eventual erection of a 100-bed addition.

Addition of 100 beds would provide Orange county with sufficient space for the welfare department's needs for an indefinite future period, Simon said.

Uister county has just opened its 100-bed infirmary in the former Kingston city home which has been renovated and modernized to take care of the county's chronically ill.

Mrs. Van Kleeck Is Still Serious

The condition of Mrs. Joanna Van Kleeck, 87, of 537 Albany avenue, who suffered second degree burns early yesterday morning in the kitchen of her home, was reported still serious this morning at Benedictine Hospital.

Mrs. Van Kleeck set the sleeve of her jacket on fire at the jet of a gas stove while warming her arm, it was reported. Her physician said she suffered second degree burns of the chest, chin and side of her face.

New Jersey Plans To Oppose Any Central Move

Newark, N. J., Dec. 28 (AP)—Legal wheels have been set in motion by the New York Central Railroad in its plan to drop ferry service between Weekhawken and New York.

The State Public Utility Commission received notice yesterday from the Interstate Commerce Commission that the railroad had applied for authority to end the service.

Mrs. Hortense Kessler said the PUC, of which she is president, would oppose the action.

The railroad had announced previously that it wanted to drop the ferry service, as well as commuter service on its West Shore Division through Hudson and Bergen counties, on grounds that it was losing money on these operations.

The PUC has 20 days in which to answer the letter from the ICC. It was announced that a public hearing on the matter would be held by the federal agency at a date and place to be determined later.

Three Are Seized

New York, Dec. 28 (AP)—Three youths, each driving a stolen 1954 Ford sedan, were seized yesterday after a one-block, bullet-punctuated chase in the Bronx, police reported. Vincent Weeks, 16, of Manhattan; Robert Fernandez, 16, and Leonard Cross, 17, both of the Bronx, were each booked on a charge of grand larceny for appearance today in Bronx Magistrate's Court.

Announcing a new kind of Automobile Insurance in New York at surprisingly low cost:

MOTORIST'S PERSONAL PROTECTION PLAN

Applies in any auto accident in the U.S. or Canada, no matter who is at fault or whether the other driver is insured

THE TRAVELERS, the first company to write Automobile Liability insurance, is proud to be the first to offer this new protection as an addition to its Automobile Liability policy.

There are two important features in The Motorist's Personal Protection Plan:

TOTAL DISABILITY COVERAGE
DEATH INDEMNITY COVERAGE

Here's why the Plan is needed:

1 Personal insurance such as this Plan affords is the only way the insured can protect himself when no one else is at fault.

Last year in New York State, 691 persons were killed and 22,438 injured in automobile accidents in which the car ran off the roadway, overturned in the roadway, collided with a fixed object or was otherwise involved in accidents *which did not involve collision with another car. The driver in almost all of these accidents was the only one at fault.

2 Personal insurance such as this Plan affords is also a means by which the insured can protect himself when someone else is at fault and the other person is not adequately insured, or is uninsured.

Details of benefits and exceptions and information on how you may qualify for the Plan are contained in our pamphlet, "For You, a New and Different Automobile Insurance." ### Defends Act Policy

Washington, Dec. 27 (AP)—Rep. Walter (D.-Pa.) today praised immigration checks in the refugee law and defended R. W. Scott McLeod, whose administration of the act has been criticized by others. Walter is second ranking Democrat on the House Judiciary Committee and helped to write the McCarran-Walter basic immigration law. The Judiciary Committee's chairman-to-be, Rep. Celler (D.-N. Y.) returned from a five-week overseas tour this month with sharp criticism for McLeod, the State Department's Security chief. "A good law," Celler said, "has been prostituted by the insane, arbitrary and savage administration thereof by Mr. Scott McLeod."

SHOKAN NEWS

Shokan, Dec. 27 — Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Kelly of the Magnolia avenue section of Mt. Vernon were among the out of town people calling here.

Minnie Adsit is assisting Postmaster Betsy Von Derosten with the heavy volume of holiday mail at the local post office.

John Davis and son, Kenneth, formerly of Ashokan, are reported to be getting out bluestone blocks in large quantity at their Krumville quarry.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Winnie left Shokan Saturday in their car for Tampa, Fla. The couple plan a vacation sojourn in the West Coast metropolis which is Mrs. Winnie's native city.

May Gaffkin and Frances Morris of Kingston were callers in the village Wednesday while on their way to call on Mrs. George Terwilliger of the Bushkill neighborhood.

Mrs. Clayton Burgher, one time teacher of the Shokan school, is reported to be a patient at a Kingston hospital where Clayton also is receiving treatment.

Having a birthday Wednesday, Dec. 29, is James Stoutenburg, well known Town of Hurley resident and well driller. "Jim," who is active in water supply associations, civic organizations and Methodist Church affairs, is married to the former Katherine Bush of Dutchess county. He was born at Glenford, son of James and Alice (Kellerhouse) Stoutenburg.

Deacon Ed. Adsit recently took up about 40 pounds of wild honey in the woods near his house. Ed figures most of the honey resulted from the bees' partiality for Mrs. Adsit's fine flower beds a short distance from their woodland habitat.

Danny and Denny Marlatt, two bright lads from Olive Bridge, came home by bus Thursday morning from Delhi where they had been visiting their uncle, Dr. Arthur Davis. They are grandsons of Mrs. LeRoy Davis and their father is ice cream department manager for Schrafft's in New York. The family have made their home on the one time Jane Davis place for the past seven years.

Mrs. Cornwell Longyear, who as Evelyn Wands resided in Shokan as a girl, writes local friends from her new home in Albuquerque that a temperature of as low as 20 degrees plus has been registered in the mile-high New Mexico city this month. Precipitation out there is far below normal and the lack of moisture is causing much concern at this time, according to Mrs. Longyear.

Defends Act Policy

Washington, Dec. 27 (AP)—Rep. Walter (D.-Pa.) today praised immigration checks in the refugee law and defended R. W. Scott McLeod, whose administration of the act has been criticized by others. Walter is second ranking Democrat on the House Judiciary Committee and helped to write the McCarran-Walter basic immigation law. The Judiciary Committee's chairman-to-be, Rep. Celler (D.-N. Y.) returned from a five-week overseas tour this month with sharp criticism for McLeod, the State Department's Security chief. "A good law," Celler said, "has been prostituted by the insane, arbitrary and savage administration thereof by Mr. Scott McLeod."

SHOKAN NEWS

Shokan, Dec. 27 — Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Kelly of the Magnolia avenue section of Mt. Vernon were among the out of town people calling here.

Minnie Adsit is assisting Postmaster Betsy Von Derosten with the heavy volume of holiday mail at the local post office.

John Davis and son, Kenneth, formerly of Ashokan, are reported to be getting out bluestone blocks in large quantity at their Krumville quarry.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Winnie left Shokan Saturday in their car for Tampa, Fla. The couple plan a vacation sojourn in the West Coast metropolis which is Mrs. Winnie's native city.

May Gaffkin and Frances Morris of Kingston were callers in the village Wednesday while on their way to call on Mrs. George Terwilliger of the Bushkill neighborhood.

Mrs. Clayton Burgher, one time teacher of the Shokan school, is reported to be a patient at a Kingston hospital where Clayton also is receiving treatment.

Having a birthday Wednesday, Dec. 29, is James Stoutenburg, well known Town of Hurley resident and well driller. "Jim," who is active in water supply associations, civic organizations and Methodist Church affairs, is married to the former Katherine Bush of Dutchess county. He was born at Glenford, son of James and Alice (Kellerhouse) Stoutenburg.

Deacon Ed. Adsit recently took up about 40 pounds of wild honey in the woods near his house. Ed figures most of the honey resulted from the bees' partiality for Mrs. Adsit's fine flower beds a short distance from their woodland habitat.

Danny and Denny Marlatt, two bright lads from Olive Bridge, came home by bus Thursday morning from Delhi where they had been visiting their uncle, Dr. Arthur Davis. They are grandsons of Mrs. LeRoy Davis and their father is ice cream department manager for Schrafft's in New York. The family have made their home on the one time Jane Davis place for the past seven years.

Mrs. Cornwell Longyear, who as Evelyn Wands resided in Shokan as a girl, writes local friends from her new home in Albuquerque that a temperature of as low as 20 degrees plus has been registered in the mile-high New Mexico city this month. Precipitation out there is far below normal and the lack of moisture is causing much concern at this time, according to Mrs. Longyear.

Smashed and prostrate at World War II's end, Germany made an economic comeback that astonished the experts. Now her economic boom is an all-time high and shows no signs of slowing down its pace. Industrial production accounts for more than half of Germany's total output. Today it is 185 per cent of the 1936 level and about 10 per cent above 1953's total. Picto-chart below gives comparative figures on basic economic factors.

Tillson Christmas Program Is Held

Tillson, Dec. 28—Christmas exercises were held Friday evening at the Tillson Reformed Church, under the direction of Mrs. William Serenbetz and Mrs. Leslie Barringer. Children taking part included Kenneth Wootten, Charlene Goss, Gary Dippel, Thomas Rowe, Randy and Terry Oakley, Linda Wright, Diane Bagley, Betsy Hutchins, Joyce Cranse, Althea Stahl, Maureen Born, Sally Ann Goss, John Rowe, Gary Sutherland, Lesley Barringer, William Dippel, Charles DeWitt, Robert DuBois, Raymond Wright, and Patricia Hoffman.

Songs were sung by the various classes throughout the program. Leslie Barringer sang a solo, O Holy Night, accompanied on the electric organ by Mrs. Albert Wright.

Following this, members of the Christian Endeavor Society presented a tableau, birth of Our Lord Jesus Christ, in three scenes. Preceding and during the pageant, the choir sang Christmas songs which were then acted out by the cast. The first scene, While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks, had in the cast Billy Atkins, Howard Sutherland, Larry Born, Billy Dunn and Diane Deyo.

The second scene, Silent Night, had a cast composed of Peggy Sutherland, Douglas Wootten and Marilyn Harvey.

The final scene, Hark the Herald Angels Sing, was acted out by Holly Hutchins, Kathryn Serenbetz, Pamela Wootten and Pat Hill.

The entire Sunday school closed the program with the song, Joy to the World, after which candy was distributed and gifts exchanged between teachers and pupils. A large crowd attended the activity.

this summer. In addition, there would be provision to give six months of training each year to 100,000 youths who volunteer. They would then be obliged to serve in the reserves for 9½ years. Men currently are drafted for two years and then are supposed to serve in the reserves for six years.

Mansfield said the government "should pay its soldiers, sailors, airmen and marines enough money to keep them in the service permanently. Military service should be treated as a career and should be paid accordingly."

Asked whether his proposed 25 per cent pay raise would apply to generals as well as privates, Mansfield said he was primarily interested in the enlisted ranks.

The administration plans to ask for an increase in military pay, but has not announced the amount. Asst. Secretary of Defense Fred Seaton has said there will be emphasis on higher pay for technicians rather than for enlisted men without special training.

Smashed and prostrate at World War II's end, Germany made an economic comeback that astonished the experts. Now her economic boom is an all-time high and shows no signs of slowing down its pace. Industrial production accounts for more than half of Germany's total output. Today it is 185 per cent of the 1936 level and about 10 per cent above 1953's total. Picto-chart below gives comparative figures on basic economic factors.

Tillson Christmas Program Is Held

Tillson, Dec. 28—Christmas exercises were held Friday evening at the Tillson Reformed Church, under the direction of Mrs. William Serenbetz and Mrs. Leslie Barringer. Children taking part included Kenneth Wootten, Charlene Goss, Gary Dippel, Thomas Rowe, Randy and Terry Oakley, Linda Wright, Diane Bagley, Betsy Hutchins, Joyce Cranse, Althea Stahl, Maureen Born, Sally Ann Goss, John Rowe, Gary Sutherland, Lesley Barringer, William Dippel, Charles DeWitt, Robert DuBois, Raymond Wright, and Patricia Hoffman.

Songs were sung by the various classes throughout the program. Leslie Barringer sang a solo, O Holy Night, accompanied on the electric organ by Mrs. Albert Wright.

Following this, members of the Christian Endeavor Society presented a tableau, birth of Our Lord Jesus Christ, in three scenes. Preceding and during the pageant, the choir sang Christmas songs which were then acted out by the cast. The first scene, While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks, had in the cast Billy Atkins, Howard Sutherland, Larry Born, Billy Dunn and Diane Deyo.

The second scene, Silent Night, had a cast composed of Peggy Sutherland, Douglas Wootten and Marilyn Harvey.

The final scene, Hark the Herald Angels Sing, was acted out by Holly Hutchins, Kathryn Serenbetz, Pamela Wootten and Pat Hill.

The entire Sunday school closed the program with the song, Joy to the World, after which candy was distributed and gifts exchanged between teachers and pupils. A large crowd attended the activity.

this summer. In addition, there would be provision to give six months of training each year to 100,000 youths who volunteer. They would then be obliged to serve in the reserves for 9½ years. Men currently are drafted for two years and then are supposed to serve in the reserves for six years.

Mansfield said the government "should pay its soldiers, sailors, airmen and marines enough money to keep them in the service permanently. Military service should be treated as a career and should be paid accordingly."

Asked whether his proposed 25 per cent pay raise would apply to generals as well as privates, Mansfield said he was primarily interested in the enlisted ranks.

The administration plans to ask for an increase in military pay, but has not announced the amount. Asst. Secretary of Defense Fred Seaton has said there will be emphasis on higher pay for technicians rather than for enlisted men without special training.

Think It Through

By EDWARD F. HUTTON

White blackbird, purple cow, man-biting dog, — "you hain't seen nothing yet." Read on, neighbor, and let's look at the Ninth Wonder of the World.

We go to Washington, D.C., the lobby capital of the U.S.A. 'Tis there that great buildings rise nobly to the skies, the headquarters of organizations which want to be Johnny-on-the-Spot when Congress is pondering their fate.

Mr. Hutton

One of these buildings is the home of a nation-wide labor union which thinks there is nothing lower than a working "stiff" who refuses to join a union.

In this case the union was the employer, the "boss," and other names often used which it ain't polite to print.

Well, neighbor, this union employer had a bunch of 29 employes who were pressured to join a union, probably a union of office workers.

They didn't want to, or at least some of them, — so the great National Labor Relations Board held an election to count those who wanted in, and those who wanted out.

When the ballots were counted, the vote against joining the union was 28 to 1.

Why, I dunno! Maybe the employer union treated their employes so well that they saw no percentage in joining up to pay dues in order to hold their jobs, and thus reduce their take-home pay. Or maybe, the 28 just refused as a matter of principle.

Anyhow, when the employes of a union vote not to join a union, it takes some wind out of the sails of the labor bosses who are lobbying to defeat "Right to Work" laws that say nobody can be forced to join unless he wants to.

For myself, I'm for freedom to join, or not join. In short, I'm for freedom.

How about you, neighbor?

Sailor Denies Wrongdoing, Says Killing Baseless

New York, Dec. 28 (AP)—Authorities today were faced with two different versions of a street fight early on Sunday during which a young sailor was slain by an off-duty policeman.

"We didn't do anything. There wasn't any reason for him to shoot," sobbed James Geraci, 22, a friend of the slain sailor, who participated in the fray.

The sailor, James Nicolli, 22, a navy baker aboard the USS Glennon berthed at Newport, R. I., was shot to death in the stomach by Patrolman Sidney Eisenberg, 28.

EISENBERG SAID Nicolli and Geraci attacked him after he had stopped their car after it zig-zagged in front of him in a Bronx street.

Eisenberg, who was off-duty and driving with his wife, said he forced the car to the curb and yelled out that he was a policeman.

He then showed them his badge, he said, and one of the men made an anti-semitic remark.

"Then they both jumped me. I fell flat on the roadway, and then they began beating and kicking me."

He said he managed to free himself after his wife, Marilyn, fired a warning shot with his revolver.

"I got the gun from my wife and covered both boys," Eisenberg said.

"I told the two boys they were under arrest. Both started toward me and one said, 'We'll kill you this time.' I had to shoot."

Eisenberg was hospitalized with cuts and bruises and possible internal injuries after the incident.

GERACI FREE in $2,500 bail on felonious assault charge, insisted that he and Nicolli gave the officer no reason to shoot. He said they thought Eisenberg was "kidding" when he stopped their car.

Meanwhile, Peter Nicolli, brother of the dead sailor, said he was planning to file a suit against the city as a result of the slaying. He gave no details. The sailor, on a four-day Christmas leave, was to have been discharged from the navy in 38 days.

Scientific Research

Since the end of World War 2 private industry has spent more than 10 billion dollars for scientific research, an independent research organization reports.

Norway, Sweden and Denmark are taking steps to form an economic union along the lines of the Benelux accord among Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

BEATS POLIO'S AFTERMATH—Warren VanEss, 19, of Grand Rapids, Mich., whose arms and legs were paralyzed by polio two years ago, paints water-color pictures by holding the brush with his teeth. He is shown putting details on a western scene he was commissioned to paint.

IT'S NOT SO NICE TO GO HOME—It might look like a dump to you, but this dwelling is home to these children in Paris, France. The building has been condemned, but 145 persons, including 30 children, continue to live there for lack of anywhere else to go.

There was nothing wrong with the bidding of today's hand even though South failed to make his contract. It was quite normal to get to three no-trump, and South would have made this contract against most defenders.

South didn't want to open the bidding with one no-trump, even though he had balanced distribution and a count of 18 points, because he had a worthless doubleton in diamonds. Most experts will risk bidding no-trump with a weak three-card holding, although they naturally prefer a stopper in each of the four suits, but they avoid opening in no-trump with a weak doubleton.

South's weakness in diamonds was more than compensation, of course, when North bid and rebid the suit. It seemed reasonable to suppose that North had at least eight points in high cards, so that the combined total was enough to yield a good play for game. South therefore jumped to game in no-trump.

West opened the deuce of hearts, and East put up the king. South won with the ace of hearts and led the ten of diamonds, letting it ride for a finesse. Most defenders would take the trick with the queen of diamonds, and the fat would then be in the fire.

When the hand was actually played, the East cards were held by Sidney Lazard, well-known young New Orleans expert. Sidney refused the first diamond trick and thus paved the way for the defeat of the game contract.

South continued with another diamond, as good a play as any he could make, and Lazard won with the queen. Declarer was now out of diamonds and could get to the dummy once with the ace of clubs to set the diamonds up, but he could never get there again to cash the diamonds. South could therefore make only one diamond trick, which gave him a total of only eight tricks.

Declarer would have made his contract if Lazard had won the first diamond. South would win the heart return with the queen and lead his remaining diamond to force out the ace. It would do no good to refuse the second diamond trick, since dummy would win it and would be in a position to lead a third diamond. The defenders would take two hearts and two diamonds, but South would easily take the rest, making the game and rubber.

WHEN THE FOOD IS COLD

A young woman writes me: "My sister and I were invited to lunch with a friend at her club. When my lunch arrived it was ice cold and if there is anything I abhor it is cold food. I called the waiter over and asked him please to take it back. Later my sister told me that I was wrong for doing this and that I should have told the hostess about the food being cold and she should have directed the waiter to take it back. Will you please tell me what is proper?"

Your sister is right. The hostess alone should make any complaint to the waiter.

The Uninvited

Dear Mrs. Post: Several of my friends and I have been having a discussion on whether or not it is proper to go to a church wedding without an invitation. Another girl and myself hold that it is not proper, but the others disagree, saying that a church is a public place and as such, a person is free to go in at any time. I would very much like to have your opinion.

Answer: It would not be either good taste or good manners to go anywhere uninvited, but to go in quietly to a large church and sit on a side aisle would probably not be noticed.

Dear Mrs. Post: I have two questions on which I would like your help. (1) When passing your plate to the hostess for a second helping, do you leave your silver on the plate or hold it in your hand? (2) What is the proper way to remove a bit of gristle or a tough piece of meat from the mouth?

Answer: (1) You leave the knife and fork on the plate, putting them well in from the edge so that they will not slide off. (2) You remove something unedible from your mouth between thumb and first two fingers, with thumb underneath.

Is it good manners to cut a leafy salad with a knife? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. Her leaflet E-19, "Table Rules of Importance," will help you. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to Dept. EP, c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Miss Joanne Du Bois, Thomas L. Ramsey Wed in New Paltz

Miss Joanne Du Bois, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Lee Du Bois of New Paltz, became the bride of Thomas Lawson Ramsey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace W. Ramsey of Vicksburg, Miss., in a double ring ceremony held Monday at 4 p. m. in the Reformed Church in New Paltz. The Rev. Gerret J. Wullschleger of this church officiated.

Mrs. Arthur Kurtz was organist and accompanied Robert Strothenke, soloist. The church was decorated with white gladioli, chrysanthemums and evergreens.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white satin and alencon lace ballerina length gown. Her veil of silk illusion was attached to a pearl crown. She carried a bouquet of stephanotis and white orchids.

Miss Barbara Harrod of Whapakoneta, O., was maid of honor. The other attendants were Mrs. Ashton Wingate Hart of New Paltz, Miss Jane Ingram of Meadville, Pa., and the junior bridesmaid, Miss Jaquith Lee Du Bois, cousin of the bride.

All attendants wore peacock crystallette ballerina length gowns and matching velvet headbands, and carried bouquets of red carnations.

James B. Ramsey, Jr., cousin of the bridegroom of Wyckoff, N. J., served as best man. The ushers were Ashton Wingate Hart of New Paltz, Curtis Titus of Washington, Conn., and Frank Exman of Stone Ridge.

A reception was held at the Governor Clinton Hotel immediately following the ceremony. Guests were present from Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Mississippi, Connecticut and Maryland.

The bride, a graduate of New Paltz High School, is a senior at Northwestern University where she will receive a bachelor of music degree in June. She is a member of Delta, Delta Delta and also of Sigma Alpha Iota, National Music Fraternity.

The bridegroom received a bachelor of music degree from Southwestern Louisiana Institute, Lafayette, La., and a master of music degree from Northwestern University. He is a member of the Theta Xi and Phi Mu Alpha National Music fraternity, and Blue Key leadership fraternity.

Mr. Ramsey is a teacher of music at Lake Bluff School, Lake Bluff, Ill. The couple will live in Evanston, Ill.

Good Taste Today

(Author of Etiquette, Children Are People, etc.)

WHEN THE FOOD IS COLD

A young woman writes me: "My sister and I were invited to lunch with a friend at her club. When my lunch arrived it was ice cold and if there is anything I abhor it is cold food. I called the waiter over and asked him please to take it back. Later my sister told me that I was wrong for doing this and that I should have told the hostess about the food being cold and she should have directed the waiter to take it back. Will you please tell me what is proper?"

Your sister is right. The hostess alone should make any complaint to the waiter.

The Uninvited

Dear Mrs. Post: Several of my friends and I have been having a discussion on whether or not it is proper to go to a church wedding without an invitation. Another girl and myself hold that it is not proper, but the others disagree, saying that a church is a public place and as such, a person is free to go in at any time. I would very much like to have your opinion.

Answer: It would not be either good taste or good manners to go anywhere uninvited, but to go in quietly to a large church and sit on a side aisle would probably not be noticed.

Dear Mrs. Post: I have two questions on which I would like your help. (1) When passing your plate to the hostess for a second helping, do you leave your silver on the plate or hold it in your hand? (2) What is the proper way to remove a bit of gristle or a tough piece of meat from the mouth?

Answer: (1) You leave the knife and fork on the plate, putting them well in from the edge so that they will not slide off. (2) You remove something unedible from your mouth between thumb and first two fingers, with thumb underneath.

Carrier Midway Goes To Pacific Region

Norfolk, Va., Dec. 28 (AP)—The aircraft carrier Midway was en route to the Pacific today with a promise from her skipper to 'help stand guard in the Far East" against the Communists "with quiet dignity and strength."

"We pray that the Chinese Communists won't start a fight—but if they do we will fight back," Capt. Reynold D. Hogle, USN, told the crowd of well-wishers who saw the 45,000-ton flatop depart yesterday.

The Midway, which has called Norfolk her home port for approximately 10 years, is heading for immediate duty with the 7th Fleet.

Coincident with her departure it was revealed that the carrier Coral Sea will follow her to the west coast in the spring of 1957.

The Midway, which carries 3,000 officers and men, will pick up its air arm, Carrier Air Group One, at Mayport, Fla., on the way to the Pacific.

Girl Will Undergo Special Treatment

Washington, Dec. 28 (AP) — Linda Puente, 7, thrilled today to her first train ride—happily unaware that it carried her to a possible life or death crisis in her short life.

Linda suffered from a pain-wracking, sometimes fatal disease which drugs thus far have helped to keep in check during four years of illness.

With her mother and father, Linda rode the train from New York city to Washington to become a tudy patient at the U. S. Public Health Service National Institutes of Health in nearby Bethesda, Md.

THE BROWN-HAIRED, pink cheeked child posed gravely for photographers as she arrived at Union Station. She smiled at newsmen but, bashful, didn't say much.

Pushing her dolly stroller ahead of her, she marched down the platform to the Red Cross vehicle which took her to the institute.

Her mother, Mrs. Dorothy Puente, said Linda enjoyed the train ride because she didn't know she was going to a hospital. Linda has unpleasant memories of being in a hospital before.

LINDA HAS what is known as lupus erythematosus. As her mother put it, Linda has "arthritis in every joint in her body." She said Linda has been kept from the worst pain by use of cortisone every 12 hours.

At the health center, a new drug will be tried. No one knows how it will work or how long Linda may have to stay.

The girl's father, Wilfred, lost his legs from machine gun wounds in France in World War 2.

Linda's parents do not expect to be able to visit her more often than every two weeks or so because of the travel expense. The Puentes have three other children aged eight, five and three.

Equipment Is Burned

Ballston Spa, Dec. 28 (AP)—More than $50,000 worth of elaborate gambling equipment seized from horserooms and once fancy night clubs in Saratoga Springs was burned today at the Ballston Spa village dump. Truckloads of roulette wheels, bird cages, slot machines, crap tables, blackboards, desks and other furnishings were piled high and doused with crankcase oil. Arthur H. Christy, special assistant attorney general in charge of the state-ordered investigation of gambling in Saratoga, crushed some with a sledge hammer and touched the first match to the pile.

Flames Threaten Town Near San Bernardino

San Bernardino, Calif., Dec. 28 (AP) — Wind-lashed flames, which have burned 2,000 acres of timber and scorched roofs and fences, today threatened a mountain town in Cajon (Cahone') Pass, gateway to Southern California from the east.

Nearly 500 residents in 120 homes in Devore were alerted for possible evacuation. Fire crackled less than a mile from the San Bernardino Mountain community, through which runs U. S. Highway 66.

A dozen families moved out of the nearby settlement of Verdemont last night. Firefighters stopped the flames at the doorsteps, but not until several roofs and fences had caught fire. The flames were quickly quelled.

High winds, 40 to 50 miles an hour with guests up to 70, still hampered firefighters. Humidity dipped to a low of 13 per cent. Freezing temperatures also caused trouble. Ice formed in the hoses and nozzles of pump trucks combatting the flames at the 4,500-elevation.

Coal Mining Gains

Harrisburg, Pa., Dec. 28 (AP)—Free-lane mining in Pennsylvania's distressed anthracite region has been resurging briskly as large collieries close down. W. J. Clements, state secretary of mines, said in an interview today that a recent survey showed approximately 5,000 men are employed in the small mines or on trucks and breakers that handle the free-lane output. Almost 4,000 of these men work underground, Clements said, compared with approximately 2,500 in 1947. He estimated that the output from the small, free-lance mines would be about two million tons for 1954. The entire anthracite industry's output for the year is expected to be nearly 27 million tons.

To Nominate Lodge

Augusta, Ga., Dec. 28 (AP) — President Eisenhower said today he will send to the Senate in January the nomination of John Davis Lodge, retiring governor of Connecticut, to be ambassador to Spain. Lodge will succeed Ambassador James Clement Dunn. The President said he would nominate Dunn as ambassador to Brazil, succeeding ambassador James S. Kemper, who is retiring to re-enter business.

Pride of Race Is Party Inspiration At Willard Hotel

Washington, Dec. 28 (AP)—Fourteen Negro School girls made their debut last night at the Willard Hotel. The formal party was the first of its kind in memory at a downtown hotel.

The girls, all 16 or 17 years old, wore traditional white gloves and carried bouquets of red roses. Their escorts wore white ties.

About 200 guests attended the party, held in the crystal ballroom of the Willard, a capital landmark often called "the residence of presidents."

Mrs. Jennie M. Walburg, mother of one of the girls and a teacher at Lincoln Junior High School in nearby Rockville, Md., arranged the party. She said she hoped it would inspire "other girls of our race to pattern their lives in such a manner that their parents would be warranted in presenting them."

THE PARTY BEGAN at 10 p. m., when the girls, with their mothers beside them, formed a semi-circle and greeted their guests, some of whom had had come from New York, Baltimore, Richmond, Va., and Philadelphia.

This formation broke up and a huge picture frame was brought out. Each debutante came forward on the arm of her father, uncle or godfather and, as she stepped through the frame, was presented to the guests by the Rev. James O. West of Calvary Episcopal Church.

THE COTILLION was led by Gailya Kyles, 16, a senior at Dunbar High School, and her escort, James Goins. The debutantes and their escorts had practiced the traditional cotillion figure about six weeks.

The party broke up at 2 a. m. But there was another later for the debutantes and an early morning breakfast.

The idea of the reception originated with Mrs. Walburg who related she disliked the way in which girls in previous years had been introduced on a fee basis at a spring dance sponsored by a club.

She suggested to her daughter, Jean, that perhaps parents of her classmates and friends might like to pool funds for a hotel party.

Refreshments will be served at 9:15 and a watchnight service conducted in the Sunday school room at 10 p. m. The public is invited. There will be no charge.

Portugal Warns India of Resistance

Lisbon, Portugal, Dec. 28 (AP)—Portugal warned India last night that she will use "all possible means' to resist any invasion of the Portuguese Indian territory of Damao.

A communique from the overseas ministry said armed men with combat equipment had been sighted on Indian territory near the Portuguese pocket and that since Friday Indian border officials had stopped all mail and travelers to and from Damao.

"Portugal will not permit the invasion of her territory and she will employ all possible means to defend it," the communique declared.

DAMAO, an area of 1,449 square miles important for its valuable teak forests, fishing and shipbuilding, has been held by the Portuguese since 1559. It is one of the three Portuguese districts on India's west coast which Prime Minister Nehru has demanded repeatedly be ceded to India.

Portugal has refused even to discuss the Indian demands. Nehru has said his government would use only peaceful means to secure the territory.

President Gives No Views Based On Paris Ballot

Augusta, Ga., Dec. 28 (AP)—President Eisenhower is pleased with French approval of West Germany's admission into NATO, but he is reserving judgment on the complicated parliamentary developments which followed this vote in the French National Assembly early today.

When the Assembly voted 289-251 last night in favor of taking Germany into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, the holiday White House issued a statement that Eisenhower was "gratified" at the turn of events in Paris.

But when the Assembly raised procedural issues indicative of continued dislike for the idea of German rearmament, the little White House, although it was following the fight closely declined further comment.

THE FEELING in official circles here appeared to be that while a preliminary skirmish has been won in Paris, the bottle still hangs in the balance.

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said there will be no formal statement until the Assembly has completed action on the crucial question of accepting Germany as a full-fledged partner of the free world.

High on the Eisenhower agenda today is a telephone consultation with Secretary of State Dulles in Washington. Eisenhower talked with his diplomatic chief twice yesterday and was given a full report on French developments.

THE UNITED STATES favors not only admitting West Germany to NATO but rearming her so that she can make a contribution to the defense of Western Europe. Great Britain supports this position strongly.

Both nations hope that France will not disturb western unity by rejecting the plan.

Eisenhower may cut short his holiday stay here and fly back to Washington if France turns down German rearmament. A final vote on the question may not come until Wednesday or Thursday, Paris time.

U. S. Officials Are

still faces two more such votes Wednesday on the rearmament issue.

Secretary Dulles canceled his usual Tuesday news conference, obviously because he wanted to avoid discussing publicly the German rearmament outlook until the French have made a firm decision on the bitterly debated issue. Following his lead, the state department declined to comment for the present.

BUT TWO Democratic senators, Kefauver of Tennessee and Monroney of Oklahoma, joined today in the shower of praise from congressmen who foresaw last night's vote as clearly pointing to formal French approval of Germany's partnership with the west.

Monroney said the first vote "marks the high water point of Russian influence in Western Europe," and he added: "The grave danger will be in Asia but that is not comparable to the grand prize of world domination that the fall of Europe would represent."

Kefauver, employing almost the same language in a separate interview agreed that the French Assembly decision, if sustained in later votes, means "the high point of Russian influence in Europe will have passed."

Within minutes after last night's first vote, Chairman Wiley (R.-Wis.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee termed it "welcome news of the greatest historic importance," but cautioned against new Russian efforts to sabotage German rearmament.

Sen. George (D.-Ga.), who is in line to replace Wiley in the foreign relations chairmanship next week, said from his home in Vienna, Ga.:

"The vote is extremely gratifying and reassuring and heartening. It indicates that the free world can hold together, and it certainly strengthens the free world to have France come along."

Carrier Midway Goes To Pacific Region

Norfolk, Va., Dec. 28 (AP)—The aircraft carrier Midway was en route to the Pacific today with a promise from her skipper to 'help stand guard in the Far East" against the Communists "with quiet dignity and strength."

"We pray that the Chinese Communists won't start a fight—but if they do we will fight back," Capt. Reynold D. Hogle, USN, told the crowd of well-wishers who saw the 45,000-ton flatop depart yesterday.

The Midway, which has called Norfolk her home port for approximately 10 years, is heading for immediate duty with the 7th Fleet.

Coincident with her departure it was revealed that the carrier Coral Sea will follow her to the west coast in the spring of 1957.

The Midway, which carries 3,000 officers and men, will pick up its air arm, Carrier Air Group One, at Mayport, Fla., on the way to the Pacific.

Girl Will Undergo Special Treatment

Washington, Dec. 28 (AP) — Linda Puente, 7, thrilled today to her first train ride—happily unaware that it carried her to a possible life or death crisis in her short life.

Linda suffered from a pain-wracking, sometimes fatal disease which drugs thus far have helped to keep in check during four years of illness.

With her mother and father, Linda rode the train from New York city to Washington to become a tudy patient at the U. S. Public Health Service National Institutes of Health in nearby Bethesda, Md.

THE BROWN-HAIRED, pink cheeked child posed gravely for photographers as she arrived at Union Station. She smiled at newsmen but, bashful, didn't say much.

Pushing her dolly stroller ahead of her, she marched down the platform to the Red Cross vehicle which took her to the institute.

Her mother, Mrs. Dorothy Puente, said Linda enjoyed the train ride because she didn't know she was going to a hospital. Linda has unpleasant memories of being in a hospital before.

LINDA HAS what is known as lupus erythematosus. As her mother put it, Linda has "arthritis in every joint in her body." She said Linda has been kept from the worst pain by use of cortisone every 12 hours.

At the health center, a new drug will be tried. No one knows how it will work or how long Linda may have to stay.

The girl's father, Wilfred, lost his legs from machine gun wounds in France in World War 2.

Linda's parents do not expect to be able to visit her more often than every two weeks or so because of the travel expense. The Puentes have three other children aged eight, five and three.

Flames Threaten Town Near San Bernardino

San Bernardino, Calif., Dec. 28 (AP) — Wind-lashed flames, which have burned 2,000 acres of timber and scorched roofs and fences, today threatened a mountain town in Cajon (Cahone') Pass, gateway to Southern California from the east.

Nearly 500 residents in 120 homes in Devore were alerted for possible evacuation. Fire crackled less than a mile from the San Bernardino Mountain community, through which runs U. S. Highway 66.

A dozen families moved out of the nearby settlement of Verdemont last night. Firefighters stopped the flames at the doorsteps, but not until several roofs and fences had caught fire. The flames were quickly quelled.

High winds, 40 to 50 miles an hour with guests up to 70, still hampered firefighters. Humidity dipped to a low of 13 per cent. Freezing temperatures also caused trouble. Ice formed in the hoses and nozzles of pump trucks combatting the flames at the 4,500-elevation.

Coal Mining Gains

Harrisburg, Pa., Dec. 28 (AP)—Free-lane mining in Pennsylvania's distressed anthracite region has been resurging briskly as large collieries close down. W. J. Clements, state secretary of mines, said in an interview today that a recent survey showed approximately 5,000 men are employed in the small mines or on trucks and breakers that handle the free-lane output. Almost 4,000 of these men work underground, Clements said, compared with approximately 2,500 in 1947. He estimated that the output from the small, free-lance mines would be about two million tons for 1954. The entire anthracite industry's output for the year is expected to be nearly 27 million tons.

Pride of Race Is Party Inspiration At Willard Hotel

Washington, Dec. 28 (AP)—Fourteen Negro School girls made their debut last night at the Willard Hotel. The formal party was the first of its kind in memory at a downtown hotel.

The girls, all 16 or 17 years old, wore traditional white gloves and carried bouquets of red roses. Their escorts wore white ties.

About 200 guests attended the party, held in the crystal ballroom of the Willard, a capital landmark often called "the residence of presidents."

Mrs. Jennie M. Walburg, mother of one of the girls and a teacher at Lincoln Junior High School in nearby Rockville, Md., arranged the party. She said she hoped it would inspire "other girls of our race to pattern their lives in such a manner that their parents would be warranted in presenting them."

THE PARTY BEGAN at 10 p. m. when the girls, with their mothers beside them, formed a semi-circle and greeted their guests, some of whom had had come from New York, Baltimore, Richmond, Va., and Philadelphia.

This formation broke up and a huge picture frame was brought out. Each debutante came forward on the arm of her father, uncle or godfather and, as she stepped through the frame, was presented to the guests by the Rev. James O. West of Calvary Episcopal Church.

THE COTILLION was led by Gailya Kyles, 16, a senior at Dunbar High School, and her escort, James Goins. The debutantes and their escorts had practiced the traditional cotillion figure about six weeks.

The party broke up at 2 a. m. But there was another later for the debutantes and an early morning breakfast.

The idea of the reception originated with Mrs. Walburg who related she disliked the way in which girls in previous years had been introduced on a fee basis at a spring dance sponsored by a club.

Portugal Warns India of Resistance

Lisbon, Portugal, Dec. 28 (AP)—Portugal warned India last night that she will use "all possible means' to resist any invasion of the Portuguese Indian territory of Damao.

A communique from the overseas ministry said armed men with combat equipment had been sighted on Indian territory near the Portuguese pocket and that since Friday Indian border officials had stopped all mail and travelers to and from Damao.

"Portugal will not permit the invasion of her territory and she will employ all possible means to defend it," the communique declared.

DAMAO, an area of 1,449 square miles important for its valuable teak forests, fishing and shipbuilding, has been held by the Portuguese since 1559. It is one of the three Portuguese districts on India's west coast which Prime Minister Nehru has demanded repeatedly be ceded to India.

Portugal has refused even to discuss the Indian demands. Nehru has said his government would use only peaceful means to secure the territory.

President Gives No Views Based On Paris Ballot

Augusta, Ga., Dec. 28 (AP)—President Eisenhower is pleased with French approval of West Germany's admission into NATO, but he is reserving judgment on the complicated parliamentary developments which followed this vote in the French National Assembly early today.

When the Assembly voted 289-251 last night in favor of taking Germany into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, the holiday White House issued a statement that Eisenhower was "gratified" at the turn of events in Paris.

But when the Assembly raised procedural issues indicative of continued dislike for the idea of German rearmament, the little White House, although it was following the fight closely declined further comment.

THE FEELING in official circles here appeared to be that while a preliminary skirmish has been won in Paris, the bottle still hangs in the balance.

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said there will be no formal statement until the Assembly has completed action on the crucial question of accepting Germany as a full-fledged partner of the free world.

High on the Eisenhower agenda today is a telephone consultation with Secretary of State Dulles in Washington. Eisenhower talked with his diplomatic chief twice yesterday and was given a full report on French developments.

THE UNITED STATES favors not only admitting West Germany to NATO but rearming her so that she can make a contribution to the defense of Western Europe. Great Britain supports this position strongly.

Both nations hope that France will not disturb western unity by rejecting the plan.

Eisenhower may cut short his holiday stay here and fly back to Washington if France turns down German rearmament. A final vote on the question may not come until Wednesday or Thursday, Paris time.

U. S. Officials Are

still faces two more such votes Wednesday on the rearmament issue.

Secretary Dulles canceled his usual Tuesday news conference, obviously because he wanted to avoid discussing publicly the German rearmament outlook until the French have made a firm decision on the bitterly debated issue. Following his lead, the state department declined to comment for the present.

BUT TWO Democratic senators, Kefauver of Tennessee and Monroney of Oklahoma, joined today in the shower of praise from congressmen who foresaw last night's vote as clearly pointing to formal French approval of Germany's partnership with the west.

Monroney said the first vote "marks the high water point of Russian influence in Western Europe," and he added: "The grave danger will be in Asia but that is not comparable to the grand prize of world domination that the fall of Europe would represent."

Kefauver, employing almost the same language in a separate interview agreed that the French Assembly decision, if sustained in later votes, means "the high point of Russian influence in Europe will have passed."

Within minutes after last night's first vote, Chairman Wiley (R.-Wis.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee termed it "welcome news of the greatest historic importance," but cautioned against new Russian efforts to sabotage German rearmament.

Sen. George (D.-Ga.), who is in line to replace Wiley in the foreign relations chairmanship next week, said from his home in Vienna, Ga.:

"The vote is extremely gratifying and reassuring and heartening. It indicates that the free world can hold together, and it certainly strengthens the free world to have France come along."

Equipment Is Burned

Ballston Spa, Dec. 28 (AP)—More than $50,000 worth of elaborate gambling equipment seized from horserooms and once fancy night clubs in Saratoga Springs was burned today at the Ballston Spa village dump. Truckloads of roulette wheels, bird cages, slot machines, crap tables, blackboards, desks and other furnishings were piled high and doused with crankcase oil. Arthur H. Christy, special assistant attorney general in charge of the state-ordered investigation of gambling in Saratoga, crushed some with a sledge hammer and touched the first match to the pile.

Carrier Midway Goes To Pacific Region

Norfolk, Va., Dec. 28 (AP)—The aircraft carrier Midway was en route to the Pacific today with a promise from her skipper to 'help stand guard in the Far East" against the Communists "with quiet dignity and strength."

"We pray that the Chinese Communists won't start a fight—but if they do we will fight back," Capt. Reynold D. Hogle, USN, told the crowd of well-wishers who saw the 45,000-ton flatop depart yesterday.

The Midway, which has called Norfolk her home port for approximately 10 years, is heading for immediate duty with the 7th Fleet.

Coincident with her departure it was revealed that the carrier Coral Sea will follow her to the west coast in the spring of 1957.

The Midway, which carries 3,000 officers and men, will pick up its air arm, Carrier Air Group One, at Mayport, Fla., on the way to the Pacific.

Girl Will Undergo Special Treatment

Washington, Dec. 28 (AP) — Linda Puente, 7, thrilled today to her first train ride—happily unaware that it carried her to a possible life or death crisis in her short life.

Linda suffered from a pain-wracking, sometimes fatal disease which drugs thus far have helped to keep in check during four years of illness.

With her mother and father, Linda rode the train from New York city to Washington to become a tudy patient at the U. S. Public Health Service National Institutes of Health in nearby Bethesda, Md.

THE BROWN-HAIRED, pink cheeked child posed gravely for photographers as she arrived at Union Station. She smiled at newsmen but, bashful, didn't say much.

Pushing her dolly stroller ahead of her, she marched down the platform to the Red Cross vehicle which took her to the institute.

Her mother, Mrs. Dorothy Puente, said Linda enjoyed the train ride because she didn't know she was going to a hospital. Linda has unpleasant memories of being in a hospital before.

LINDA HAS what is known as lupus erythematosus. As her mother put it, Linda has "arthritis in every joint in her body." She said Linda has been kept from the worst pain by use of cortisone every 12 hours.

At the health center, a new drug will be tried. No one knows how it will work or how long Linda may have to stay.

The girl's father, Wilfred, lost his legs from machine gun wounds in France in World War 2.

Linda's parents do not expect to be able to visit her more often than every two weeks or so because of the travel expense. The Puentes have three other children aged eight, five and three.

Flames Threaten Town Near San Bernardino

San Bernardino, Calif., Dec. 28 (AP) — Wind-lashed flames, which have burned 2,000 acres of timber and scorched roofs and fences, today threatened a mountain town in Cajon (Cahone') Pass, gateway to Southern California from the east.

Nearly 500 residents in 120 homes in Devore were alerted for possible evacuation. Fire crackled less than a mile from the San Bernardino Mountain community, through which runs U. S. Highway 66.

A dozen families moved out of the nearby settlement of Verdemont last night. Firefighters stopped the flames at the doorsteps, but not until several roofs and fences had caught fire. The flames were quickly quelled.

High winds, 40 to 50 miles an hour with guests up to 70, still hampered firefighters. Humidity dipped to a low of 13 per cent. Freezing temperatures also caused trouble. Ice formed in the hoses and nozzles of pump trucks combatting the flames at the 4,500-elevation.

Coal Mining Gains

Harrisburg, Pa., Dec. 28 (AP)—Free-lane mining in Pennsylvania's distressed anthracite region has been resurging briskly as large collieries close down. W. J. Clements, state secretary of mines, said in an interview today that a recent survey showed approximately 5,000 men are employed in the small mines or on trucks and breakers that handle the free-lane output. Almost 4,000 of these men work underground, Clements said, compared with approximately 2,500 in 1947. He estimated that the output from the small, free-lance mines would be about two million tons for 1954. The entire anthracite industry's output for the year is expected to be nearly 27 million tons.

Pride of Race Is Party Inspiration At Willard Hotel

Washington, Dec. 28 (AP)—Fourteen Negro School girls made their debut last night at the Willard Hotel. The formal party was the first of its kind in memory at a downtown hotel.

The girls, all 16 or 17 years old, wore traditional white gloves and carried bouquets of red roses. Their escorts wore white ties.

About 200 guests attended the party, held in the crystal ballroom of the Willard, a capital landmark often called "the residence of presidents."

Mrs. Jennie M. Walburg, mother of one of the girls and a teacher at Lincoln Junior High School in nearby Rockville, Md., arranged the party. She said she hoped it would inspire "other girls of our race to pattern their lives in such a manner that their parents would be warranted in presenting them."

THE PARTY BEGAN at 10 p. m. when the girls, with their mothers beside them, formed a semi-circle and greeted their guests, some of whom had had come from New York, Baltimore, Richmond, Va., and Philadelphia.

This formation broke up and a huge picture frame was brought out. Each debutante came forward on the arm of her father, uncle or godfather and, as she stepped through the frame, was presented to the guests by the Rev. James O. West of Calvary Episcopal Church.

THE COTILLION was led by Gailya Kyles, 16, a senior at Dunbar High School, and her escort, James Goins. The debutantes and their escorts had practiced the traditional cotillion figure about six weeks.

The party broke up at 2 a. m. But there was another later for the debutantes and an early morning breakfast.

The idea of the reception originated with Mrs. Walburg who related she disliked the way in which girls in previous years had been introduced on a fee basis at a spring dance sponsored by a club.

She suggested to her daughter, Jean, that perhaps parents of her classmates and friends might like to pool funds for a hotel party.

"Portugal will not permit the invasion of her territory and she will employ all possible means to defend it," the communique declared.

President Gives No Views Based On Paris Ballot

Augusta, Ga., Dec. 28 (AP)—President Eisenhower is pleased with French approval of West Germany's admission into NATO, but he is reserving judgment on the complicated parliamentary developments which followed this vote in the French National Assembly early today.

When the Assembly voted 289-251 last night in favor of taking Germany into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, the holiday White House issued a statement that Eisenhower was "gratified" at the turn of events in Paris.

But when the Assembly raised procedural issues indicative of continued dislike for the idea of German rearmament, the little White House, although it was following the fight closely declined further comment.

THE FEELING in official circles here appeared to be that while a preliminary skirmish has been won in Paris, the bottle still hangs in the balance.

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said there will be no formal statement until the Assembly has completed action on the crucial question of accepting Germany as a full-fledged partner of the free world.

High on the Eisenhower agenda today is a telephone consultation with Secretary of State Dulles in Washington. Eisenhower talked with his diplomatic chief twice yesterday and was given a full report on French developments.

THE UNITED STATES favors not only admitting West Germany to NATO but rearming her so that she can make a contribution to the defense of Western Europe. Great Britain supports this position strongly.

Both nations hope that France will not disturb western unity by rejecting the plan.

Eisenhower may cut short his holiday stay here and fly back to Washington if France turns down German rearmament. A final vote on the question may not come until Wednesday or Thursday, Paris time.

U. S. Officials Are

still faces two more such votes Wednesday on the rearmament issue.

Secretary Dulles canceled his usual Tuesday news conference, obviously because he wanted to avoid discussing publicly the German rearmament outlook until the French have made a firm decision on the bitterly debated issue. Following his lead, the state department declined to comment for the present.

BUT TWO Democratic senators, Kefauver of Tennessee and Monroney of Oklahoma, joined today in the shower of praise from congressmen who foresaw last night's vote as clearly pointing to formal French approval of Germany's partnership with the west.

Monroney said the first vote "marks the high water point of Russian influence in Western Europe," and he added: "The grave danger will be in Asia but that is not comparable to the grand prize of world domination that the fall of Europe would represent."

Kefauver, employing almost the same language in a separate interview agreed that the French Assembly decision, if sustained in later votes, means "the high point of Russian influence in Europe will have passed."

Within minutes after last night's first vote, Chairman Wiley (R.-Wis.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee termed it "welcome news of the greatest historic importance," but cautioned against new Russian efforts to sabotage German rearmament.

Sen. George (D.-Ga.), who is in line to replace Wiley in the foreign relations chairmanship next week, said from his home in Vienna, Ga.:

"The vote is extremely gratifying and reassuring and heartening. It indicates that the free world can hold together, and it certainly strengthens the free world to have France come along."

Ibarra Reshuffles Ecuadorean Command

Quito, Ecuador, Dec. 28 (AP)—President Jose Maria Velasco Ibarra has reshuffled Scuador's military command following the last week's abortive attempt by a group of officers to unseat him. The government announced that five persons were under arrest as ringleaders of the plot.

Velasco's new defense minister, Pedro Menendez Gilbert, said last night he had fired the chief of the general staff, Col. Manuel Mejia Erazio, and named Col. Leonidas Hidalgo, military attache at the Ecuadorean Embassy in Rio De Janerio, to replace him.

Group commanders in military zones throughout the country also were shifted and two commanders of a cavalry group in Quito were removed.

542 Persons Convicted In Federal Tax Law Cases

Washington, Dec. 28 (AP)—The Justice Department's tax division reported today that 542 persons were successfully prosecuted for criminal violations of the federal tax laws in 1954.

These convictions and guilty pleas stemmed from investigations initiated by both the present and previous administrations and brought into court during the year.

A report to Atty. Gen. Brownell said that during the last 12 months the division brought to a close more than 4,150 civil and criminal tax cases, about 25 per cent more than in any previous year, and received more than 4,300 cases, about the same as the previous high in 1953.

Asst. Atty. Gen. H. Brian Holland, who heads the tax division, said that of the successful prosecutions, 123 persons were convicted after trial and 419 others pleaded guilty. He said this compared with 70 convicted and 423 pleading guilty in 1953 and 53 convicted and 324 pleading guilty in 1952.

About 7,150 tax cases of all types are currently pending in the courts, including 960 criminal, 3,665 civil and 2,525 tax lien and miscellaneous cases.

IN A STATEMENT reviewing the year, Holland said:

"The work of the United States attorneys and their staffs in this and other tax work is most praiseworthy.

"Among those convicted during the year were Frank Costello, New York gambler; Joseph D. Nunan Jr., former commissioner of internal revenue; Emmett Warring, Washington, D. C., gambler; Sam Beard, an associate of Warring; Harry Gross, New York bookmaker; Frank Erickson, New York gambler; Benny Binion, southwest gambler; Harry K. Klein, Louisville, Ky., banker; Paul Dillon, St. Louis, Mo., attorney; J. Richard Kafes, New Jersey state senator; Harold Adonis, New Jersey political figure; Alfred C. Marshall, San Francisco bookmaker; Frank L. Saulter, Oakland, Calif., narcotics peddler.

"Among those indicted for violating the tax laws were George B. Parr, political figure of Duval county, Tex.; Carroll E. Mealey, former deputy of internal revenue; Hyman H. Klein, New York city whisky dealer; Jack Dragna, Los Angeles racketeer; Evan Dale, convicted southern Illinois labor racketeer; Virginia hill hauser, confidante of racketeers; and Cecil and Fred Folsom, brothers of the governor-elect of Alabama.

"IN THE CIVIL FIELD, 75 per cent of the cases are brought by taxpayers against the United States for recoveries. More than 360 million dollars currently is involved in all civil litigation. The potential interest liability would exceed $45,000 per day if the government lost all the suits. During 1954, however, the government collected or retained about 78 per cent of the amount decided during the year. This compares to an average of about 68 per cent for the four preceding years."

Holland hailed as a major victory for the government the recent Supreme Court decision upholding the "net worth" method of recomputing dispute income tax returns. The method, involving calculations of net worth at the start and end of the taxable year, enables the government to prove unreported income where the taxpayer keeps inadequate or fraudulent records or no books at all.

RIGHT-TO-WORK"—Black areas on this map show the 17 states Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell had in mind when he blasted "right-to-work" state laws. These laws outlaw labor contract provisions that workers must become union members. President Eisenhower told a press conference that Secretary Mitchell speaks for himself and not the Administration.

Little League Elects Bill Scully President For His Third Term

Thomas, DeCicco Are Vice-Presidents

Little League Association re-elected William R. Scully to his third term as president and named Willard Thomas and James DeCicco vice presidents in charge of the American and National leagues for 1955, at its annual meeting last night at the Hotel Stuyvesant.

New by-laws were read and adopted and created the post of recording secretary to be held by Jake Chichelsky.

WARREN SMITH WAS re-elected treasurer and John Ray Mayone was named to the post of association secretary.

Other directors—all past presidents—include Dr. Francis E. O'Connor, Thomas M. Davitt, Charles J. Tiano, Dick McCarthy, Louis G. Bruhn, Robert G. Umpleby and Paul C. Gardner.

THE NEW SETUP creating vice-presidents of equal rating was adopted in order to give the association president assistants in each league. Each of the veeps will in turn choose his own assistant and be responsible for the operation of the league.

Thomas is slated to head the American League, with DeCicco in charge of the National League at Kingman Field.

John Ray Mayone, chairman of the Kingman Field reconstruction committee, made a lengthy report and said building operations are about one-third complete.

By the time the next season rolls around, the Association expects to have Kingman Field enclosed with a fence, completely furnished dugouts, grandstand and backstop. All of the labor and material has been secured on a voluntary basis.

PRESIDENT SCULLY reported on the recent regional meeting at Albany and said the national headquarters has adopted new regulations governing all-star and post-season competition. These will be announced later in press release from Williamsport, Pa.

The president also informed the directors that franchise applications for the 1955 season would be sent to Williamsport this week.

Seixas-Trabert Return Davis Cup to America With Doubles Victory

Trip Hoad-Rosewall In 4-Set Clincher

Sydney, Australia, Dec. 28 (AP)—Vic Seixas and Tony Trabert returned international tennis supremacy to the United States today with a masterful doubles exhibition which clinched the 1954 Davis Cup challenge round a day ahead of schedule.

It was the darkest day of Australian tennis since 1949, but one which finished in a never-say-die defeat for Sydney twins—Lewis Hoad and Ken Rosewall, who went down fighting 6-2, 4-6, 6-2, 10-8.

The plucky Australians, down 4-5 and love-40 on Rosewall's service in the tenth game of the final set, fought off four match points with some brilliant volleying to carry it into an exciting overtime which kept a crowd of 25,578 at White City in an uproar.

BUT IT WAS only postponing the inevitable because in the 18th game the Americans slammed to advantage again on little Rosewall's service and clinched the match and the Cup on a brilliant forehand shout by Trabert down the sideline.

Trabert threw his racquet in the air and leaped from the ground with a wild whoop. He threw his arms around Seixas and went over to shake hands with the crestfallen Australians, then accepted the congratulations of Captain Bill Talbert.

Harry Hopman, the little Australian captain who led the successful campaign to bring the cup from U. S. shores and who has been the mentor in all subsequent defenses, was a forlorn figure on the sideline as he watched his tennis castle crumble.

TALBERT ANNOUNCED that he would ask Hopman for permission to substitute Hamilton Richardson, Jr., the Rhodes scholar from Baton Rouge, La., for Trabert in tomorrow's meaningless final singles matches. He explained that Tony has blisters on his racquet hand. Originally, he intended to rest Seixas.

Australia had ruled the tennis roost since Frank Sedgman and Ken McGregor, now pros, wrested the Cup from America in 1950 at Forest Hills.

But the crowd showed very little favoritism and rose to give the Americans a standing salute as they walked from the court.

Only in the dramatic fourth set did they permit their national pride to ooze to the surface in a wild demonstration of joy for the courageous comeback of Hoad and Rosewall.

IT APPEARED for a while that the young Australians, given a new lease on life, might pull the match out of the skillet and even perform a miracle in saving the big silver bowl for these shores.

After they had scrambled back from seeming defeat to tie the set at 5-5, they almost broke Seixas' next service, grabbing a 40-15 lead, and then held two game points on Trabert's next service in the 13th game.

Seixas, a whirling dervish who scooted all over the court making spectacular gets and scoring killers with that deft volley of his, definitely was the outstanding of the four figures on the court.

He never lost a service and his volleying was the cleanest and most deadly of the day.

Trabert played well, but he had trouble holding his service and he erred frequently with his backhand volley.

Brion and McNeece Move Up With Impressive Victories

Both Brion and McNeece threaten to crack the top 10 after last night's victories, both split decisions at that. Brion barely beat rangy Dan Bucceroni of Philadelphia at St, Nicholas Arena. McNeece made his aggressive tactics pay off against experienced Bobby Dykes of Miami at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway.

"WE WANT Charley Norkus," chorused Brion and Hymie Willman, his manager. Norkus, recent winner over Charley Powell and Roland LaStarza after many discouraging setbacks, is another who was rescued off the fistic scrap heap to become the No. 10 heavyweight.

Way back in 1950, Brion stopped Norkus. On Sept. 3, Norkus defeated Brion. Give Brion credit for one thing. He didn't start hollering "We want Marciano." But just give him time, and one more victory.

BRION, 203, kept on top of hard-hitting Bucceroni, 195¼, to earn the votes of Judge Jack Gordon (7-2-1) and Judge Nick Gamboli (8-2). Referee Barney Felix called it for Bucceroni 5-4-1. The AP card was 5-5.

In Brooklyn, McNeece, 165, forced all the fighting against Dykes, 161¾. But many of his punches landed on gloves and arms. Dykes was sharper when he chose to stand and fight, which wasn't often.

Referee Ray Miller, who warned Dykes for grabbing the ropes with one hand and hitting with the other, voted for McNeece, 5-3-2. Judge Artie Schwartz had it 5-4-1 for McNeece and Judge Leo Birnbaum saw it 6-4 for Dykes. The AP card was 5-4-1 for Dykes. McNeece, who has a 13-2 record, was the 7-5 favorite.

Scientific collection of meteorites did not begin in earnest until after 1803 when a large shower at Laigle, France, convinced men of learning that the bodies were extra-terrestrial.

Big Three In Semis At Garden

New York, Dec. 28 (AP)—The big three—La Salle, Dayton and Duquesne—and a highly regarded UCLA outfit meet tomorrow night in the semifinals of the ECAC basketball festival at Madison Square Garden after staging high scoring first round sprees.

The draw pits LaSalle, ranked third nationally, against 15th ranked UCLA and the once beaten Dukes of Duquesne, No. 8, against unbeaten Dayton (8-0), rated fourth today in the weekly Associated Press poll.

Yesterday's two sessions drew a total of 21,350 fans with 12,105 present at the night doubleheader.

LA SALLE gained its round of four bracket much more easily than the others. The Explorers, with All-America Tom Gola scoring 34 points, matched the Garden floor record as they eliminated Syracuse 103-54.

UCLA disposed of 10th ranked Niagara 88-86 with Morris Taft tallying eight field goals in the first 11 minutes of the second half and ending up with 22 points as the Uclans overcame a 14-point deficit.

Si Green, a squirming 6-2½ sharp-shooter from Duquesne, hung up a new scoring record for one half as he tallied 30 points to pace the Dukes to a 87-68 triumph over previously unbeaten Villanova. Green also scored eight in the first half for a total of 38.

Dayton packed away its eight victory in a business-like manner, downing St. John's of Brooklyn 70-56.

Canadiens have Four Top Scorers

Montreal, Dec. 28 (AP)—The Montreal Canadiens and their four-ply scoring punch—Bernie Geoffrion, Jean Beliveau, Maurice Richard and Ken Mosdell—continue to fly high in the National Hockey League.

The Canadiens are still in first place in the league and it's no wonder, with their four aces filling the top four places in scoring.

Geoffrion sets the pace with 38 points on 22 goals and 16 assists, with Beliveau having 33 points, Richard 32 and Mosdell 30. Geoffrion's goal total is high in the league and the Canadians also have the leader in assists, Doug Harvey with 22, but Harvey has only two goals and is tied for 12th in scoring.

A bull buffalo, or bison, sometimes may weigh more than a ton.

Trotters' Stage Dazzling Show Between Halves

Already the greatest attraction in basketball, the Harlem Globetrotters will give fans something different in the half-hour halftime entertainment on Sunday, Jan. 2, at the municipal auditorium.

Richard Bergmann, phenomenal British world's champion, and Dick Miles, U. S. titleholder, meet in a table tennis match. The Garners, Jimmy and his pretty wife, Yvonne, do a trampoline act.

A Cuban act taking the country by storm is the Farias Duo, hand balancers extraordinary who recently stopped Ed Sullivan's "Toast of the Town" show cold. Peter Woodrow, an English juggler, is also on the show.

Cousy Passes Selvy in NBA

New York, Dec. 28 (AP)—Flashy Bob Cousy of the Boston Celtics, runnerup in the National Basketball Association's scoring race last season, has forged to the top with 556 points. Cousy displaced Milwaukee rookie Frank Selvy, who slipped to second with 544 points.

The Boston backcourt ace caught up with Selvy, collegiate basketball's highest all-time scorer at Furman, by outscoring him 35 to 21 when they faced each other last Saturday. Cousy added to his lead with 12 points against Minneapolis Sunday while Selvy was idle.

Fight's Last Night

New York—Cesar Brion, 203, Argentina, outpointed Dan Bucceroni, 195¼, Philadelphia, 10.

Brooklyn—Billy McNeece, 165, Central Islip, N. Y., outpointed Bobby Dykes, 161¾, Miami, 10.

Kentucky Rates No. 1

By The Associated Press

Kentucky's unbeaten Wildcats used the very effective system of defeating two of their outstanding rivals to retain the No. 1 spot in the national standing of the college basketball teams today.

The wildcats, who won their own tournament last week by turning back Utah and La Salle, received 79 of the 101 first place votes in the weekly Associated Press poll of sports writers and sportscasters and piled up a total of 963 points. The Kentuckians, idle since the tournament victory, have won five games.

THERE WAS SOME general shifting of positions as the result of last week's contests but only one new team in the top ten. San Francisco, winner of seven of its eight games, jumped from a tie for 17th to fifth on the strength of a victory in the Oklahoma City tournament.

North Carolina State's unbeaten Wolfpack moved up three notches into second place while La Salle advanced one into third in a close brush with Dayton. Dayton, winner of all its eight games, jumped two spots.

The top 10, with first place votes and season records (through Saturday's games) in parentheses (points on 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis):

|---|---|---|
| 1. | Kentucky (5-0) (79) | 963 |
| 2. | N. Carolina State (9-0) (11) | 587 |
| 3. | LaSalle (6-2) (1) | 467 |
| 4. | Dayton (7-0) (5) | 466 |
| 5. | San Francisco (7-1) (5) | 422 |

Schafer's 292 Is High

Steady games of 96, 104 and 102 gave him a 302 to oust the previous leader, Len Ward, who had 292.

FIFTEEN ENTRIES are scheduled to bowl in the windup session tonight, boosting the total entries to 52.

Schafer's only miss came on the tenth ball in the first game when he had a 78 for almost a 9-pin average per frame. His other low frame was in the 9th frame of his final game when the ball went to the jersey side and just grazed the headpin for a cluster of five.

Gerald Woodvine also starred with a high single of 112 and 12 straight headpin hits, including six strikes, in his third game. Poor totals of 78 and 46 ahead of the big slam kept his triple down to 236.

Thomas, DeCicco Are Vice-Presidents

Little League Association re-elected William R. Scully to his third term as president and named Willard Thomas and James DeCicco vice presidents in charge of the American and National leagues for 1955, at its annual meeting last night at the Hotel Stuyvesant.

New by-laws were read and adopted and created the post of recording secretary to be held by Jake Chichelsky.

WARREN SMITH WAS re-elected treasurer and John Ray Mayone was named to the post of association secretary.

The Association also chose two new directors — Francis O'Neil and Joseph Cavano—and re-named Edward Baker.

Other directors—all past presidents—include Dr. Francis E. O'Connor, Thomas M. Davitt, Charles J. Tiano, Dick McCarthy, Louis G. Bruhn, Robert G. Umpleby and Paul C. Gardner.

THE NEW SETUP creating vice-presidents of equal rating was adopted in order to give the association president assistants in each league. Each of the veeps will in turn choose his own assistant and be responsible for the operation of the league.

Thomas is slated to head the American League, with DeCicco in charge of the National League at Kingman Field.

John Ray Mayone, chairman of the Kingman Field reconstruction committee, made a lengthy report and said building operations are about one-third complete.

By the time the next season rolls around, the Association expects to have Kingman Field enclosed with a fence, completely furnished dugouts, grandstand and backstop. All of the labor and material has been secured on a voluntary basis.

PRESIDENT SCULLY reported on the recent regional meeting at Albany and said the national headquarters has adopted new regulations governing all-star and post-season competition. These will be announced later in press release from Williamsport, Pa.

The president also informed the directors that franchise applications for the 1955 season would be sent to Williamsport this week.

Trip Hoad-Rosewall In 4-Set Clincher

Sydney, Australia, Dec. 28 (AP)—Vic Seixas and Tony Trabert returned international tennis supremacy to the United States today with a masterful doubles exhibition which clinched the 1954 Davis Cup challenge round a day ahead of schedule.

It was the darkest day of Australian tennis since 1949, but one which finished in a never-say-die defeat for Sydney twins—Lewis Hoad and Ken Rosewall, who went down fighting 6-2, 4-6, 6-2, 10-8.

The plucky Australians, down 4-5 and love-40 on Rosewall's service in the tenth game of the final set, fought off four match points with some brilliant volleying to carry it into an exciting overtime which kept a crowd of 25,578 at White City in an uproar.

BUT IT WAS only postponing the inevitable because in the 18th game the Americans slammed to advantage again on little Rosewall's service and clinched the match and the Cup on a brilliant forehand shout by Trabert down the sideline.

Trabert threw his racquet in the air and leaped from the ground with a wild whoop. He threw his arms around Seixas and went over to shake hands with the crestfallen Australians, then accepted the congratulations of Captain Bill Talbert.

Harry Hopman, the little Australian captain who led the successful campaign to bring the cup from U. S. shores and who has been the mentor in all subsequent defenses, was a forlorn figure on the sideline as he watched his tennis castle crumble.

TALBERT ANNOUNCED that he would ask Hopman for permission to substitute Hamilton Richardson, Jr., the Rhodes scholar from Baton Rouge, La., for Trabert in tomorrow's meaningless final singles matches. He explained that Tony has blisters on his racquet hand. Originally, he intended to rest Seixas.

Australia had ruled the tennis roost since Frank Sedgman and Ken McGregor, now pros, wrested the Cup from America in 1950 at Forest Hills.

But the crowd showed very little favoritism and rose to give the Americans a standing salute as they walked from the court.

Only in the dramatic fourth set did they permit their national pride to ooze to the surface in a wild demonstration of joy for the courageous comeback of Hoad and Rosewall.

IT APPEARED for a while that the young Australians, given a new lease on life, might pull the match out of the skillet and even perform a miracle in saving the big silver bowl for these shores.

After they had scrambled back from seeming defeat to tie the set at 5-5, they almost broke Seixas' next service, grabbing a 40-15 lead, and then held two game points on Trabert's next service in the 13th game.

Seixas, a whirling dervish who scooted all over the court making spectacular gets and scoring killers with that deft volley of his, definitely was the outstanding of the four figures on the court.

He never lost a service and his volleying was the cleanest and most deadly of the day.

Trabert played well, but he had trouble holding his service and he erred frequently with his backhand volley.

WORD FROM DOWN UNDER—Mrs. Dolly Ann Seixas, wife of Davis Cup tennis star Vic Seixas, follows the progress of her famous husband in the Australian Davis Cup challenge round, at Spartanburg, S.C. (Dec. 27). Vic beat Ken Rosewall in singles to give the U.S. a 2-0 lead. Mrs. Seixas is spending the holidays at Spartanburg home of her mother, Mrs. Horace Dunaway. (AP Wirephoto).

New York, Dec. 28 (AP)—The state of boxing at the close of 1954 can be summed up in one short sentence—win two and you're a contender.

Cesar Brion, an oft beaten heavyweight giant from Argentina, and Bill McNeece, a rough and ready pleaser from Central Islip, with only 15 pro fights, are the latest examples.

Both Brion and McNeece threaten to crack the top 10 after last night's victories, both split decisions at that. Brion barely beat rangy Dan Bucceroni of Philadelphia at St. Nicholas Arena. McNeece made his aggressive tactics pay off against experienced Bobby Dykes of Miami at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway.

"WE WANT Charley Norkus," chorused Brion and Hymie Willman, his manager. Norkus, recent winner over Charley Powell and Roland LaStarza after many discouraging setbacks, is another who was rescued off the fistic scrap heap to become the No. 10 heavyweight.

Way back in 1950, Brion stopped Norkus. On Sept. 3, Norkus defeated Brion. Give Brion credit for one thing. He didn't start hollering "We want Marciano." But just give him time, and one more victory.

BRION, 203, kept on top of hard-hitting Bucceroni, 195¼, to earn the votes of Judge Jack Gordon (7-2-1) and Judge Nick Gamboli (8-2). Referee Barney Felix called it for Bucceroni 5-4-1. The AP card was 5-5.

In Brooklyn, McNeece, 165, forced all the fighting against Dykes, 161¾. But many of his punches landed on gloves and arms. Dykes was sharper when he chose to stand and fight, which wasn't often.

Referee Ray Miller, who warned Dykes for grabbing the ropes with one hand and hitting with the other, voted for McNeece, 5-3-2. Judge Artie Schwartz had it 5-4-1 for McNeece and Judge Leo Birnbaum saw it 6-4 for Dykes. The AP card was 5-4-1 for Dykes. McNeece, who has a 13-2 record, was the 7-5 favorite.

Scientific collection of meteorites did not begin in earnest until after 1803 when a large shower at Laigle, France, convinced men of learning that the bodies were extra-terrestrial.

Big Three In Semis At Garden

New York, Dec. 28 (AP)—The big three—La Salle, Dayton and Duquesne—and a highly regarded UCLA outfit meet tomorrow night in the semifinals of the ECAC basketball festival at Madison Square Garden after staging high scoring first round sprees.

The draw pits LaSalle, ranked third nationally, against 15th ranked UCLA and the once beaten Dukes of Duquesne, No. 8, against unbeaten Dayton (8-0), rated fourth today in the weekly Associated Press poll.

Yesterday's two sessions drew a total of 21,350 fans with 12,105 present at the night doubleheader.

LA SALLE gained its round of four bracket much more easily than the others. The Explorers, with All-America Tom Gola scoring 34 points, matched the Garden floor record as they eliminated Syracuse 103-54.

UCLA disposed of 10th ranked Niagara 88-86 with Morris Taft tallying eight field goals in the first 11 minutes of the second half and ending up with 22 points as the Uclans overcame a 14-point deficit.

Si Green, a squirming 6-2½ sharp-shooter from Duquesne, hung up a new scoring record for one half as he tallied 30 points to pace the Dukes to a 87-68 triumph over previously unbeaten Villanova. Green also scored eight in the first half for a total of 38.

Dayton packed away its eight victory in a business-like manner, downing St. John's of Brooklyn 70-56.

Canadiens have Four Top Scorers

Montreal, Dec. 28 (AP)—The Montreal Canadiens and their four-ply scoring punch—Bernie Geoffrion, Jean Beliveau, Maurice Richard and Ken Mosdell—continue to fly high in the National Hockey League.

The Canadiens are still in first place in the league and it's no wonder, with their four aces filling the top four places in scoring.

Geoffrion sets the pace with 38 points on 22 goals and 16 assists, with Beliveau having 33 points, Richard 32 and Mosdell 30. Geoffrion's goal total is high in the league and the Canadians also have the leader in assists, Doug Harvey with 22, but Harvey has only two goals and is tied for 12th in scoring.

FROSTBITE AND SNOW BLINDNESS

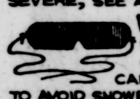
THERE IS ALWAYS A POSSIBILITY OF FROSTBITE, IF YOU'RE UNPREPARED FOR IT, IN SUB-FREEZING TEMPERATURES. IT'S INDICATED BY A GROWING NUMBNESS OF FINGERS, TOES, FACE OR EARS. DON'T RUB THE AFFECTED AREA! WARM FINGERS UNDER ARMPITS, INSIDE JACKET. WARM TOES, OR FACE, SLOWLY AND GENTLY BESIDE A FIRE. IF SEVERE, SEE A PHYSICAN.



WEAR PLASTIC-FRAMED DARK GLASSES OR A CARDBOARD MASK TO AVOID SNOWBLINDNESS (SUNBURNED EYES). TREAT EYES WITH WET COMPRESSES AND REST THEM IN A DARK ROOM.

The Right Way

When you go to sit down, approach chair from side. Turn slightly, ease yourself down with thigh muscles. You should end up with your ankles gracefully crossed, if you start with your feet one in front, one next to chair in back.

Schafer's 292 Is High

Lou Schafer missed the headpin only once in 36 tries to take over the lead in the annual YMCA headpin tournament last night at the Y drives.

Steady games of 96, 104 and 102 gave him a 302 to oust the previous leader, Len Ward, who had 292.

FIFTEEN ENTRIES are scheduled to bowl in the windup session tonight, boosting the total entries to 52.

Schafer's only miss came on the tenth ball in the first game when he had a 78 for almost a 9-pin average per frame. His other low frame was in the 9th frame of his final game when the ball went to the jersey side and just grazed the headpin for a cluster of five.

Gerald Woodvine also starred with a high single of 112 and 12 straight headpin hits, including six strikes, in his third game. Poor totals of 78 and 46 ahead of the big slam kept his triple down to 236.

Trotters' Stage Dazzling Show Between Halves

Already the greatest attraction in basketball, the Harlem Globetrotters will give fans something different in the half-hour halftime entertainment on Sunday, Jan. 2, at the municipal auditorium.

Richard Bergmann, phenomenal British world's champion, and Dick Miles, U. S. titleholder, meet in a table tennis match. The Garners, Jimmy and his pretty wife, Yvonne, do a trampoline act.

A Cuban act taking the country by storm is the Farias Duc, hand balancers extraordinary who recently stopped Ed Sullivan's "Toast of the Town" show cold. Peter Woodrow, an English juggler, is also on the show.

Cousy Passes Selvy in NBA

New York, Dec. 28 (AP)—Flashy Bob Cousy of the Boston Celtics, runnerup in the National Basketball Association's scoring race last season, has forged to the top with 556 points. Cousy displaced Milwaukee rookie Frank Selvy, who slipped to second with 544 points.

The Boston backcourt ace caught up with Selvy, collegiate basketball's highest all-time scorer at Furman, by outscoring him 35 to 21 when they faced each other last Saturday. Cousy added to his lead with 12 points against Minneapolis Sunday while Selvy was idle.

Fight's Last Night

New York—Cesar Brion, 203, Argentina, outpointed Dan Bucceroni, 195¼, Philadelphia, 10.

Brooklyn—Billy McNeece, 165, Central Islip, N. Y., outpointed Bobby Dykes, 161¾, Miami, 10.

Kentucky Rates No. 1

By The Associated Press

Kentucky's unbeaten Wildcats used the very effective system of defeating two of their outstanding rivals to retain the No. 1 spot in the national standing of the college basketball teams today.

The wildcats, who won their own tournament last week by turning back Utah and La Salle, received 79 of the 101 first place votes in the weekly Associated Press poll of sports writers and sportscasters and piled up a total of 963 points. The Kentuckians, idle since the tournament victory, have won five games.

THERE WAS SOME general shifting of positions as the result of last week's contests but only one new team in the top ten. San Francisco, winner of seven of its eight games, jumped from a tie for 17th to fifth on the strength of a victory in the Oklahoma City tournament.

North Carolina State's unbeaten Wolfpack moved up three notches into second place while La Salle advanced one into third in a close brush with Dayton. Dayton, winner of all its eight games, jumped two spots.

The top 10, with first place votes and season records (through Saturday's games) in parentheses (points on 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis):

Thomas, DeCicco Are Vice-Presidents

Little League Association re-elected William R. Scully to his third term as president and named Willard Thomas and James DeCicco vice presidents in charge of the American and National leagues for 1955, at its annual meeting last night at the Hotel Stuyvesant.

New by-laws were read and adopted and created the post of recording secretary to be held by Jake Chichelsky.

WARREN SMITH WAS re-elected treasurer and John Ray Mayone was named to the post of association secretary.

The Association also chose two new directors — Francis O'Neil and Joseph Cavano—and re-named Edward Baker.

Other directors—all past presidents—include Dr. Francis E. O'Connor, Thomas M. Davitt, Charles J. Tiano, Dick McCarthy, Louis G. Bruhn, Robert G. Umpleby and Paul C. Gardner.

THE NEW SETUP creating vice-presidents of equal rating was adopted in order to give the association president assistants in each league. Each of the veeps will in turn choose his own assistant and be responsible for the operation of the league.

Thomas is slated to head the American League, with DeCicco in charge of the National League at Kingman Field.

John Ray Mayone, chairman of the Kingman Field reconstruction committee, made a lengthy report and said building operations are about one-third complete.

By the time the next season rolls around, the Association expects to have Kingman Field enclosed with a fence, completely furnished dugouts, grandstand and backstop. All of the labor and material has been secured on a voluntary basis.

PRESIDENT SCULLY reported on the recent regional meeting at Albany and said the national headquarters has adopted new regulations governing all-star and post-season competition. These will be announced later in press release from Williamsport, Pa.

The president also informed the directors that franchise applications for the 1955 season would be sent to Williamsport this week.

Trip Hoad-Rosewall In 4-Set Clincher

Sydney, Australia, Dec. 28 (AP)—Vic Seixas and Tony Trabert returned international tennis supremacy to the United States today with a masterful doubles exhibition which clinched the 1954 Davis Cup challenge round a day ahead of schedule.

It was the darkest day of Australian tennis since 1949, but one which finished in a never-say-die defeat for Sydney twins—Lewis Hoad and Ken Rosewall, who went down fighting 6-2, 4-6, 6-2, 10-8.

The plucky Australians, down 4-5 and love-40 on Rosewall's service in the tenth game of the final set, fought off four match points with some brilliant volleying to carry it into an exciting overtime which kept a crowd of 25,578 at White City in an uproar.

BUT IT WAS only postponing the inevitable because in the 18th game the Americans slammed to advantage again on little Rosewall's service and clinched the match and the Cup on a brilliant forehand shout by Trabert down the sideline.

Trabert threw his racquet in the air and leaped from the ground with a wild whoop. He threw his arms around Seixas and went over to shake hands with the crestfallen Australians, then accepted the congratulations of Captain Bill Talbert.

Harry Hopman, the little Australian captain who led the successful campaign to bring the cup from U. S. shores and who has been the mentor in all subsequent defenses, was a forlorn figure on the sideline as he watched his tennis castle crumble.

TALBERT ANNOUNCED that he would ask Hopman for permission to substitute Hamilton Richardson, Jr., the Rhodes scholar from Baton Rouge, La., for Trabert in tomorrow's meaningless final singles matches. He explained that Tony has blisters on his racquet hand. Originally, he intended to rest Seixas.

Australia had ruled the tennis roost since Frank Sedgman and Ken McGregor, now pros, wrested the Cup from America in 1950 at Forest Hills.

But the crowd showed very little favoritism and rose to give the Americans a standing salute as they walked from the court.

Only in the dramatic fourth set did they permit their national pride to ooze to the surface in a wild demonstration of joy for the courageous comeback of Hoad and Rosewall.

IT APPEARED for a while that the young Australians, given a new lease on life, might pull the match out of the skillet and even perform a miracle in saving the big silver bowl for these shores.

After they had scrambled back from seeming defeat to tie the set at 5-5, they almost broke Seixas' next service, grabbing a 40-15 lead, and then held two game points on Trabert's next service in the 13th game.

Seixas, a whirling dervish who scooted all over the court making spectacular gets and scoring killers with that deft volley of his, definitely was the outstanding of the four figures on the court.

He never lost a service and his volleying was the cleanest and most deadly of the day.

Trabert played well, but he had trouble holding his service and he erred frequently with his backhand volley.

Schafer's 292 Is High

Lou Schafer missed the headpin only once in 36 tries to take over the lead in the annual YMCA headpin tournament last night at the Y drives.

Steady games of 96, 104 and 102 gave him a 302 to oust the previous leader, Len Ward, who had 292.

FIFTEEN ENTRIES are scheduled to bowl in the windup session tonight, boosting the total entries to 52.

Schafer's only miss came on the tenth ball in the first game when he had a 78 for almost a 9-pin average per frame. His other low frame was in the 9th frame of his final game when the ball went to the jersey side and just grazed the headpin for a cluster of five.

Gerald Woodvine also starred with a high single of 112 and 12 straight headpin hits, including six strikes, in his third game. Poor totals of 78 and 46 ahead of the big slam kept his triple down to 236.

New York, Dec. 28 (AP)—The state of boxing at the close of 1954 can be summed up in one short sentence—win two and you're a contender.

Cesar Brion, an oft beaten heavyweight giant from Argentina, and Bill McNeece, a rough and ready pleaser from Central Islip, with only 15 pro fights, are the latest examples.

Both Brion and McNeece threaten to crack the top 10 after last night's victories, both split decisions at that. Brion barely beat rangy Dan Bucceroni of Philadelphia at St, Nicholas Arena. McNeece made his aggressive tactics pay off against experienced Bobby Dykes of Miami at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway.

"WE WANT Charley Norkus," chorused Brion and Hymie Willman, his manager. Norkus, recent winner over Charley Powell and Roland LaStarza after many discouraging setbacks, is another who was rescued off the fistic scrap heap to become the No. 10 heavyweight.

Way back in 1950, Brion stopped Norkus. On Sept. 3, Norkus defeated Brion. Give Brion credit for one thing. He didn't start hollering "We want Marciano." But just give him time, and one more victory.

BRION, 203, kept on top of hard-hitting Bucceroni, 195¼, to earn the votes of Judge Jack Gordon (7-2-1) and Judge Nick Gamboli (8-2). Referee Barney Felix called it for Bucceroni 5-4-1. The AP card was 5-5.

In Brooklyn, McNeece, 165, forced all the fighting against Dykes, 161¾. But many of his punches landed on gloves and arms. Dykes was sharper when he chose to stand and fight, which wasn't often.

Referee Ray Miller, who warned Dykes for grabbing the ropes with one hand and hitting with the other, voted for McNeece, 5-3-2. Judge Artie Schwartz had it 5-4-1 for McNeece and Judge Leo Birnbaum saw it 6-4 for Dykes. The AP card was 5-4-1 for Dykes. McNeece, who has a 13-2 record, was the 7-5 favorite.

Big Three In Semis At Garden

New York, Dec. 28 (AP)—The big three—La Salle, Dayton and Duquesne—and a highly regarded UCLA outfit meet tomorrow night in the semifinals of the ECAC basketball festival at Madison Square Garden after staging high scoring first round sprees.

The draw pits LaSalle, ranked third nationally, against 15th ranked UCLA and the once beaten Dukes of Duquesne, No. 8, against unbeaten Dayton (8-0), rated fourth today in the weekly Associated Press poll.

Yesterday's two sessions drew a total of 21,350 fans with 12,105 present at the night doubleheader.

LA SALLE gained its round of four bracket much more easily than the others. The Explorers, with All-America Tom Gola scoring 34 points, matched the Garden floor record as they eliminated Syracuse 103-54.

UCLA disposed of 10th ranked Niagara 88-86 with Morris Taft tallying eight field goals in the first 11 minutes of the second half and ending up with 22 points as the Uclans overcame a 14-point deficit.

Si Green, a squirming 6-2½ sharp-shooter from Duquesne, hung up a new scoring record for one half as he tallied 30 points to pace the Dukes to a 87-68 triumph over previously unbeaten Villanova. Green also scored eight in the first half for a total of 38.

Dayton packed away its eight victory in a business-like manner, downing St. John's of Brooklyn 70-56.

Canadiens have Four Top Scorers

Montreal, Dec. 28 (AP)—The Montreal Canadiens and their four-ply scoring punch—Bernie Geoffrion, Jean Beliveau, Maurice Richard and Ken Mosdell—continue to fly high in the National Hockey League.

The Canadiens are still in first place in the league and it's no wonder, with their four aces filling the top four places in scoring.

Geoffrion sets the pace with 38 points on 22 goals and 16 assists, with Beliveau having 33 points, Richard 32 and Mosdell 30. Geoffrion's goal total is high in the league and the Canadians also have the leader in assists, Doug Harvey with 22, but Harvey has only two goals and is tied for 12th in scoring.

Trotters' Stage Dazzling Show Between Halves

Already the greatest attraction in basketball, the Harlem Globetrotters will give fans something different in the half-hour halftime entertainment on Sunday, Jan. 2, at the municipal auditorium.

Richard Bergmann, phenomenal British world's champion, and Dick Miles, U. S. titleholder, meet in a table tennis match. The Garners, Jimmy and his pretty wife, Yvonne, do a trampoline act.

A Cuban act taking the country by storm is the Farias Duc, hand balancers extraordinary who recently stopped Ed Sullivan's "Toast of the Town" show cold. Peter Woodrow, an English juggler, is also on the show.

Cousy Passes Selvy in NBA

New York, Dec. 28 (AP)—Flashy Bob Cousy of the Boston Celtics, runnerup in the National Basketball Association's scoring race last season, has forged to the top with 556 points. Cousy displaced Milwaukee rookie Frank Selvy, who slipped to second with 544 points.

The Boston backcourt ace caught up with Selvy, collegiate basketball's highest all-time scorer at Furman, by outscoring him 35 to 21 when they faced each other last Saturday. Cousy added to his lead with 12 points against Minneapolis Sunday while Selvy was idle.

Fight's Last Night

New York—Cesar Brion, 203, Argentina, outpointed Dan Bucceroni, 195¼, Philadelphia, 10.

Brooklyn—Billy McNeece, 165, Central Islip, N. Y., outpointed Bobby Dykes, 161¾, Miami, 10.

Montreal—Bobby Courchesne, 128½, Holyoke, Mass outpointed Charlies McGarriety, 128½, Rahway, N. J., 10.

Kentucky Rates No. 1

By The Associated Press

Kentucky's unbeaten Wildcats used the very effective system of defeating two of their outstanding rivals to retain the No. 1 spot in the national standing of the college basketball teams today.

The wildcats, who won their own tournament last week by turning back Utah and La Salle, received 79 of the 101 first place votes in the weekly Associated Press poll of sports writers and sportscasters and piled up a total of 963 points. The Kentuckians, idle since the tournament victory, have won five games.

THERE WAS SOME general shifting of positions as the result of last week's contests but only one new team in the top ten. San Francisco, winner of seven of its eight games, jumped from a tie for 17th to fifth on the strength of a victory in the Oklahoma City tournament.

North Carolina State's unbeaten Wolfpack moved up three notches into second place while La Salle advanced one into third in a close brush with Dayton. Dayton, winner of all its eight games, jumped two spots.

The top 10, with first place votes and season records (through Saturday's games) in parentheses (points on 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis):

1. Kentucky (5-0) (79) .....963

Anybody in the crowd want to be a movie star? A rich, glamorous, famous movie star? OK, now's your chance.

According to a young lady just in from darkest Hollywood, nowadays movie studios are actively looking for what they call "new faces." You should have a new body to go with it, of course. Or maybe an old body. But that is getting away from our subject.

Our subject is Ann Baker, and a cuter new face never existed. Miss Baker is the world's latest Corliss Archer. Corliss is the teenager first created on Broadway in the play "Kiss and Tell" by Joan Caulfield. Later, in the movies, Shirley Temple was Corliss. Now Ann Baker has the TV part.

Jacob Lateiner, now 25, is believed by many critics to be the best of the younger concert pianists. He's been soloist with many great symphonies, given some highly successful concerts and in general done well at the keyboard.

All this isn't unusual, except for his extra-special talent. But what is unusual about Lateiner is his hobby. He collects original musical manuscripts, and this is a hobby that is tough for an American since most of the manuscripts are in Europe.

When Lateiner was in the Army in Europe, he met many of the dealers. And now, through correspondence, he learns of available treasures and conducts his long-distance dickering. He has a tremendous collection of manuscripts, first editions, facsimilies and sketch books. Beethoveniana is a specialty.

In between collecting, Lateiner still gives concerts. But, like a true artist, he's never satisfied.

"I feel the same after every performance," he says. "I always hope to play better the next time."

THE MARQUEE

T.V. — STAGE — RADIO — RECORDS — PEOPLE

By DICK KLEINER

SUGGESTED research project for skin specialists during 1955: Find out the cause and cure of the sudden rash of medical shows.

Anybody in the crowd want to be a movie star? A rich, glamorous, famous movie star? OK, now's your chance.

According to a young lady just in from darkest Hollywood, nowadays movie studios are actively looking for what they call "new faces." You should have a new body to go with it, of course. Or maybe an old body. But that is getting away from our subject.

Our subject is Ann Baker, and a cuter new face never existed. Miss Baker is the world's latest Corliss Archer. Corliss is the teenager first created on Broadway in the play "Kiss and Tell" by Joan Caulfield. Later, in the movies, Shirley Temple was Corliss. Now Ann Baker has the TV part.

Jacob Lateiner, now 25, is believed by many critics to be the best of the younger concert pianists. He's been soloist with many great symphonies, given some highly successful concerts and in general done well at the keyboard.

All this isn't unusual, except for his extra-special talent. But what is unusual about Lateiner is his hobby. He collects original musical manuscripts, and this is a hobby that is tough for an American since most of the manuscripts are in Europe.

When Lateiner was in the Army in Europe, he met many of the dealers. And now, through correspondence, he learns of available treasures and conducts his long-distance dickering. He has a tremendous collection of manuscripts, first editions, facsimilies and sketch books. Beethoveniana is a specialty.

In between collecting, Lateiner still gives concerts. But, like a true artist, he's never satisfied.

"I feel the same after every performance," he says. "I always hope to play better the next time."

Names Were Wrong

The names of the operators of two automobiles involved in a collision on the Thruway five miles north of the Kingston interchange Saturday evening were incorrectly transposed in the report of the accident which appeared in Monday's Freeman. It was the automobile driven by Leo J. Boice, 34, of Catskill that struck a dog and stopped on the right lane while Boice investigated, according to the report of the state police Thruway detail. The automobile operated by William A. Petersen, 24, of 105 Clinton avenue was in motion and Petersen "failed to notice" that the Boice car was stopped, and struck it on the left side, the troopers reported. There was no personal injury.

Names Were Wrong

The names of the operators of two automobiles involved in a collision on the Thruway five miles north of the Kingston interchange Saturday evening were incorrectly transposed in the report of the accident which appeared in Monday's Freeman. It was the automobile driven by Leo J. Boice, 34, of Catskill that struck a dog and stopped on the right lane while Boice investigated, according to the report of the state police Thruway detail. The automobile operated by William A. Petersen, 24, of 105 Clinton avenue was in motion and Petersen "failed to notice" that the Boice car was stopped, and struck it on the left side, the troopers reported. There was no personal injury.

Names Were Wrong

The names of the operators of two automobiles involved in a collision on the Thruway five miles north of the Kingston interchange Saturday evening were incorrectly transposed in the report of the accident which appeared in Monday's Freeman. It was the automobile driven by Leo J. Boice, 34, of Catskill that struck a dog and stopped on the right lane while Boice investigated, according to the report of the state police Thruway detail. The automobile operated by William A. Petersen, 24, of 105 Clinton avenue was in motion and Petersen "failed to notice" that the Boice car was stopped, and struck it on the left side, the troopers reported. There was no personal injury.

Man Is Held

prentice safecracker" and that he studied safecracking in books borrowed from the Howard University library.

Capt. Charles N. Thomsen, chief of Prince Georges (Md.) county detectives, said it took "at least four or five men" to pull the job. He added that Weeks, held on $15,000 bond, signed a statement last night admitting he tried to pull off the robbery. Thomsen said Weeks gave this account of events:

SHORTLY AFTER midnight Friday, Weeks drove up to the store in his car, lugging stolen acetylene torches, oxygen bottles and other safe-cracking equipment.

Climbing a 36-foot ladder, he entered the store from a roof ventilator. Then he hid the ladder and closed the ventilator. Opening a rear window, he went to has car for his safecracking tools and set to work on his weekend chores.

Using his tools, he cut the 3,100-pound safe from its moorings, built a dummy safe of boxes and then ripped open the big safe, which involved blasting away the outer shell and a second coating of four-inch thick reinforced concrete.

The 2000-pound steel inner shell was placed on a dolly, cut from a steel laundry tub, and rolled out the back window to the car. The dolly was then tied to the car with rope.

But on the getaway attempt early Monday morning, the elaborate plan collapsed: The dolly became unhooked and the strongbox tumbled into a ditch.

Weeks said he decided to wait around in his car until nightfall before making another effort to haul away his loot. Thomsen said he thought Weeks was stationed there by his accomplices as a guard.

It would have been a long wait for nightfall. Weeks was captured around noon. It didn't get dark until 5 p. m.

learned the dead man had an insurance policy for $319 and increased the bill to that amount. Goldstein said the undertaker also learned that the man had been on relief and applied to the Welfare Department for payment of the $319 bill.

GOLDSTEIN'S REPORT said that the undertaker also learned the man had $554 and unsuccessfully sought to have himself appointed administrator of the estate, stating that if he was appointed he would pay his bill from the assets.

The attorney general said the undertaker was paid in full by the family before the funeral, and the family later learned it had been charged $25 for preserving the body.

Goldstein called for the closing of "all loopholes for the unscrupulous operator," and said officials should be empowered to supervise more efficiently the payment of welfare funds for funeral expenses.

the pact giving West Germany almost complete sovereignty.

The NATO vote came during a 13-hour night session. The premier's 289 supporters fell 25 short of a majority of the 627-seat chamber and far under the 350 he had asked as a clear sign of French determination to preserve the Atlantic Alliance. But the number of abstentions allowed him to win without gaining a majority of all the deputies.

European newspapers had headlined dispatches from Washington and London reporting British-American consultations to arrange a meeting between Churchill and Eisenhower in the U. S. capital.

Man Is Held

prentice safecracker" and that he studied safecracking in books borrowed from the Howard University library.

Capt. Charles N. Thomsen, chief of Prince Georges (Md.) county detectives, said it took "at least four or five men" to pull the job. He added that Weeks, held on $15,000 bond, signed a statement last night admitting he tried to pull off the robbery. Thomsen said Weeks gave this account of events:

SHORTLY AFTER midnight Friday, Weeks drove up to the store in his car, lugging stolen acetylene torches, oxygen bottles and other safe-cracking equipment.

Climbing a 36-foot ladder, he entered the store from a roof ventilator. Then he hid the ladder and closed the ventilator. Opening a rear window, he went to has car for his safecracking tools and set to work on his weekend chores.

Using his tools, he cut the 3,100-pound safe from its moorings, built a dummy safe of boxes and then ripped open the big safe, which involved blasting away the outer shell and a second coating of four-inch thick reinforced concrete.

The 2000-pound steel inner shell was placed on a dolly, cut from a steel laundry tub, and rolled out the back window to the car. The dolly was then tied to the car with rope.

But on the getaway attempt early Monday morning, the elaborate plan collapsed: The dolly became unhooked and the strongbox tumbled into a ditch.

Weeks said he decided to wait around in his car until nightfall before making another effort to haul away his loot. Thomsen said he thought Weeks was stationed there by his accomplices as a guard.

It would have been a long wait for nightfall. Weeks was captured around noon. It didn't get dark until 5 p. m.

Man Is Held

prentice safecracker" and that he studied safecracking in books borrowed from the Howard University library.

Capt. Charles N. Thomsen, chief of Prince Georges (Md.) county detectives, said it took "at least four or five men" to pull the job. He added that Weeks, held on $15,000 bond, signed a statement last night admitting he tried to pull off the robbery. Thomsen said Weeks gave this account of events:

SHORTLY AFTER midnight Friday, Weeks drove up to the store in his car, lugging stolen acetylene torches, oxygen bottles and other safe-cracking equipment.

Climbing a 36-foot ladder, he entered the store from a roof ventilator. Then he hid the ladder and closed the ventilator. Opening a rear window, he went to has car for his safecracking tools and set to work on his weekend chores.

Using his tools, he cut the 3,100-pound safe from its moorings, built a dummy safe of boxes and then ripped open the big safe, which involved blasting away the outer shell and a second coating of four-inch thick reinforced concrete.

The 2000-pound steel inner shell was placed on a dolly, cut from a steel laundry tub, and rolled out the back window to the car. The dolly was then tied to the car with rope.

But on the getaway attempt early Monday morning, the elaborate plan collapsed: The dolly became unhooked and the strongbox tumbled into a ditch.

Weeks said he decided to wait around in his car until nightfall before making another effort to haul away his loot. Thomsen said he thought Weeks was stationed there by his accomplices as a guard.

It would have been a long wait for nightfall. Weeks was captured around noon. It didn't get dark until 5 p. m.

Brawley said it is possible that Benson and Dulles both will be called before the committee to report on the Ladejinsky case.

THE FIRING of Ladejinsky, a specialist on land-reform problems, has kicked up a storm.

The Russian-born attache was chosen for the job by Gen. Douglas MacArthur to help postwar Japan restore her agricultural industry. Ladejinsky has lived in the United States many years and is a naturalized citizen.

Harold E. Stassen, Foreign Operations (FPA) Administrator, has declared publicly he believes Ladejinsky contributed significantly to the fight against communism in Japan.

State Department officials also are reported to have protested against Ladejinsky's removal, and Japanese government leaders are reported upset over his dismissal.

learned the dead man had an insurance policy for $319 and increased the bill to that amount. Goldstein said the undertaker also learned that the man had been on relief and applied to the Welfare Department for payment of the $319 bill.

GOLDSTEIN'S REPORT said that the undertaker also learned the man had $554 and unsuccessfully sought to have himself appointed administrator of the estate, stating that if he was appointed he would pay his bill from the assets.

The attorney general said the undertaker was paid in full by the family before the funeral, and the family later learned it had been charged $25 for preserving the body.

Goldstein called for the closing of "all loopholes for the unscrupulous operator," and said officials should be empowered to supervise more efficiently the payment of welfare funds for funeral expenses.

Bergen Jury

Of the indictments sought today, Calissi said their purpose was to speed the extradition of "at least" two men to New Jersey in connection with the case. The two men weren't identified. However, of four men arrested on conspiracy charges, White is in Florida and 52-year-old Carmen Priore of New York is held in Manhattan in $50,000 bail to await arraignmnent there on Thursday.

Cobb and Taffee are being held without bail in the county jail here. Taffee and White both deny any knowledge of the purported attempt on Hall's life.

Hall is secretary-treasurer of the Atlantic and Gulf coast districts of the 75,000-members Seafarers' Union. White is local business agent of the SIU.

patched to 8 Cordts street and Engine 2 from Cornell, Truck 1 and Engine 1 from Central and Rapid Hose to 21 Ravine street.

At 9:37 p. m. yesterday Engine 2 from Cornell was dispatched to 21 Ravine street where a mattress and some rubbish in the rear of the home was burning. The debris, part of the material which had been removed from the home earlier in the day, was extinguished with a booster line.

Firemen responded to a call from the Holland Hotel, 608 Broadway, at 4:58 a. m. on Christmas Day where a burning mattress had been discovered in an unoccupied room on the second floor.

IT WAS REPORTED by Ralph Cooper, a tenant of the hotel, who occupies Room 10 just above the room in which the mattress was discovered, the Kingston Fire Department said. Cooper notified Janet Williams who was in charge during the absence of the proprietor, Peter Telepas.

Engine 1 and Truck 1 from Central, Engine 3 and Truck 2 from Wiltwyck and Engine 4 from Wicks were dispatched to the three-story building owned by Dwyer Bros.

The fire was confined to the room. The only damage reported besides that to the mattress was a blistered wainscoting. Considerable smoke was reported on the second and third floors.

At 10:02 a. m. Saturday a brush fire in the rear of 150 Broadway was extinguished with a booster line from Engine 2, Cornell Station.

A "LEAN-TO" at one side of a two-story frame building at 32 East Pierpont street was destroyed by fire at 1:18 p. m. Saturday, the fire department reported. The fire broke out when an oil stove exploded, it was said. The rear door and window of the main building was also damaged, the fire department reported, and there was slight water damage. The building is owned by A. Bahl & Sons.

A rubbish fire in the rear of D. Samuels and Son, 583 Broadway, was extinguished with Indian pumps by the crew of Engine 1 from Central at about 3 p. m. Sunday. The fire was reported to be in some wooden crates.

The floor, curtains, wainscoting and partition in a kitchen of the first floor apartment occupied by Carrie Lezette, 11 West Union street, was damaged Sunday afternoon when fire broke out in a kitchen range. Considerable smoke damage was reported. Flames were extinguished with soda acid extinguishers.

Denmark is about half the size of Indiana.

Stapp Is Planning

200 M.P.H. faster than the record of 421 Stapp set last March 19. And it was about nine-tenths of the speed of sound which was 714 M.P.H. under altitude and temperature conditions at Holloman that day.

On the March run, pictures showed Stapp's face distorted into grotesque shapes.

On the later run Stapp collected two black eyes and was blinded 8½ minutes but reported no other ill effects except for some small blood blisters from dust particles in the air.

During the 5 seconds of acceleration, Stapp was subjected to about nine G's, or nine times the pressure of gravity. It blacked out his eyesight for about two seconds. From top speed to a complete stop took 1.4 seconds subjecting the rider to an average pressure of 27 times the force of gravity for more than a second.

"I saw bright yellow and then vivid red," he said. "The pain was intense. So intense that I recall very little of the G pressure in stopping."

Water brakes stopped the sled 32 feet from the end of the rails.

With no windshield to protect him, Stapp had a plastic helmet and clear plastic visor to cover his face. The helmet was fixed to the backrest of the seat so wind and pressures could not twist and break his neck. Straps held him securely in the seat.

A bachelor who incidentally lives on Lovers Lane in Alamogordo, N. M., Stapp has an M.D. degree from the University of Minnesota and a PH.D. from the University of Texas.

He now looks forward to the next test and probably a faster ride. The effect of wind pressures will be gauged when Stapp rides behind a windscreen that will be opened at top speed to let the wind blast slam him at about 24 pounds per square inch.

Again it will be a volunteer ride for "the fastest man on earth."

Newburgh Man Injured in Car

Gilbert Dillard, 56, of 126 Smith avenue, Newburgh, received an apparently minor injury to his legs when an automobile driven by his son, Gilbert Jr., 19, was in collision with another automobile on Route 9W a mile and a half north of Marlborough about 12:10 p. m. Monday, state police at Highland reported.

The other automobile was driven by Louise Insanger, 54, of Maplewood, N. J., troopers said. The Insanger vehicle turned over off the highway after the impact, state police reported, but Mrs. Insanger apparently was unhurt, according to the report.

If cake frosting becomes too thick, stir in a teaspoon of hot water, or more if needed.

No Korean Fatalities

Seoul, Dec. 28 (AP)—The U. S. 8th Army reported today there were no traffic fatalities or injuries on "dusty winding" roads of Korea in the Christmas weekend, compared to more than 350 traffic deaths in the United States during the period.

Stapp Is Planning

200 M.P.H. faster than the record of 421 Stapp set last March 19. And it was about nine-tenths of the speed of sound which was 714 M.P.H. under altitude and temperature conditions at Holloman that day.

On the March run, pictures showed Stapp's face distorted into grotesque shapes.

On the later run Stapp collected two black eyes and was blinded 8½ minutes but reported no other ill effects except for some small blood blisters from dust particles in the air.

During the 5 seconds of acceleration, Stapp was subjected to about nine G's, or nine times the pressure of gravity. It blacked out his eyesight for about two seconds. From top speed to a complete stop took 1.4 seconds subjecting the rider to an average pressure of 27 times the force of gravity for more than a second.

"I saw bright yellow and then vivid red," he said. "The pain was intense. So intense that I recall very little of the G pressure in stopping."

Water brakes stopped the sled 32 feet from the end of the rails.

With no windshield to protect him, Stapp had a plastic helmet and clear plastic visor to cover his face. The helmet was fixed to the backrest of the seat so wind and pressures could not twist and break his neck. Straps held him securely in the seat.

A bachelor who incidentally lives on Lovers Lane in Alamogordo, N. M., Stapp has an M.D. degree from the University of Minnesota and a PH.D. from the University of Texas.

He now looks forward to the next test and probably a faster ride. The effect of wind pressures will be gauged when Stapp rides behind a windscreen that will be opened at top speed to let the wind blast slam him at about 24 pounds per square inch.

Again it will be a volunteer ride for "the fastest man on earth."

Newburgh Man Injured in Car

Gilbert Dillard, 56, of 126 Smith avenue, Newburgh, received an apparently minor injury to his legs when an automobile driven by his son, Gilbert Jr., 19, was in collision with another automobile on Route 9W a mile and a half north of Marlborough about 12:10 p. m. Monday, state police at Highland reported.

The other automobile was driven by Louise Insanger, 54, of Maplewood, N. J., troopers said. The Insanger vehicle turned over off the highway after the impact, state police reported, but Mrs. Insanger apparently was unhurt, according to the report.

No Korean Fatalities

Seoul, Dec. 28 (AP)—The U. S. 8th Army reported today there were no traffic fatalities or injuries on "dusty winding" roads of Korea in the Christmas weekend, compared to more than 350 traffic deaths in the United States during the period.
